HELD UNDER $500 BAIL.

Four Of The Alleged Safe Blowers Given A Hearing Friday—Sun Almanac In Evidence.

The four alleged safeblowers who have been in jail here since Friday, May 18th, charged with burglarizing the B. C. & A.Ry passenger station, were given a hearing before Justice W. A. Trader Friday. Frank Smith and Robert Taylor, alias Pennel, of the four, were represented by Ellegood Freeny, and Wailes. Frank Matthews and James Hawkins had no attorneys. State's Attorney Bailey was assisted by A. M. Jackson. The trial was set for 9 o'clock, but did not begin until about 9.30. At noon an adjournment took place until 2 o'clock. The hearing was held in the Court room,to accommodate the crowd.

The prisoners filed into the room accompanied by a corps of officers,but were not confined in any manner. They were a sharp looking lot. Smith,or "Specs," is an exceptionally bright looking young fellow. He appears to be about 30 years of age. Taylor (or Pennel),is also an intelligent looking chap. Hawkins is nothing but a boy. Matthews is the least prepossessing looking of the four. The first witness was Charles Watson, agent at the station. He testified as to the condition of the office and the safe when he left. at 11 o'clock the night before the burglary and at 6.30 o'clock the next morning. He further testified that entrance hadbeen effected through the window and he found smears of blood on the window-frame.

W. S. Parker was the next man on the stand. He testified to seeing the five men pass his house shortly after the explosion.

The only other witnesses examined were Dr. J. McF. Dick and the young man named Lecates, who lives with W. D. Pettit, and who drove the wounded man to the hospital. Dr. Dick removed the piece of steel from the wounded man's back, he stated, and afterward fitted it into the safe door. It matched a broken place precisely. Lecates positively identified all four men. He swore that he saw them plainly by the moonlight, fixing the time at about 2.30 to 2.45 o'clock. His evidence was most positive. He stated that the moon was an hour or so high. Lecates further stated that young Hawkins helped him hitch up the horse and that he talked to all the men. It was, he said, from an hour to an hour and a half before he started for Salisbury with the wounded man after the men first arrived at the farm house.

The defense offered a Baltimore Sun almanac in evidence, to show by it that the moon did not rise on May 18th until 3 oclock. The state contended that the almanac in question was wrong. Another almanac was afterward produced that gave an earlier hour for the moon to rise. At the conclusion of the examination of the above witness the case was submitted to the Justice, who held all four prisoners under $500, bail for trial at Court. The only out of town officers attending the trial was Pennsylvania R. R. detective Ward, who thinks this gang is the one which blew open two or three safes on the line of that road recently.

HIGH PRICES FOR BERRIES.

Owing To The Shortage In The Crop Strawberries Sell Better Than For Several Years.

Owing to the frost and drouth the crop of strawberries in this locality has been cut about 40 per cent. In other sections the crop is even shorter, in some instances being as much as 75 per cent. The result has been very high prices for berries that are of good quality. Last week good stock sold on the platform at Pittsville for from 8 to 18 cents and the sales during the week would average 11 cents. At Bridgeville and Selbyville, Del., and at several places in Maryland, similar prices were paid, the growers reaping a harvest.

The rain Sunday and Monday did late berries a tremendous amount of good. It came too late to help the early crop very much, but undoubtedly caused more of these early varities to be marketed. Gandy berries especially were helped very greatly.The prices went off a little on Monday and Tuesday and to some extent on Wednesday, because some of the berries went into market soft and sandy. For these even, however, 6 to 8 cents was paid. First class stock kept up and brought from 12 to 18 cents.

Practically all the berries are being shipped in Armour's refrigerator cars. Shipments on the N. Y. P. & N. R. R. fell off, but on the B. C. & A. Ry. 10 to 14 cars per day were shipped during the week. The special berry train service on the B. C. & A. Ry. will continue through next week and probably through the week after, as Gandy berries will be running heavy. Staton, Sweet & Co. expect to ship 20 cars per day part of next week and likely part of the week after. Of these, 10 cars will go forward from stations on the N. Y. P. & N. R. R. and 10 from B. C. & A. Ry points.

Prices on Thursday and Friday were quoted in the cities at from 6 to 18 cents, with good berries in brisk demand at the high price. Though the crop will be short, it is estimated that growers will realize in the neighborhood of 100 per cent. more for it than was realized last year.

Found Under Main Street.

In tearing up Main street to lay gas mains much history of the old town of Salisbury, that is causing great interest, is being revealed. By following the old curb lines and observing the foundations of the street itself, a picture of what it once must have been takes form in the mind's eye, amusing to contemplate.

After the fire of 1886 the street was widened two and half feet, and it was evidently widened before this probably at the fire of 1860, as the curb lines indicate that the old street was a foot or two narrower even than it stood previous to the 1886 conflagration, and it must have been a queer old street 100 years ago, scarcely more than a lane. The street has also filled up considerably, portions of stone crossings having been found at least 18 inches below the present surface.

Foundations of the street when wood was used to form a corduroy road have been found and above this is a layer of soil and then shells. Remains of two wells have been uncovered, in one of which stood a cypress pump. The wood of this is still sound. It must be at least 100 years old. A number of Salisbury's citizens remember when these wells were open and used as town pumps or wells.

The gas people have also partially torn up the brick paving put down 9 years ago by Thomas H. Mitchell. Of this, the top course of bricks is only worn away about one-quarter. The bottom layer is not injured in the slightest. This speaks well for Mr. Mitchell's brick. He states that he is now making a much superior brick to the ones torn up. It is likely that bricks of his manufactura will figure in the new paving to be undertaken.

Perpetuity Of Fraternal Insurance.

Much has been written and said regarding the increasing cost of Fraternal Insurance as the society grows older, but men who reason from effect and back to cause—and every effect must have a cause behind it—will agree that it is not the age of the society that has caused an increased cost, but rather, an abnormal accumulation of old members,brought about by admitting a class of men already old, supplemented by the natural accumulation of theyung men growing old with the society.

To illustrate—take your own family history for example—your father followed his father, you follow him, and your children follow you—thus you have a normal death rate. But take into your family several people from 50 to 60 years of age and your family death rate will be above normal for the next 10 or 15 years. The Modern Woodmen never take a man over 45 years of age, hence the only old man the society can ever have is the man who grows old with it—and the only man who can ever join must be young men—thus we make a natural death rate. The Woodmen is 24 years old and its death rate is only 5.43 per thousand members, or one eighth of one per cent higher than it was 15 years ago, and only four assessments have been called in the last seven months.

THE STREET COMMISSION.

Duties Of This Board In Connection With Laying Salisbury's Street Paving.

The City Council Monday night appointed Messrs. Thomas Perry, W. P. Jackson and W. J. Downing as a street Commission to act in conjunction with the Council in the work of laying Salisbury's street paving. The commission organized by electing Mr. Perry chairman and Mr. Jackson secretary.

The Commission on Monday night discussed with the Council in some detail their duties, but a further meeting is to be held next Monday night, at which the matter will be gone into thoroughly.

It is understood that the commission is to take charge of all preliminary work, in estimating on the cost, the grading and the material to be used for the different streets.

A preliminary survey has already been made but it is probable that the commission will be aided in their work by a competent engineer, to be employed until the work is completed, as the duties of the commission will extend to a supervision of the work whether done by contract or by the day.

The commission proposes to make an investigation and comparison of the various methods and to make final recommendations to the Council so that work can be begun in a comparatively short time. The law requires that all contracts made by the town shall be by the mayor and Council as its legal representatives. It is expected however, that the recommendations of the commission will be accepted and that they will practically have full charge of the paving operations, thus relieving the Council of much onerous duty.

Dwelling Struck By Lightening.

A storm passed over Salisbury Thursday evening between 6.30 and 7.30 o'clock that was exceptionally severe for this time of the year. Lightning was sharp and thunder heavy and the fall of rain was great for a short time. A gale of wind preceded the rainfall.

No damage of any consequence was done by the wind, but lightning struck the dwelling on the shell road, near J. G. West's store, owned and occupied by Mr. David Tingle, damaging it to the extent of probably $500. Mr. Tingle, his wife and four children were home at the time, but, providentially, they were not injured. The house was struck at the front and the lightning divided, one portion reaching the ground on the east side and the other on west side of the house. The family were in the kitchen and that room was not touched. Mr. Tingle however, had just come into the room from the back porch and had a narrow escape.

Plastering, weatherboarding and window glass flew in all directions when the bolt struck, some pieces of the woodwork flying clear across the street. Two or more corner posts of the house were torn out and other damage done which Mr. Tingle could not estimate until a careful examination had been made.

Just about the same time this bolt struck, Mr. Jerry Morris received a slight shock in John H. Furlow's grocery store, near the depot. Mr. Morris was at the desk working on the books when the electric light globe exploded alongside his head. Mr. Morris fell to the floor and was dazed for some few moments Dr. Louis Morris was called but found he was not badly hurt.

Coca Cola Parties.

Coca Cola parties at White & Leonard's drug store are becoming the vogue in Salisbury and most any time during the day, but especially between eleven and twelve o'clock in the morning, a crowd can be found there drinking this beverage. The men have been holding regular coca cola meetings there around this hour all winter, but recently the ladies have begun to go too. The Coca Cola advertising man was caught there at this time of the day on Tuesday and the number of tickets he used to "set 'em up" was a shame. It nearly emptied his satchel

Another favorite hour is about 8 o'clock in the evening. In fact, White & Leonard's coca cola has become one of the institutions of Salisbury. The way they have of mixing it seems to be just right and strangers, they say, who once drink a glass of White & Leonard's coca cola always come back for more. It is therefore an adjunct to the Board of Trade and Bureau of Immigration to attract settlers.

Young and old drink it, men, women and children. Some of the men drink two, three or as many as four or five a day. The concoction contains just enough cafeine, (the essence of coffee), to make it a mild and grateful stimulant. And the consumption of the syrup in the United States is enormous. It has been sold in bottles, carbonated, for the past year or two and large quantities are drank put up in this form.

There was sold in Salisbury in 1905, 456 gallons of the syrup. Only one other Eastern Shore town sold more, namely, Cambridge, in which place 596 gallons were drank during the year. Cambridge was third in the list of Maryland towns in the number of gallons consumed and Salisbury was fourth. Any Salisburian however is willing to make a good sized bet that no Cambridge drug store can make it as "good" as does White and Leonard's. The travelers say Cambridge cannot touch them. In 1906 it is hard to tell just how much coca cola Salisburians will drink. If the eleven o'clock and the eight o'clock parties keep up the town is sure to headthe list.

The success of the Coca Cola company, whose factory is located at Atlata, Ga., is largely due to advertising.

SOMETHING ABOUT YEGGS.

Police Deem Them The Most Dangerous Of Criminals—They Go About Country Blowing Safes And Never Balk At Murder.

The recent capture of yeggman who blew open the safe of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway at Salisbury, Md., has again drawn the attention of the county authorities, as wellas the city police, to the most dangerous class of criminals now operating in the United States.

Just how the term yegg originated no one knows exactly. Mr. William A. Pinkerton, one of the heads of the great private detective agency that bears his name, says that the term yegg is of gipsy origin, and that an expert and successful thief in a gipsy camp is always called the yegg, or chief thief. Other authorities have claimed that the term originated in the name of one John Yegg, a noted thief and hobo, who for many years operated sucessfully on the Pacific coast. At any rate, no matter how the term yeggman first came to be used as descriptive of bands of criminals who go about the country blowing open safes, the yegg is recognized by the police and by the rural authorities as the most dangerous of all dangerous criminals. The safe-blower of ten years ago was an entirely different kind of individual from the yeggman.

The safeblower of those days was generally a machinist with the mechanism of safes and bank vaults at his finger ends. His work was accomplished by drilling into the door or lock of the safe with highly tempered steel tools, filling the orifice with gunpowder and exploding it. The force of the explosion generally injured the lock, and the expert was enabled to manipulate it to his own satisfaction. The old time safe blower seldom took life; in fact, he would risk capture before attacking a watchman or citizen who might surprise him at his work.

The modern yeggman has no hesitation in shooting or clubbing. In fact, the "scouts" of the gang who stand outside the bank or building that is being robbed have been known to shoot watchmen, town constables, or any citizen who might perchance approach them.

The old-time bank-burglar gangs seldom comprised more than three. The yegg band consists of anywhere from 6 to 12 desperate men, in addition to the scouts, or "pathfinders," whom they send ahead to spy out the lay of the land. These scouts, or pathfinders, are generally beggars. Some of them feign deformities or injuries, and enter the store or bank that the gang intends robbing and ask for alms or food. The scout generally stays around the town several days, ascertaining the habits of the night watchmen or constables, if the town is of sufficient importance to possess such officials. He also finds the time of freight trains, the locations of watering tanks and coal chutes, for the gang frequently use freight trains as a means of escape from towns they have raided. To board a "rattler" is the yegg term for jumping a freight train, the conductor is styled the "head sack," the breakmen are "nibs," to be "ditched" is to be put off a freight train.

After the bank, postoffice or store to be robbed is thoroughly "spotted" the pathfinders return to the main body of the gang and make their report. The leaders hold a conference, and the work is systematically mapped out. The "soup cooks," or the men who make the nitro-glycerine, get to work. They have obtained sticks of ordinary dynamite. These are immersed in water and the material carefully crumbled up.

The nitro-glycerine, a clear, light straw colored fluid, remains at the bottom of the vessel. The water is carefully drained off, and this liquid placed in an ordinary bottle.

Frequently the bottle containing the nitro-glycerine is placed in a rubber water bottle, so that it will not explode by any chance shock or concussion.

The method of blowing a safe practiced by the yeggmen is beautiful in its simplicity. The cracks of the safe door are well filled with soap, except one small aperture. In front of this the yegg makes a cup of soap to hold any drippings of the fluid that may ooze from the cracks. The nitro-glycerine is then forced into the aperture above the cup by means of a bicycle pump until the cracks are well filled, and the liquid begans to drip into the cup. Then the fuse is attached and lighted, and the yeggs seek cover. The explosion is seldom loud, and generally the door of the safe is blown outward, as through from a blast of air. That the explosion occured prematurely when the safe was blown in Salisbury is probably due to the fact that the fuse, which one of the yeggs generally carries in his pocket, had become loose, and the glycerine ignited the moment a match was touched to the little roll of paper. Sometimes the "load" of glycerine is exploded by means of an electric battery, but this is seldom resorted to.

In the yegg gang every man has his appointed work and receives his share of the robberies. The chief, or "Johnny Yegg," who leads the band, is generally a man of intelligence and an expert at the work. To him goes the lion's share. The "soup cook" also receives a generous share, and the men who do the actual blowing receive a goodly portion, for their work is very dangerous. At any moment they are liable to be trapped in the place they are robbing, and, even if they escape this, they are liable to be struck by pieces of metal hurled from the safe by the force of the explosion, as was the case of the yeggman who was wounded by a piece of iron that was shot from the safe in Salisbury, and who now lies in a critical condition in the hospital at that town. This man gave the name of Charles Avery. It is probably an alias, and really his right name may not be known to the other members of the yegg band, but if it is, they only smile at the efforts of the police and detectives to get them to tell the indentity of their wounded comrade.

The yegg band is ruled entirely by the law of reprisal and force. Rebellion against the rules of the leader generally is answered by a revolver shot or a blow from a blackjack.—Baltimore Evening News.

SAN FRANCISCO HORROR.

It Was In Recording The Scenes Which Followed The Terrible Earthquake That Photographers Made Their Greatest Triumph.

It was in recording the scenes which followed the earthquake in San Francisco that photographers scored their greatest triumph. In recent years an effort has been made to make the newspapers and photography go hand in hand in recording great events but it has often happened that by the time the photographer got upon the ground the best scenes were over. In the San Francisco horror the photographers were there. That is the force of Miles Bros. was there because one of the main plants of the concern was in San Francisco.

The pictures taken by the brave photgraphers of Miles Bros. will be shown in Salisbury on June 2 at the Opera House. These pictures have been secured at a great expense because the pictures themselves were secured at the risk of life an limb by the members of the firm and their men. They were on the spot and faithfully they have recorded in moving pictures the swaying like reeds and the great skyscrapers, the total collapse and destruction of block after block, the panic of the people and their mad rush for safety, the heroic work of the firemen, soldiers and citizens, the shooting of the vandals and looters, the dynamiting and cannonading of buildings to stop the progress of the flames, the world's most beautiful park covered with tents for shelter of rich and poor alike who had lost their all. In fact they have recorded everything of interest before, during and after the calamity.

The people of Salisbury are fortunate in getting these pictures.

TO MEET AT SALISBURY.

Christian Endeavor Union To Hold State Convention Here.

The executive committee of the Maryland Christian Endeavor Union has accepted the invitation of the Salisbury societies to hold the next biennial convention in this city during the third week of October, and the "Salisbury 1906 Committee" were notified to that effect Monday by President Frederick Ohrenschall.

There is much interest in the convention in Salisbury, and Mayor Harper has signified his intention of bringing the matter of formal invitation from the municipal authorities before the City Council at their meeting next month.

The convention will be in session two days, and October 17 and 18 probably will be selected as the dates but the matter is left open pending transportation arrangements.

The day sessions will be held jointly in the Methodist Protestant and Presbyterian Churches and the evening sessions in the Opera House. Convention choruses of seniors and juniors will be organized, and Mr. Richard A. Harris, of Baltimore one of the directors of the international convention choruses of last year, will assist in the musical arrangements.

Delegates will be entertained without charge in the homes of the residents, and the Salisbury committee promises to do everything in its power to make the visit of the Endeavorers a memorable one. Side trips to Ocean City and elsewhere will be arranged.

President Ohrenschall, in behalf of the State Union, promises an unsually attractive program in the line of addresses, open parliaments and other features.

There are 275 senior and 150 junior societies in the Maryland Union, and an effort will be made to have at least one delegate sent by each society. There are 43 societies on the Eastern Shore.

The members of the Salisbury committee are:

Chairman, Rev. W. S. Phillips; vice-chairman, Mr. Walter Humphreys; secretary, Mr. James Malone; treasurer, Mr. W. E. Sheppard.

The officers of the Maryland Union are:

Col. Albert W. Sisk, of Preston, has been reelected president of the School Board of Caroline County, and Prof. E. M. Noble superintendent of schools.

About 200 negro men and women left Easton Friday and Saturday for the berryfields of Caroline, Worchester and Wicomico counties, and many house wives are without cooks, waiters and other help.

The J. H. K. Shannahan Artesian Well Co., of Easton, has been awarded the contract to sink a 1500 foot Artesian Well at Pocomoke City, by the mayor and city council of that place. Work will begin about the first of June.

A number of horsemen met in Chester town last Tuesday, and decided to hold a horse show in Chestertown on Tuesday, June 12th. The meeting organized by electing D. B. McMenamin, president; T D. Bowers, secretary; H. P. Skipper treasurer.

Louis Atwood who owns the Wilson farm on Red Hill, near Elkton, one day this week had a carload of supposed gold-bearing quartz, discovered on his farm, shipped to Denver, Col., to be assayed. It is claimed that the quartz will yield from $5 to $30 per ton.

The Methodist ministers of Delaware are all vigorously opposed to the running of trains on the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania on Sunday, but whether all the members and friends of the Methodist Church will boycott the trains or not will yet be seen.

It has been decided to remove the Maryland Delaware & Virginia Railway shops from Love Point to Denton. Superintendent Benjamin last Thursday gave assurance that this would be done, the people of Denton having secured sufficient land near the railroad at a price offered by the company.

Woodbury and Hampden, near Baltimore, are blighted by a typhoid fever scourge. A public meeting was held, 40 men and 26 carts put to work to clean up the town, and the force worked day and night, tons of fever-producing matter being re moved. Many towns, no doubt, might profit by the costly experience of Woodbury and Hampden.

One of the worst storms in recent years passed over Seaford Monday morning between 10 and 12 o'clock. Rain fell in torrents and thunder and lightning struck a tenant house on the farm of Mrs. S F. Moore, three miles from there in which 22 negro berrypickers were having an oldfashioned dance. One side of the house was torn completely away.

Sunday passenger trains were run over the Delaware Railroad May 27th for the first time in its history, and were as well patronized as on weekdays. They connected with trains on the Eastern Shore of Maryland except on N. Y. P. & N. R. R The Sunday trains are provided as an experiment in the summer schedule, and if liberally patronized will be made permanent.

The P. B & W. R. R it is said, will reduce its telegraphers' pay, after June 1, when the Maryland eight hour law takes effect, from $70 to $49.50 and from $55 to $44 per month. 18 new men will be required between Elkton and Washington, but telephones to be worked by train crews will be substituted in the Charlestown, Aberdeen, Bush River, Magnolia and Bengies towers. The operators will likely protest against the cut in wages.

Al Carter alias Wm. Jones, the young negro who killed his employer, Thomas Reinhart, a railroad contractor at Dorsey's Run, Md., April 7 and who since that time has succeeded in eluding the officers, was captured in Bridgetown, N. J., on day last week. The prisoner was "sweated" out by three officers and finally acknowledged that he killed his employer with a revolver. A reward of $1,050 was offered for his capture.

The County Commissioners of Worcester County at their last meeting decided to bond the county for $15,000 for the purpose of building stone and shell roads. This is done under the provisions of a bill introduced by Senator John P Moore at the last session of the Legislature. With the appropriation available from the state under the Shoemaker law the commissioners will have $37,200 to expend for building good roads. It is the intention of the commissioners to begin work at once so as to complete the roads before the winter.

The Maryland State Horticultural Society and the Peninsula Horticultural Society will hold a summer meeting at the farms of J. G Harrison & Son, Berlin, on August 8 and 9. A trip to Ocean City will be taken during the meeting. The program has not been completed, but Gov. Warfield is expected to make an address, and Professor John Craig, of Cornell University, will probably speak on some horticultural topic.

Judge Lloyd, in the Circuit Court at Snow Hill Monday afternoon delivered a short but very impressive lecture on the dangers attending the use of firearms by children and the carrying of weapons generally. The occasion of the Court's talk was the trial of Harry Jester, a colored boy about 15 years old, for manslaughter in causing the death of a colored boy named Douglass near Stockton last winter. The two boys were close friends and the evidence showed that the shooting was accidental. The boys were playing with the gun when it went off and Douglass was killed. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty, but requested the Court to reprimand the prisoner.

Quite a throng gathered in front of Mechanics' Hall on Tuesday afternoon to hear John H. Yetter hold forth on the possibilities of great strikes which he claimed to have made on the old McCormick farm in the Battle Swamp section. He showed a box of samples of rock and sand which he vowed were auriferous and exhibited bottles filled with rusty looking liquid which he proclaimed to be petroleum skimmed from a pond or pool in a depressed tract on the property. He essayed to show the liquid's combustibility with matches and newspapers, but with indifferent success. An interested auditor of Yetter's flow of talk was Col. S. B. Foard, Elkton's oil Croesus in posse, who has abiding faith in his Texas holdings, but accepted the Woodlawn boomers assertions perhaps with due allowance for "salt."—Cecil Whig

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea-spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1906.

Why Not Use Northern Central Annuity For Good Roads.

The State of Maryland, it is said, intends, under the present State administration, to sell out its railroad interests entirely. As will be remembered, during the recent session of the Legislature the holdings of the State in the B. & O. R. R., Washington Branch, were disposed of. It is now proposed to sell the Northern Central annuity bonds of $1,500,000, paying $90,000 per year.

The estimated market value of the annuity is $3,000,000. On this basis it would pay 3 per cent., and it is considered as good as government bonds. The railroad itself, it is thought, will pay this sum for it.

An embarrassment facing the State administration is what to do with the money in case the annuity bonds are sold. If $3,000,000 is realized for them, the State debt could be wiped out. But there are several formalities to be gone through.

Why not sell the annuity bonds and spend the money throughout the State for good roads, apportioned to the counties in accordance with their mileage, the same as the $200,000 per year is apportioned under the Shoemaker Road Law? It would be by far the most popular move any State government has made for years, or could make for a century. It would benefit everybody. If it were done, the State would be covered with first-class highways, and the counties could easily keep them in repair at less than they now spend. In fact, the expenditure of the sum could be made contingent upon the county agreeing to keep the roads up to a required standard.

We hope our Board of Public Works will take this suggestion up seriously. We guarantee it would meet with public approval, and the money could not be better invested.

Result Of Wicomico County's Re-assessment.

The re-assessment of personal property in Wicomico is not yet entirely completed, and the schedules have therefore not been enumerated in total; enough has been done, however, to be able to state that the levy will be struck next Tuesday, and that in round figures $1,000,000 will be added to the taxable basis by the canvass. It is believed that the work has been done with care and is reasonably accurate. It has been demonstrated, moreover, that some such action by the Commissioners will be necessary every year or two if all the personal property that should be taxed is properly on the books.

A disappointment to many who hoped great things from the present Board of Commissioners is the fact that no effort has been made to revise the values of real estate. All newly built houses have been added to the lists, but there has been no revision whatever of the real estate in the county as it has stood for the past ten years. This is in spite of the fact that in some few isolated instances the Board has even been communicated with and informed that their taxing estimate of the value of the informer's property was too low. There is no doubt in the world but that a tremendous amount of the real estate in Wicomico does not bear its just proportion of taxes. The whole list should have been carefully and thoroughly gone over.

In assessing new properties that have been built during the past year or so the values have been put higher in proportion than buildings that were erected previous to this time. The new buildings therefore are being compelled to pay more taxes in proportion than those which are older (not old). There is much complaint and criticism of the Board in view of the above fact.

Numerous instances of the extra high valuation might be cited, but it seems to have been the universal rule to tax properties put on the books this year at about two-thirds of their cost, while the older buildings are not down for more than one-half or less. This is an inequality that should not have been allowed to exist. If the Board is not informed as to the facts they can be very easily enlightened. Under the circumstances they may expect much unfavorable criticism.

It seems to be the opinion of the majority that the only proper manner to assess taxes is to assess the full value of property and then lower the rate. This, we think, will ultimately result from the strong objection that has been stirred up to the present system.

Mrs. Moore's School.

The pupils of Mrs. Moore delighted the friends and patrons of her school last Friday afternoon with a well arranged and splendidly executed program. The occasion was upon the completion of the year's work in the Gay street school building. The building was taxed to its utmost capacity, and for over an hour the children, with song and story, made the welkin ring. Everyone entered into the spirit of the exercises, from the youngest tot to the "elder" of the school, Mr. Thomas McKoy. Altogether, the occasion was most happy, and both the teacher and the pupils are to be congratulated upon presenting an afternoon of so much profit and pleasure after the year's work. Following the exercises the guests of the school were bountifully served to refreshments.

A "Delightful Party."

A party of about twenty-six ladies and gentlemen spent a most "delightful" afternoon and evening at "Delight Farm" on Thursday. They were driven to the farm from Hebron. The fun began immediately. They devoted the afternoon to "delightful" games on the spacious green lawn, and after a "delightful" supper served on the piazza, spent a whole "delightful" evening dancing.

The guests discovered that it was Mrs. Dicks' birthday and took advantage of the opportunity to present her with a bronze clock and side vases as a small token of friendship. Mrs. Dick is a charming and "delightful" hostess, and, taking all things into consideration, it was about the most "delightful" time ever experienced by a crowd of young people from Salisbury.

FROM FENWICK TO OCEAN CITY.

Monorail Road Will Soon Be Built. Beginning Of A Railway Which May Extend From The Atlantic Coast To Tolchester.

Work will begin shortly on a monorail road from Fenwick Island to Ocean City, Md The distance is less than 10 miles. It is expected that the road will be in operation by July 1.

The Ocean City Development Company, composed largely of Baltimoreans, is encouraging the proposed road. The new owners of Fenwicks Island, who are rapidly developing their property, are also favorable to the project. Surveys have been made by Mr. Frank H. Sloan, of Baltimore who will construct the road. He will also build a monorail road at the Jamestown Exposition.

The line from Fenwick to Ocean City will be the beginning of a railway which is projected to extend from the Atlantic Ocean to Tolchester, between which place and Baltimore there will be quick and frequent steamboat service, thus bringing the Eastern Shore into more rapid communication with Baltimore Ample authority for the construction of the line was conferred by the last legislature.

The company is authorized to build its lines into Baltimore. It also has power to consolidate with other railway lines.

The system of locomotion is that invented by Mr. Howard H. Tunis, of Baltimore. Its practicability has been demonstrated on the experimental line at Windsor Hills. The American Monorail Company is the owner of the invention. The officers of the company are.

H. C. Turnbull, Jr., president: E. L. Tunis, vice president; John A Henkus, secretary; J. Coleman Drayton, of New York, treasurer. Directors—Henry W. Williams, Bartlett S. Johnston, Gardiner C. Sims, Howard H. Tunis, Philip Lawrence, Olin Bryan and William A. Mellen.

The monorail cars (which are cars that run on one rail only) will be about 50 feet long and cigar-shaped. They will be slightly narrower than the ordinary street car, and the seats, instead of running across the car, will face each side, except over the trucks, where they will be crosswise, and at the front and rear of the cars, where there will be three seats. Every passenger in the car will have a separate seat.

It is estimated that the cost of constructing the monorail line will be about three-fourths of the cost of constructing a similar road by the trolley system.—Baltimore American.

Look At The Question Broadly.

To the average Democrat the Tariff is a local issue, just as it was to their Presidential candidate of a quarter of a century ago, General Hancock. The Republicans took at the question broadly. In the Republican programme every article of importance which is produced at home, and which needs Protection at the custom house, ought to get it. There are neither partisan or sectional lines in the Republican creed. The Republicans defend the Louisana sugar producers with the same intelligence and persistence that they back up the Pennsylvania iron and steel workers.

Louisiana gives the Rupublicans no votes, but the Republican party legislates for the benefit of that State just as it does for Massachusetts, Ohio and the rest of the Republican commonwealths. If the Democrats want to do an especial favor for the Republican party they will make an assault on the Tariff along the whole line in the congressional canvass. This would add a good many votes to the Republican preponderance in the next House, and thus help to extend the country's prosperity at home and add to its credit all over the world.—St. Louis "Globe-Democrat."

Says "Specs" Stole Them.

Detective Peter B. Bradley, of the headquarters force recovered a large quantity of goods Saturday evening from a house in East Baltimore, which, he says, were shipped to this city by Frank Smith, alias Reese, alias "Specs," one of the five alleged safeblowers under arrest at Salisbury Md.

The detective said he heard that Emma Fisher, 1410 Mullikin street had received a letter from him since his arrest in Salisbury.

He said he went to the house and the woman admitted hat she had a letter and allow-Detective Bradley to copy it.

In the letter Smith is said to have stated that he could not expect any favors from the girl after the way he had treated her but he declared he was innocent of the charge upon which he is held, and asked her to go to a certain place and get a package which would be there for her.

Detective Bradley went to the place and he got to wooden cases. The cases contained 2 bolts of cloth, 29 shirtwaists 15 nightgowns, 40 pairs of hose, 10 pairs of suspenders and other articles. All the goods are new, and the detective declares Smith stole them after he left there May 3. He knows the boxes were received here last week, just a short time previous to the arrests. The goods are at headquarters and are being held for identification.—Mondays' Baltimor Sun.

Marshal Farman Friday last received from the police of Philadelphia photograph and description of a man known to the officials of that city as Michael Harris, whom the Marhal says is none other than the Salisbury safe blower who gave his name there as Frank Matthews.

The identity of the fourth man, who was wounded by a piece of steel which was blown from the safe, has not been discovered as yet, though the police believe he is a well-known crook. He gave his name in the Salisbury Hospital where he is at present, as Charles Avery.—Baltimore News.

—The program for Commencement week at the Maryland Agricultural College, College Park, on June 10 to 13th, for which invitations have been sent out is most interesting. At the latter exercises, the principal address will be delivered by Hon. Isaac Lobe Straus, and the presentation of displomas will be by Governor Warfield.

—A change in schedule took effect on the N. Y. P. & N. Ry. and Pennsylvania R. Salisbury passengers therefore have no parlor car accommodations on these trains south of Harrington There is considerable objection to this arrangement on the part of Salisbury people It is said, however, that patronage of this car was light below Dover.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON X, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 3.

Text of the Lesson, Mark vii, 24-30. Memory Verse, 30—Golden Text, Matt. xv, 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.]

After shepherding the shepherdless 5,000 so fully He constrained His disciples to return in the boat while He sent the multitudes away whose souls and bodies He had ministered to so graciously and compassionately. Then He went away into a mountain to pray. Misunderstood by the people who would by force make Him a king after seeing His power, and also by the twelve to whom He was a constant mystery. He always found relief by turning to His Father in heaven. The disciples in the storm tossed boat, toiling in rowing against a contrary wind, and Jesus away on the mountain top, seemingly neglectful of them, is quite a picture of this present age, during which the church seems to make little progress against the adverse circumstances and the Great Head of the church is at the Father's right hand in heaven. But He will come in the morning watch, and immediately all her troubles will cease (John vi, 21).

When they had landed, the people hastened to bring to Him all the sick and diseased, and as many as touched Him were made whole. About this time He preaches the great discourse of John vi, and afterward to the Pharisees gives His scathing words concerning mere outward washings, saying, "This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me" (Mark vii, 6). When His disciples told Him that He had offended the Pharisees, He replied: "Let them alone. • • • Every plant which my Heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up" (Matt. xv, 12-14). Then He went away into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and it seems to me that He went to be refreshed by the faith of this woman, for He knew that she was there, and He saw her faith before ever He went near her (II Chron. xvi, 9; Heb. iv, 13). Nothing seems to refresh Him like faith in Him, without which it is impossible to please Him (Heb. xi, 6). How often He said to the disciples, who ought to have known Him and trusted Him beyond all others, "O ye of little faith" (Matt. vi, 30; viii, 26; xiv, 31; xvi, 8), but to this one He said, "O woman, great is thy faith," and of the Roman centurion He said, "I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel" (Matt. xv, 28; viii, 10). To Martha and Mary in their darkest hour He said, "If thou would'st believe thou should'st see the glory of God," and to Thomas, "Blessed are they that have not seen, yet have believed" (John xi, 40; xx, 29). There is no way to bring His joy and peace to our hearts but by believing, and no other way to overcome the world (Rom. xv, 13; I John v, 4).

How suggestive the saying, "He could not be hid," and yet in many who hear His name He seems to be hidden, for no one would know by their words or works that they belong to Him, and this notwithstanding the command, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven" (Matt. v, 16).

The account of this incident in Matthew is much more full than in Mark, and there we learn that the woman first cried, "Have mercy upon me, O Lord, thou Son of David." Her next cry was, "Lord, help me," and the third, which alone Mark gives us, "Truth, Lord, yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their master's table." To her first cry Jesus answered not a word, possibly because as Son of David she had no right to expect aught from Him, she being a gentile. His remark to the disciples, "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel" (Matt. xv, 24), would imply this. As Lord in her second cry He could help her, but, knowing how much she could bear, He in His infinite wisdom saw fit to test her further by His remark about the children and the dogs. This last drew from her the cry that prevailed and from Him the blessed words, "O woman, great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt." "For this saying go thy way; the devil is gone out of thy daughter." The faith that prevails is that which takes the lowest place in reference to ourselves and gives to Him His rightful place. It has the persistence of Jacob, "I will not let thee go except thou bless me" (Gen. xxxii, 26), and the humility of Job, "I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth thee, wherefore I abhor myself and repent in dust and ashes" (Job xlii, 5, 6). See how the mother's faith prevailed for the daughter who was not present and possibly was so tormented that she was not in a condition to exercise any faith herself. Compare the nobleman's faith for his son and the centurion's for his servant (John iv and Matt. viii) and the faith of the four for their palsied friend (Matt. ix, 2).

See how even the children become possessed by demons and learn from this mother how to have them healed. A friend of mine told me of his little boy whom he could not subdue by any kind of moral suasion or wise chastening, and in despair, believing him to be possessed by demons, he obeyed the command, "Bring him hither to me!" and the Lord delivered and healed him. It is so easy to give place to the devil in the case of a precocious child, calling the work of the evil one cleverness on the part of the child, but alas for the result. A wise parent will remember that the carnal mind, which is enmity against God, may be seen in a very little child and will prayerfully watch against it.

A Cubic Foot of Gold.

If some millionaire agreed to give you a cubic foot of pure gold if you should put it in a sack and carry it a mile, do you think you would be equal to the task? Certainly you are confident of your ability to perform the task, but there would not be the least danger of the man of money losing his gold cube. Such a lump of virgin gold would weigh a few grains over 1,203 pounds.

Doctors' Latin.

At its best it must be admitted that doctors' Latin is, in the words of a distinguished professor, "doggy and mediaeval." For our own part we would go so far as to say that it is more "doggy" than mediaeval. At its worst it is a monstrum horrendum with which no respectable dog would own kinship.—British Medical Journal.

Cigars Before Breakfast.

"The proper time to test a cigar or stogy is in the morning before breakfast," said a tobacconist. "Naturally, early morning smoking is not healthy, but it is very discriminating. Try it by smoking samples of your favorite brands in the early morning and you can depend upon your judgment."—Pittsburg Press.

Three crates of berries will buy from us a Fine Suit of Clothes—as fine as a millionaire wears. To be a millionaire therefore (in clothes) buy your new suit with your strawberry money from Nock Brothers.

We have a new store—that is, a new store to you since last strawberry time. It is located where the Farmers & Merchants Bank used to keep. We have a new stock, strictly up-to-date, of everything a man wears—and some things women wear.

The burglars who blew open the B. C. & A. Ry. Co's. safe a few weeks ago passed our store by. Why? Because our profits are so small we haven't got a safe—don't need one. We're selling cheap this year because we want your trade. In fact we give some things away. Come in and see what we have. Doesn't cost anything to look.

Next year we will want the real value of our goods—ask more for them. But the fellow who buys from us this year won't want a new suit next year. His this-year's-suit will be as good as new. They're not iron-clad, but they're the best wearing clothes in town, and we guarantee a less price.

Other things in our stock are according. There's no use quoting prices—we don't want our creditors to know what we're selling at. They might close us up.

But for $15—fifteen little dolars—$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$—we will give you a Suit of Clothes that will make you the best-dressed man in your neighborhood.

Come and see us. If you find one thing overdrawn or untrue in the above we will make you a present of a New Stetson Hat, or better still, a Nock's Special.

We are after the strawberry money you are going to spend, and we are bound to have it if values will bring it.

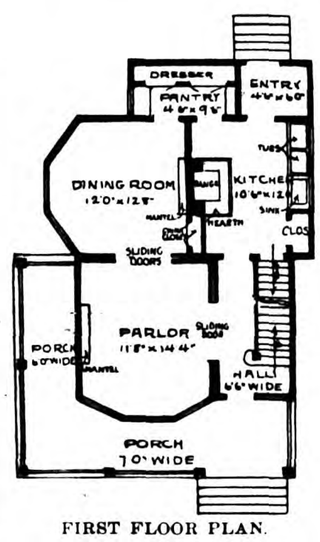
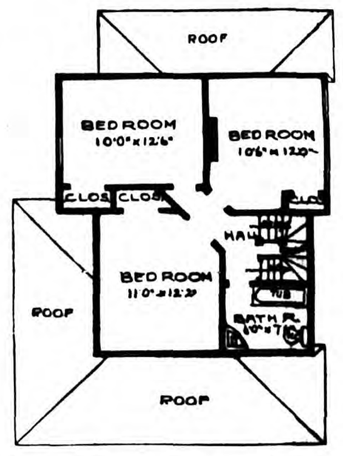
Attractive Modern Home With All Improvements at an Estimated Cost of $2,000.

Copyright, 1906, by Stanley A. Dennis, 254 Broadway, New York.

FRONT ELEVATION.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

The modern house herewith presented was designed to cost $2,000. It has all the conveniences, including electric bells and wiring for electric lights.

There is a cellar under the entire house, with cement floor, coal bins, cold storeroom and a hot air furnace. The cellar walls are of stone.

The frame is of spruce and hemlock, and the walls are sheathed, papered and sided. The main roof is shingled. The exterior ornamental work is of composition.

The floors are laid with comb grained North Carolina pine tongued and grooved boards. The trim is of kiln dried cypress in the first story and of whitewood on the second floor, finished in the natural wood. The stairs are of oak, except the attic stairs, which are boxed in yellow pine. The mantels are of oak, with bevel plated mirrors and solid tile facings.

The kitchen and pantry contain shelves to suit, with closets, drawers, etc.

The dining room is fitted with a handsome china closet. The bathroom and kitchen have open sanitary plumbing and fixtures.

This makes a cozy little house for one with moderate means.

STANLEY A. DENNIS.

Moliere, Scott and Homer.

"As Moliere never had the heart to draw a jealous woman among all his pictures of men who knew, like himself, the torments of jealousy, so Scott never had the heart to draw a young and beautiful woman who is wicked," writes Andrew Lang. "This ancient familiar source of poignant interest he passes by, out of his great chivalry. There was nothing to prevent him from writing a romance on the passionate, wretched tale of the once beautiful Ulrica in 'Ivanhoe,' a fair traitress driven on the winds of revenge, treachery and parricide. Here was a theme for a 'realistic' novel of England after the conquest, but Scott sketches it lightly as a Thyestean horror in the background. In his work such a piece of 'realism' stands alone, like the story of Phoenix in Homer's work (in the ninth book of the 'Iliad'). Both artists, Scott and Homer, had a sense of reverence for human things. They did not lack the imagination necessary for the portrayal of the evil and terrible, but they did not seek success in that popular region."

Huxley and Lewes.

Here is an anecdote once related by Herbert Spencer—who, by the way, was rather heavy in hand when he undertook to play story teller. Apropos of Huxley's humor he described a dinner of distinguished authors:

Over their cigarettes they fell to discussing their various methods of commencing to write. One said he wrote and wrote, tore up, then wrote again, and so on.

George Lewes, who was present, looked surprised, and then cried out:

"Oh, I'm not like that! I commence to write at once, directly the pen is in my hand. In fact, I boil at a low temperature."

"Indeed," cut in Mr. Huxley, "that is very interesting, for, as you know, to boil at a low temperature implies a vacuum in the upper region."

Lewes himself was the first to lead the shout of laughter which of course greeted this clever repartee.

Superb "Nerve" of a Hat Seeker.

"Oh, but the 'nerve' of some women is worth a fortune to them!" groaned a girl at luncheon in a department store. "I've been trying to get a hat. Upstairs in the millinery department I tried on hats until my arms ached pinning them on, and the saleswoman got purple with rage because none suited me. In walked a grenadier sort of woman, with a scared looking maid carrying a big paper bag. This woman sniffed around, turned hats upside down and almost inside out and finally looked over the untrimmed shapes. She picked out one. Drawing a chair before the biggest mirror in the place, she sat down and had the maid empty the contents of that bag in her lap. It held feathers, flowers and ribbons. Then she began to pin on feathers here, a flower there and to try the effect of a bow in another place. She even had the maid hold a trimmed hat while she copied it! The attendants seemed fascinated, for no one said a word. And that in a store, mind you, where the salesgirls ask you sarcastically whether you are looking for something cheap if you refuse to put down $35 on a hat they select for you."—New York Press.

E Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension, says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last Febuary. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back.

The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

Exercises In Ulman's Opera House Four Evenings—Banquet Friday Evening—Bishop Coleman's Fine Address.

The exercises incidental to the closing of the school year at the Wicomico High School have taken place four evenings this week, and Friday evening the grand finale came with the annual class banquet in the High School building. All of the exercises have been very largely attended, and the usual great interest has been evinced in the graduation of the class at Wicomico's chief school. About 250 guests were expected at the banquet Friday evening.

While all of the events during the week were of importance, the greatest was centered in the Commencement exercises Thursday evening. At this the diplomas were given—the reward of four long years of study and endeavor. This pleasant duty was performed by County Superintendent Bounds, who made short pleasing remarks as he extended the scholars their "roll of honor."

The principal address of the evening was made by Rt. Rev. Leighton Coleman L.L. D., S. T. D., Bishop of Delaware. This reverend gentleman captivated the entire audience with his fund of humor, flights of oratory and good, wholesome advice to the class just graduating. He advised the students to continue to study and progress and never be satisfied with their present condition, "for," said he, "when you are satisfied with yourself you are on dangerous ground." He emphasized the importance of having character instead of reputation to build upon He closed by admonishing the young people to so live that it will be easier for others to be good when they are around.

The programme from the students consisted of six numbers. The Salutatory was delivered by Miss Irma Boston, from Quantico, who welcomed the audience as well as the officials and teachers in a most graceful manner. The Valedictory fell to Miss Ethel Colley, who, in a most suitable manner, thanked all for their interest in the class, and pathetically bade all farewell Between these were three essays by Misses Margaret Laws, Alice Dykes and Rena Lankford, and an oration by Mr. Geo. R. Hill. This part of the programme was supplemented by piano and instrumental solos by the students and music by the Salisbury Orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Kennerly.

The class has upon its roster thirteen young ladies and three young men. The roll is as follows: Misses Irma Boston, Katharine Bussells, Ethel Colley, Katharine Darby, Alice Dykes, Frances Hearne, Susie Insley, Dora Jones, Gertrude Killiam, Rena Lankford, Margaret Laws, Beulah Melson, Mattie Windsor, and Messrs Clarence Cordrey, Vaughn Gordy and George Hill

Much interest was manifested in the distribution of the medals, which was done by Principal Huffington. The Harper Medal was awarded to Miss Ethel Colley; medal for best oration in senior class to George Hill; for best essay in senior class to Miss Rena Lankford; for best declamation among undergraduates to Mr Norman Smith, of ninth grade; for best essay on Maryland History to Miss Nellie Smith, of seventh grade

In the contest for best declamation among under-graduates on Monday evening, Mr Norman Smith, of ninth grade, won The programme for evening was as follows:

Chorus ..... High School Students
"Anthony's Speech over Body of Cæsar" ..... Norman Smith
Violin Solo ..... Gardner Spring.
"March of the Flag" ... Hartwell Adkins.
Chorus ..... High School Students.
"Regulus to the Roman Senate" ..... Erman Hastings.
Piano Solo ..... Miss Ethel Day
"Patrick Henry's Speech Before House of Burgesses" ..... Irving Phillips.
Chorus ..... High School Students.

Judges: Rev R. C Granberry, A. M. Jackson, Esq., S R Douglass, Esq.

On Tuesday evening the joint celebration of the two societies of the school was held in the opera house. A feature of the evening was a chorus of 130 voices of High School students. The programme, which was interesting, was well received by the audience, who seemed to appreciate the attempt being made by the students at this kind of work. The participants were as follows:

Chorus—"Song of the Vikings"
Address of Welcome—Mr Clarence Cordrey, '06, pres. Bryant Society.
Essay—"Good Literature"—Miss Kate Darby, '06 (Longfellow)
Chorus—"Anchored"
Oration—"Our New Rival in the East"—Mr Vaughn Gordy, '06 (Longfellow).
Essay—"Home Amusements"—Miss Gertrude Killiam, '06 (Bryant).
"Lullaby"—Girls' Glee Club.
Medal Declamation (from Undergraduates) — Anthony's Speech over Cæsar's Body"—Mr. Norman Smith, '07 (Longfellow).
Closing Address—Miss Rena Lankford, '07 (Pres't Longfellow Society)
Address (on part of Alumni)—Samuel R Douglass, Esq. (Class 1893).
Chorus—"Away to the Fields."

The Class Day exercises were witty and kept the audience in laughter much of the evening. Geo. Hill presided over the class during the evening. The whole programme, except the prophecy and history, which were read by Misses Mattie Windsor and Beulah Melson, respectively, was a mock class meeting. Special features were criticisms by Katharine Bussells distributions of presents by Vaughn Gordy, delivering mantle to class of 1907 by Susie Insley, mock salutatory by Frances Hearne, mock valedictory by Dora Jones. The singing of class song concluded the exercises.

CLASS SONG OF 1906.

(Words by Misses Alice Dykes and Rena Lankford)

AIR: "THE PALMS"

Now all the world to us seems bright and gay,
For the time has come for a long vacation.
Now come and scatter flowers in our way
So that our school may with us all rejoice,

CHORUS

Join all in song and cheer our way,
For now we're going to bid you a long and last farewell,
The parting will seem so sad
For we have been companions now for years, many years,

We do confess we will remember you,
You who will tread the path we leave behind.
And now we hope that you'll remember too
The school mates who are leaving now for aye

CHORUS

Yet let us sing and all be gay
And veil our sorrow o'er with all rejoicing Farewell!
Oh! Don't be sad, rejoice with us who are going
For aye and for aye.

And now we've reached the place to which we've aimed,
The place for which we've worked now all these years
And so we feel we're ready now to go,
For all of life's vexations we're prepared.

CHORUS

Then hear us sing our joyful song.
Let every voice ring out with acclamation, Farewell!
Our school days are o'er,
Remember the friends who are going this day and forever.

The Reception Committee for Friday evening was: Misses Dora Jones, Katharine Bussells and Clarence Cordrey from tenth grade; Misses Helen Smith, Sarah Ulman and Augustus Waller from the ninth grade. The programme consisted of instrumental and vocal solos and recitations. The refreshments were ices, cakes and fruits.

SENATOR GORMAN DEAD.

Distinguished Marylander Passed Away Monday Morning At Washington.

Senator A. P. Gorman died at his home in Washington Monday morning at 9:17 A. M. of heart and stomach trouble after a lingering illness since January 16, last.

Senator Gorman was thought to be getting better and it was only last Friday that arrangments were being made to send him to his country home at Laurel, Howard County Md. Hence the unexpected announcement of the senator's death came like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky.

About an hour previous to his death Mr. Gorman was given some nourishment by his trained nurse and seemed to be in good spirits. Shortly after, however, he took a decided change for the worse and Dr. C. W. Brown was hurriedly sent for. When he arrived it was found that the stricken senator had been seized with tachycarlia, or rapid pulsation of the heart. The strokes of the heart were as high as 200 a minute and were accompanied by choking, which, however was not of a serious nature. Senator Gorman was conscious to the very last and from what he said he was aware the end was very near. At his bedside were Mrs. Gorman Miss Ada Gorman, his eldest daughter, the trained nurse and the physician.

SENATOR A P GORMAN

Senator Gorman leaves a wife and six children as follows: Miss Ada Gorman, Wilton J. Lambert, Mrs. R. A. Johnson and Mrs. R. W Hills, all of Washington D. C, Mrs. Stephen Gambrill, of London England, and state Senator Arthur P. Gorman Jr., of Laurel Md

The funeral was held at Mr. Gormans late home, at the corner of Fifteenth and K. streets at 11 o'clock Thursday morning He was buried at Oak Hill Cemetery, Georgetown D. C.

The following is Senator Gorman's autobiography as it appears in the Congressional Directory

Arthur Pue Gorman, Democrat, of Laurel, was born in Howard county, Md., March 11, 1839; attended the public schools in his native county for a period; in 1852 was appointed page in the Senate of the United States, and continued in the service of the Senate until 1866, at which time he was postmaster; on the 1st of September, 1866, he was removed from his position and immediately appointed collector of internal revenue for the Fifth district of Maryland, which office he held until the incoming of the Grant Administration in 1869; in November, 1869, was elected a member of the house of delegates of the Maryland legislature; was reelected in 1871; then elected speaker of the house of delegates at the ensuing session; in June, 1872, he was elected president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal Company; in 1875 he was elected to represent Howard county in the Maryland State senate, and was reelected in November, 1879, for a term of four years; was elected in January, 1880, to the United States Senate as a Democrat to succeed William Pinkney Whyte; took his seat March 4, 1881, and was reelected in 1886 and in 1892; in 1902 was again elected to succeed George L. Wellington, Republican, and took his seat March 4, 1903.

TAX RATE FOR YEAR 1906.

The Commissioners Fix The Rate At 85½ Cents For County Purposes, An Increase Of 6 Cents.

Tuesday last the County Commissioners fixed the tax rate for 1906, struck the levy and made up the different items of expenses. The Commissioners in this levy had to take care of some unusual expenses, chief of which was the building of new shell roads in the county, which the people have been demanding for several years. During the year the Commissioners have built ten miles of new shell roads as follows:

Barren Creek District	1 mile
Quantico District	½ mile
Tyaskin District	1 mile
Parsons and Salisbury Districts	5½ miles
Trappe District	2 miles

Making a total of ten miles of new shell roads, upon which the County spent about twelve thousand dollars. The total cost of this ten miles of new shell roads was about $30,000, the people of the County living along the lines of the road making up the difference in work and grading. Besides this, all the old shell roads were repaired and put in first class condition. This expenditure for shell roads will return the County many fold the investment, and shows that we have a progressive Board of Commissioners. Another unusual expense was the repairs to the Court House, which cost about $3,500 00.

The basis of real and personal property for taxation is $7,950,138.77, which is an increase over the assessment of last year of $1,139,523.00. The stocks of Corporations foot up to $937,706.77. The following table shows the assessable basis of the several districts in the county for real and personal property:

Barren Creek	$ 420,424.00
Quantico	397,742.00
Tyaskin	291,845.00
Pittsburg	483,681.00
Parsons	1,872,065.00
Dennis	181,131.00
Trappe	298,289.00
Nutter's	209,916.00
Salisbury	1,342,385.00
Sharptown	236,195 00
Delmar	350,340.00
Nanticoke	331,485.00
Camden	596,994.00
Willard's (personal)	28,771.00

The following are the items which go to make up the total levy:

Real and personal property	$5,341,921.50
Increase in personal 1906	351,303.00
New property added 1906	483,543.00
Stocks of corporations	1,773,371.27
Total	$7,950,138.77

The Commissioners have managed the finances in a very commendable manner, and the increase of the County tax rate of six cents, considering the many large items of expense, which are always on the increase as the county grows and expands, is due to the closeness with which the Commissioners and their very excellent President have watched the finances and guarded the treasury. The people of Wicomico county should congratulate themselves that they have such an efficient Board of County Commissioners and County Treasurer and Assistant to transact their business. The care with which the affairs of the County are administered reflects great credit upon the Democratic party, and the people of the county have every reason to be proud of their public servants.

The principal items of the levy of 1906 are as follows:

Alms House	$ 1,017.07
State's Attorney and Special Attorneys	1,780.00
Bridges	2,106.56
Clerk of Court	2,346.97
City Councils	900.00
Court House	3,416.36
Court expenses	2,820.45
Election Expenses	2,711.80
Ferries	1,261 29
Hospitals	3,571.47
Interest Bonds & Redemption	2,720 00
Jail	1,034.35
Out Pensioners	3,000 00
Printing and Publishing	1,136,11
Roads	15,000 00
County Commissioners	1,025.05
Surplus	2,000.00
Treasurer and Assistants	2,800.00
Public Schools	13,000.00

Fire On Mill Street.

The warehouse of the Red C. Oil Co., of Baltimore, was burned Sunday afternoon about four o'clock. The origin is unknown but it is thought by some that the fire was caused by some boys smoking in the immediate vicinity, The house being of frame and its contents being of a very combustible nature a very hot fire was the result; leaves on vines 60 yards away being completely burned. The quick response made by the fire department removed all danger of the destruction of any of the other large warehouses nearby. A carload of oil all of which was lost, had been put in the warehouse the day before The total loss is estimated at $1000 00.

The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

There is no reasonable excuse for any man to live in a town if he doesn't like it. If you have no word of commendation to say for your town, its institutions or people, emigrate. You wont stop the town clock by going away. The church bells will have the same musical ring, the little dogs will play just as well and the pure air, bright sunshine and sparkling water will have the same health giving properties. Speak a good word for your neighbor, if you can; if you connot, don't everlastingly enlarge on their faults. If you have become thoroughly disgusted move away; go some where, where things will suit you.

Ludlam's launch, containing a crew of three, Nealy Evans, Horace Richardson and James King, while returning from the stusgeon nets, capsized on the out bar opposite Ocean City about 11 o'clock last Thusrday and for a while it looked a little doubtful as to what the result would be. The stern end of the launch was torn out, consequently there was no chance for the crew to right her. They managed however with loose oars and other wreckage to keep themselves afloat until William Richardson and William Riley, colored succeeded in launching a boat, and regardless of wind and rough seas rescued them. They afterward captured two of the lost sturgeon but the balance of the cargo had floated away. The crew had been cautioned before leaving that morning, but being old veterans, thought they were able to make the trip.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea-spoonful. SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1906.

Senator Gorman's Successor In The United States Senate.

The question that will agitate Democratic politicians all over Maryland now will be: "Who shall be appointed to succeed Senator Gorman in the United States Senate?" Governor Warfield has the power to select his successor until the expiration of Senator Gorman's term in 1909. The Governor's choice will have large effect upon his own political future and he will therefore no doubt be very slow to make up his mind. Many names will be suggested and strong influences will be exerted, but we will be mistaken in our estimate of Govornor Warfield if he allows politics to dominate his choice. If his ambition points toward the Senate for himself, he could not make a greater mistake, aside from his undoubted desire to benefit the people of his State, politics notwithstanding.

It would be a graceful act upon Governor Warfield's part to appoint former Governor Elihu E. Jackson, and such an appointment would redound greatly to the Covernor's credit. Mr. Jackson will fully measure up to the standard, he has been a consistent party man, he has long aspired to the office, and much is owed him by his party. Senator Gorman snatched the prize from Mr. Jackson's grasp shortly after the expiration of Mr. Jackson's term as Governor. It would only be poetic justice for Mr. Jackson to succeed to the mantle surrendered by the dead man who disappointed him.

Whoever is appointed by Governor Warfield to the vacancy, there will be a tremendous scramble from now until the legislative session in 1908 among would-be successors to Senator Gorman's political leadership in the State. Senator Gorman's death means a new alignment and a new deal all around. The master's hand has been removed from the reins. Where will Democracy find the man to take them up again and drive their chariot successfuly? Senator Rayner cannot step into the gap—in fact it is impossible to place a finger upon the man who can take command. It will be a pretty fight. And if the Republicans do not make it interesting for the contending factions we miss our guess.

Senator Gorman's Career.

It will take a decade before Senator Arthur P. Gorman's real place in the history of his country can be properly estimated. He has been too much a part of thing, has too enemies and too many ardent admirers and followers, to get the right perspective of his career. Politically, he was a great figure and was the brains of his party in the State of Maryland. And a few years ago this might be said of him in reference to the United States. Of late years his powers have failed.

Only a few of the big men in the country considered Mr. Gorman a statesman, He was shrewd; he was a compromiser; he was a great organizer; he was smooth and calm and cold, and could measure men and manufacture methods and schemes whereby his party and incidentally himself would profit. But he never rose above this level. He could and did manipulate the Senate with the same facility that he manipulated a convention in his home State. He could not and did not lead his party in the country at large into paths that stretched in the direction of the White House.

No great issue advocated by his party originated with Senator Gorman. Nothing that has forwarded the progress of the Nation emanated from him. He has worked for partisan advantage and has been adroit in seizing opportunities, especially for his own advancement, in various ways. He has not hesitated to cut down friend and foe alike in his ruthless march upward in wealth and power. As a politician he has been supreme.

Mr. Gorman was a cold man and ruled his forces by the strength of his intellect. His close friends, in the ordinary term, could be counted on the fingers of two hands. He was feared by many and loved by few. He will therefore go to his grave not unhonored but unsung. His influence upon his State has been in many ways a disaster—but his party will look in vain to fill the vacancy he leaves.

The Investigation Of The Meat Packing Industry.

From the disclosures and revelations made in the report recently sent by President Roosevelt to Congress it would seem that some stringent regulations should be made to curb the actions of the unscrupulous men who are behind not only the big packing conceens of the west, but also the smaller institutions in the east. In many cases animals are slaughtered and the meat put on the market when the steer has some serious contagious disease, and meat so diseased has the power to affect those eating it. Not only that, the animals are often "slaughtered" after they are dead and their meat is put on sale as good. According to the report, no measures whatever are used to promote sanitation. The trucks on which the quarters of beef are handled are not cleansed sufficiently often to keep the small particles which unavoidably gather on them from rotting. The workmen in these houses are stated to be unusually caseless where they step and where they expectorate.

In an interview published in the Baltimore Sun of Wednesday last, Dr. John S. Fulton is quoted as saying that ninety-five per cent. of the meat slaughtered in Baltimore, and totally unfit for use, gets by the inspectors of the State and city Boards of Health. Dr. Fulton said: "Many carcasses of animals that 'are slaughtered after they are dead' are sold for food in Baltimore and the State." At one shop in Baltimore last week 30,000 pounds of bad meat were found. Before the person who discovered this meat could get an officer it as sold, and no doubt much of it was on the stove being prepared for someone's evening meal.

After reading the startling statements made by Dr. Fulton THE COURIER endeavored to find just how much city meat was sold in Salisbury. After inquiring of all the butchers in town it was found that without exception every butcher handled beef from Baltimore to a greater or lesser extent. This being the case, and knowing the condition in which much of the city product is sent out, it behooves our butchers, as well as the many consumers, to use the utmost care in selecting the meat for home use.

THE
Salisbury Building & Loan and Banking ASSOCIATION

This Association has two separate and distinct departments: "The Building & Loan Department" and "The Banking Department."

The Building & Loan Department, with its paid-up capital stock of $114,500.00, makes loans, secured by mortgages, to be paid back in weekly instalments of 30c, 40c, 50c, $1.00 or $2.00 per week, to suit borrower; and has been doing a popular and successful business since 1887.

The Banking Department was added in 1902 under authority granted by the General Assembly of Maryland of that year, to set apart $25,000.00 of the Association's capital stock for banking purposes, receives money on deposits, makes loans on commercial paper, enters into such business transactions as conservative banks ordinarily do, and earnestly solicits the patronage of its friends and the general public. SHOES DE LUXE

NEVER were shoes more beautiful than the new "Queen Quality" Custom Grade models. The extent of their variety may be prosaically presented by stating that they are made in no less than 4,760 variations of shape and style, thus affording accuracy of fit for every type and size of foot, and ease the first day worn. But no figures can express the charm of this variety, indeed it is but faintly suggested by the illustrations here shown. To appreciate this you must see the shoes. Ask for them while our assortments are complete.

Training a Dog.

A dog understands "yes," and is equally competent to grasp the "no." Outside of that he is all dog and follows his dog ways. He indulges in no mental refinement and will not comprehend many of your changes of mood or mind. Whatever you undertake to teach make it plain, simple and unchangeable. It is a pity that he must be taught not to jump up on people and compliment them with his caresses. He means well, but must be disciplined sternly into knowing that it is not good form under any circumstances. The discipline need not be accompanied by any severity. A light touch with a whip, if applied invariably, will soon settle the matter. Some kennel men adopt the plan of stepping lightly on the hind foot, and it is perhaps the clearest way of conveying the idea.—Outing Magazine.

Art Above Nature?

Art is one of the greatest phenomena of our world. It is one of the most serious of things. Nature has no art. Nature is grotesque and weird, but art is ours; it is human. Art means anything. A system of philosophy is as much art as beauty in sculpture and rhythm and cadence in poetry. There is the art of living, the art of meeting people. No bird gives real music. The finest nightingale sends out only weird tones, but it isn't music. The only musical sound in nature is the sound of water dripping from a rock. Art is supernature, not nature. It is neither imitation nor rivalry, but something we give to nature.—Dr. Emil Reich.

The Trap Shot.

Trap shooting has made America a land of straight shooters, and no country in the world can compare with the United States in shooting. Gun clubs in America are directly responsible for that reputation which Uncle Sam so proudly bears. By constant practice at inanimate targets the American unconsciously prepares himself for his country's call to arms. Gun clubs are really the outcome of the abundance of live game in America. The average business man loves to tread the woods in search of live game, but usually his time to go on these hunting trips is limited to perhaps once a year, and during the interval he has lost his "shooting eye." He needed practice to keep his eye keyed up properly, and in order to get practice at home during spare moments he organized the gun club, where between hours he could get all the practice he needed.—Recreation.

Afternoon Calls.

The afternoon call is a survival of an age when nobody had anything to do except visit friends. The bitter part of the whole sad business is that, unless one pays calls, one does not get asked to dinner.—London Globe.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XI, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 10.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xvi, 13-28. Memory Verses, 24, 25—Golden Text, Matt. xvi, 16—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.

After His visit to the coasts of Tyre and Sidon He returned to the neighborhood of Bethsaida and healed multitudes of lame, blind, dumb, maimed and others, and the multitude wondered when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk and the blind to see, and they glorified the God of Israel. After that He fed 4,000 as miraculously as He had fed the 5,000 (Matt. xv, 29-39). Then He came into the coasts of Magdala, and the Pharisees and Sadducees tempted Him, desiring a sign from heaven. In reply He called them hypocrites and a wicked and adulterous generation and said they would receive no sign but the sign of the prophet Jonah. Thus for the second time He indorsed the story of Jonah and spoke of it as a type of His own death and resurrection. Warning His disciples against the teaching of such hypocrites, He said, "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees," and they were so dull that they actually thought He was reproving them because they had forgotten to bring bread with them, as they had but one loaf in the boat. Was it any wonder that He said: "O ye of little faith, do ye not yet understand? How is it that ye do not understand?" (Matt. xvi, 1-12, and Mark viii, 10-21.) This brings us to our lesson where we find Him in the coasts of Cæsarea Philippi, and, according to Luke ix, 18, He was alone, praying. It was then that He asked His disciples, "Whom do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?" and received such varying answers as are given in verse 14. He knew all that men were saying and even thinking, but all He asked or said or did was for the benefit of those with whom He was dealing, and He knew best how to accomplish what He had in view. Then came the question, "But whom say ye that I am?" (verse 16) which drew forth Peter's "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Peter had on a former occasion said in reply to the Lord's question, "Will ye also go away?" "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that Thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God" (John vi, 68-70). Martha on a later occasion said, "Yea, Lord, I believe that Thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world" (John xi, 27). Just imagine the Lord Jesus looking at you and asking these questions of you personally. What would your heart reply, and just what would you mean by it? God alone can teach us the things of God, for see I Cor. ii, 9-14, and God had taught Peter and Martha. He teaches by His Spirit, through His word.

Our Lord now for the first time speaks of His church, and He speaks of it as something which He will in the future build and against which the wisdom and power of hell shall not prevail. He had from the beginning of His ministry spoken of the kingdom, but the church is a new thing, consequent upon the rejection of the kingdom, and was not fully revealed until Paul was chosen as the great apostle to the gentiles. See Rom. xvi, 25, 26; Eph. iii, 5, 6. The kingdom will include all nations, with Israel in their own land as the central nation, but the church is an elect company gathered out of all nations which shall reign with Christ in His kingdom. See Isa. lx and Rev. v, 9, 10. While the kingdom is rejected, and therefore postponed, the church is being gathered by the preaching of the gospel in the power of the Holy Spirit. The foundation of the church is certainly not Peter, who was a bit of stone or rock (as the word signifies), but the great truth which Peter uttered, which our Lord called "this rock," the word signifying a solid mass of rock, a cliff or ledge, in contrast to a piece of rock like Peter. See I Cor. iii, 11, as a confirmation, and also Eph. ii, 20. As to the keys of verse 19, note that they are the keys of the kingdom, not the keys of the church, and the church is never called the kingdom nor the kingdom the church for reasons already mentioned. A key is to open a door with, that others may enter. Peter opened the door to the Jews of all nations in Acts ii and to the gentiles in Acts x. The story of the gospels and the acts is chiefly the kingdom story, as in the Old Testament and in Revelation. The story of the church is chiefly in the epistles, with a beginning in the Acts; but, as one has said, all history is His story, whether it be that of the church or Israel or the kingdom which includes both and also all the nations.

As to the power given to Peter compare John xx, 21-23; Rev. xxii, 17. The kingdom being rejected, our Lord begins to speak plainly of His approaching death and resurrection. Compare with verse 21; chapters xvii, 22, 23; xx, 18, 19. But, although He made it so plain, even John, who seemed nearer to Jesus than any of the disciples, did not receive it (John xx, 9). Peter, who is thought by some to be the church's foundation, openly rebelled against the thought of Jesus' suffering and suggested that He pity Himself and put the thought from Him (verse 22, margin), but our Lord taught very plainly that there was no other way but the cross either for Him or for us. In the temptation in the wilderness the devil suggested an easier way (Matt. iv, 8, 9), and here our Lord says that Peter was very suggestive of Satan (verse 23).

Dissipated Elements.

In the disintegration of radium by the giving off of helium the amount of energy set free is 1,000,000,000 great calories for one gram of radium. Now to reconstruct the dissipated elements would require as much energy as was lost in their dissipation, and this explains the hopelessness of their synthesis, as no such amount of energy can be employed. How were these elements first constructed? That is a question for the students. A German physicist, W. Meigen, suggests that the dissipation of elements is an actually irreversible process, like the dissipation of heat.—Independent.

Ants' Eggs.

Ants' eggs are considered a choice dish in some countries. They are spread upon a slice of bread and butter, and sauces considered excellent are made with them. They are esteemed as a costly food in Siam, within the reach only of well to do people. They are the object of an important trade in some countries of northern Europe, where they are cooked in boiling water and yield a kind of vinegar or formic acid.

Of course that's easy.

But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you.

We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.

Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.

Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.

All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.

You are the doctor.

Three crates of berries will buy from us a Fine Suit of Clothes—as fine as a millionaire wears. To be a millionaire therefore (in clothes) buy your new suit with your strawberry money from Nock Brothers.

We have a new store—that is, a new store to you since last strawberry time. It is located where the Farmers & Merchants Bank used to keep. We have a new stock, strictly up-to-date, of everything a man wears—and some things women wear.

The burglars who blew open the B. C. & A. Ry. Co's. safe a few weeks ago passed our store by. Why? Because our profits are so small we haven't got a safe—don't need one. We're selling cheap this year because we want your trade. In fact we give some things away. Come in and see what we have. Doesn't cost anything to look.

Next year we will want the real value of our goods—ask more for them. But the fellow who buys from us this year won't want a new suit next year. His this-year's-suit will be as good as new. They're not iron-clad, but they're the best wearing clothes in town, and we guarantee a less price.

Other things in our stock are according. There's no use quoting prices—we don't want our creditors to know what we're selling at. They might close us up.

But for $15—fifteen little dolars—$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$—we will give you a Suit of Clothes that will make you the best-dressed man in your neighborhood.

Come and see us. If you find one thing overdrawn or untrue in the above we will make you a present of a New Stetson Hat, or better still, a Nock's Special.

We are after the strawberry money you are going to spend, and we are bound to have it if values will bring it.

Bowser In The Wrong

Druggist, Butcher and Grocer Help Philosopher's Wife to Set Him Right.

GETS MIXED ON NAMES

Can Find No One to Agree With Him on Subject In Dispute—Takes It Out of the Mail Man.

[Copyright, 1906, by Eugene Parcells.]

Mr. Bowser had been reading his paper for half an hour the other evening when he looked up and said:

"Mrs. Bowser, I don't want to hurt your feelings, but there is a little matter I'd like to speak of."

"Very well, what is it?" she replied.

"We were over at Spooners' the other evening for a call."

"Yes."

"While she was talking with you I was talking with Spooner, but I heard much of what was said between you.

"DOC, I HAVE GOT INTO A LITTLE DISPUTE."

She was asking you about certain books. You gave her the names, but I felt as if I should drop dead when I heard you pronounce them. If she hadn't been the lady she is she must have giggled in your face. As I said, I don't want to hurt your feelings, but you must be more careful when you are treading on ground unfamiliar to you."

"Will you kindly explain just where I blundered?"

"I will, and I hope you won't get mad at me. You are not to blame that you couldn't have a classical education. You spoke of a book named 'Don Keehoty.'"

"Well?"

Pronunciation of Don Quixote.

"Well, don't ever do it again. The name of that book is 'Don Quixote.' You pronounce the last name as if divided, 'Quix-eat.'"

"Anything else?" asked Mrs. Bowser, as the shade of a smile crossed her face.

"I noticed that you pronounced the name of 'Hudi-brass' as 'Hudibraw.' I saw Mrs. Spooner flinch; but, of course, she couldn't pick you up."

"No, of course not. Did you hear anything else?"

"You recommended a novel to her by some one you called Weedy. I suppose you referred to the authoress named Owdy?"

"Yes, she is the one. Did I make any other mistakes?"

"You spoke of some one making a faux-pas and pronounced it as if spelled fo-paw. Don't get angry when I tell you that the right pronunciation is fox-pass."

"And what else?" asked Mrs. Bowser, who was taking her punishment so coolly as to make him wonder.

"Didn't you tell Mrs. Spooner that a certain person had got to be blazay, as you call it?"

Takes Issue With Wife.

"Yes, I believe I did."

"The word is pronounced blaze, Mrs. Bowser. I wasn't ten years old when my schoolteacher told me how to pronounce it. There was just one thing more. You spoke of the massacre of the Jews in Russia, and you called it mass-a-ker. You ought to know that it is pronounced mass-a-cree. That's all, Mrs. Bowser, and I reiterate my hope that your feelings will not be hurt in the least."

"And I assure you that they are not," she said, as she turned to her book.

Mr. Bowser didn't like the situation. Mrs. Bowser was altogether too calm and complacent under the lecture. As he cast sly glances at her it seemed to him as if her nose tilted up in a spirit of defiance and disdain. He hung on to himself for awhile and then said:

"I haven't hurt your feelings, have I?"

"No, but I'm sorry that—that"

"Speak it right out, Mrs. Bowser. You mean you are sorry that you humiliated me, I suppose?"

Did Not Want to Be Humiliated.

"No; I mean that if you stick by words and names as you have pronounced them I am certain to be humiliated on your account. I hope you will be very, very careful, Mr. Bowser. If you should call that Don Quix-eat before an educated person he would think the ceiling of the room had dropped down."

"By the seven brass doors of the seven prophets, but what do you mean!" shouted Mr. Bowser, as he sprang to his feet with such a jar that the cook in the kitchen peeling potatoes for breakfast slid out of her chair in alarm.

"I mean that it is pronounced Keehoty."

"What! What! You mean that you are right and I am wrong?"

"Exactly. I was also right about Hudibraw."

Mr. Bowser turned red and then plum color, and he held his mouth open as if it was hard work to get his breath. Mrs. Bowser rather meanly took advantage of his helpless situation to continue:

"Ouida is a French name, and the pronunciation of it is Weedy and not Owdy. Try to remember that, Mr. Bowser. If you should call it Owdy at a church festival, for instance, I don't know what effect it might not have on the ice cream."

"Woman, what is this!" he managed to exclaim at last, as he tried to fix her with a baleful eye.

For His Own Good.

"I am giving you a few lessons in pronunciation, dear. Never in your life when you are out in company speak of any one as blaze. It's blas-ay and nothing else. If you called it the other way they'd be looking for hayseed in your hair."

"And this to me—to Bowser—to the Bowser!" he hoarsely whispered as he looked around for the cat. "Woman, have you lost your senses entirely? Is it possible that you have been drinking too much claret? Has that mother of yours arrived and told you to look upon me as a jackass? Speak, woman—speak!"

"And apropos is pronounced apropo," she said, with a smile. "Try to remember this when we go to the Greens'. They are people of education, and if you should add on the 'poss' she'd tell it all over the neighborhood as a good joke. And don't fool with mass-a-ker, Mr. Bowser. You might get your fingers cut."

"Madam, do you know who I am?" asked Mr. Bowser as he stood with his hands on the table before him.

"Certainly; you are Mr. Bowser; Mr. Samuel Bowser, and my husband."

"And yet you talk this way to me!"

"I must tell you that fox-pass is wrong and hope never to hear you use it. I noticed that you pronounced monsieur the other night as if spelled monsewer."

Leaves the House.

Mr. Bowser went plum color again, but shut his teeth hard and put on his hat and overcoat and left the house. He wanted corroboration. His soul was stirred to its profoundest depths, and if the druggist, the butcher and the plumber agreed with him he would make Mrs. Bowser tired to the end of her days. His first call was at the drug store, where he said:

"Doc, I have got into a little dispute about Don Quix-eat."

"No wonder you have if you pronounce it that way."

"How do you pronounce it?"

"Keehoty, of course, same as any one else that doesn't live in the swamps."

"Then you are an ass!"

"Ditto! Please go out. I've got to put up some paregoric, and it might fly to your head."

"Say, Johnson," began Mr. Bowser as he found the plumber charging a customer $1.50 for stopping up a pinhole leak in a water pipe, "did you ever hear of Hudibrass?"

"Too much brass on that," laughed the plumber. "You mean Hudibraw, don't you?"

"No, sir. I don't mean any such thing."

"Then you'd better ask the flour and feed man next door. He used to run a brass foundry."

Butcher Confirms Wife.

Mr. Bowser walked in on the butcher as if to complain about too much bone in the meat, but suddenly smiled and said:

"Phillips, does your wife read novels?"

"Only certain ones. She likes those by Weedy."

"What in thunder do you mean!"

"I said Weedy. She writes her name Ouida, you know. Why do you ask?"

"None of your durned business!" replied Mr. Bowser as he walked out.

Mrs. Bowser was right and he was wrong. He would never admit it if he lived to be a thousand years old, but it was a fact nevertheless. He wanted to tear things to pieces as he thought of it and walked slowly homeward. Providence was good to him. As he reached his gate he saw a man on the steps who had just rung the bell. It was a postal employee with a special delivery letter, but Mr. Bowser didn't wait to ascertain. He simply rushed upon that man and dragged him down the steps and threw him over the fence and warned him that if he ever came within a mile of the house again he would mass-a-cree him out of hand.

Resolutions Of Respect

UPON THE DEATH OF MR, ALFRED D, JONES BY LOCAL LODGE KNIGHTS OF PHYTHIAS.

Whereas our Castle Hall has again felt the touch of the remorseless hand of death, and removed from our midst our brother, Alfred D. Jones.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by Salisbury Lodge No. 56, Knights of Phythias, that we deeply deplore the peculiarly sad and untimely death of our brother, which is a potent and forceful reminder of the fact that sooner or later all must pass through the dark river of the shadow of death to that bourne whence no traveller returnes,

Resolved that we bear testimony to those innate qualities of heart and mind which in the better moments of his life constantly exhibited themselves to those around him, by which he proved himself a true and tried friend, and one who never forgot the kindnesses bestowed upon him by those with whom he came in contact.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Bro. Jones' relatives, and that copies be sent to the local press for publication and be spread upon the minutes of the lodge.

ATTEMPTED JAIL BREAKING.

The Four Alleged Burglars In Salisbury Jail Nearly Got Away Wednesday.

Frank Smith, Frank Matthews, James Hawkins and John Pennell, the four alleged burglars who are confined in Salisbury jail, were discovered on Wednesday by Mrs. Bradley, wife of Sheriff Elmer E. Bradley, to be sawing the bars of their cell. They had been moved from the cage and the cell adjoining it to the southeast corner cell the day before, so that they would be less public. Mrs. Bradley's room is under the cell last mentioned and during the day on Wednesday she heard suspicious sounds like sawing of iron. She went outside very quietly to the corner of the jail and could see the motion of the prisoner's hand going back and forth as it moved with the saw.

Mrs. Bradley at once notified her husband and he took prompt action. When the sheriff got to the cell the cuts in the bars had been filled with soap. After close inspection they were found. One bar had been cut about a quarter of an inch. A piece of steel, like a corset steel, had been used. The tool was taken away from the prisoners and they were moved at once back into the cage, where they now are.

SAMUEL BARNES BETTER.

Is Slowly Improving At Peninsula General Hospital From Wounds Inflicted By The Negro Watson.

Though badly injured and not yet out of danger, Mr. Samuel Barnes, of near King's Creek, who was murderously assaulted by Ed. Watson, a negro, last Tuesday afternon at his farm, is slowly improving at the Peninsula General Hospital and his physician, Dr. J. McF. Dick, thinks he will recover. Mr. Barnes' skull was factured and his head and face horribly cut and bruised by kicks which the negro inflicted. It is feared that his nose is broken, but his face is so badly swollen that this Dr Dick has not been able as yet to determine. Mr. Barnes regained consciousness on Thursday and his mind has been clear since that time. He is, however suffering greatly with pain from his injuries. A special nurse from Baltimore is attending him. His wife spent part of two days at his bedside and a large number of his friends from Somerset have come to Salisbury to make inquiries of his condition.

Mr. Barnes was assaulted by Watson upon very little provocation. A dispute occurred between them over $2 difference in a settlement of wages. Mr. Barnes thought it settled and left the negro to go into his barn, the colored man going in the opposite direction. The negro secured a swingle-tree however, slipped into the barn behind Mr. Barnes and struck him over the head, knocking him insensible. After Mr. Barnes fell, the negro kicked him on the head and face in the most brutal manner.

After committing the deed Watson hurriedly left the farm, going towards the Virginia line. News of the assault soon spread and a posse of men on horse back, heavily armed, started in pursuit of the negro. The men were determined to wreak vengeance on the negro, and declared they would lynch him when captured. He was caught at Pocomoke Tuesday evening and under guard was taken to the depot to meet the north bound train for Princess Anne. A large crowd of Somerset and Worcester people had gathered at the depot, and just as the officers were placing the negro on train, the crowd seized him and tried to lynch him. He was terribly beaten with sticks, clubs and bricks. He was also shot in the back, the bullet penetrating his lung. In a dying condition he was finally rescued by the officers and taken back to the lockup.

Later, the negro was taken to the jail at Princess Anne in a carriage, the trip being made after night. A mob of about 200 men laid in wait, but missed the posse. There was talk of lynching on both Wednesday and Thursday nights, but the crowd calmed somewhat. Watson, at last reports, was recovering from his injuries, in the jail at Princess Anne. It is freely predicted that when the negro Lee, who committed the assault upon the two women at Kingston on Sunday, is brought to Princess Anne, a lynching bee will take place and both men strung up.

Mr. Barnes is very well-to-do and highly respected in Somerset county. He is 52 years of age.

SPECIAL COURT SESSION.

Lee, The Negro Ravisher, To Be Tried At Princess Anne Next Wednesday.

Various rumors are afloat as to the trial of William Lee, the negro ravisher of Mrs. G. Robert Barnes and Miss Francis Powell, near Kingston last Sunday, who is now in jail at Norfolk, Va. The negro was taken from Eastville, Va., to Norfolk Tuesday under strong military guard on a special train and boat. Extradition papers will be issued for him at the pleasure of the Maryland authorities. One story from Annapolis, where the Somerset officials have been in consultation with Governor Warfield, is to the effect that Lee will be taken to Baltimore. A dispatch to the American stated that it will rest with Judge Page whether or not the negro shall be taken to Princess Anne or elsewhere. The sheriff of Somerset county was expected to go to Norfolk on Thursday to take the prisoner into custody.

Governor Warfield was in consultation Wednesday afternoon over the telephone with State's Attorney Waters, of Princess Anne. Mr. Waters told the Governor that the identification of the negro has been made by Mrs. G Robert Barnes, one of the victims. Mr. Waters also stated that Judge Page had called a special term of court, which is to convene at Princess Anne on Wednesday next for the purpose of trying the negro. The court would probably have been convened earlier were it not for the condition of Miss Powell, who, it is stated, would not be able to appear in court before Wednesday.

If the officials of Somerset county should ask for a military escort if Lee is taken to Princess Anne it will be furnished by Governor Warfield.

Lee was captured at Cape Charles and was taken to the jail at Eastville, awaiting the action of the authorities. A tremendous crowd, containing many Marylanders, threatened lynching and State troops were hurried to the scene from Norfolk by Governor Swanson, of Virginia.

While on his way across Chesapeake bay from Cape Charles to Norfolk Lee is alleged to have confessed his crime to Deputy Sheriff Lankford, of Northampton county. The confession was put in writing and was signed by Lee. The statement of the prisoner, in effect, is that, in addition to stealing the trinkets from the home of J. E. Townsend on Sunday, he met the two women on the road near Kingston and assaulted them. He says in his confession that he first attacked Miss Powell, who is only 17 years of age, and not accomplishing his purpose, he assaulted Mrs. Barnes, who is a cousin of the younger woman. He stated that he first seized the child of Mrs. Barnes, and he contends that he used no force in compelling his victims to submit to him. He ordered them to follow him to a secluded spot in the woods and threatened if they did not do so he would slay the child before their faces.

The prisoner is small and is what some people call a "chocolate-colored negro." He has not exceedingly large lips and does not present a formidable appearance. He appears to be above the average negro in intelligence and makes himself plainly understood in conversation. His size and general demeanor would seem to lend color to the statement that the women were in fear of harm to the baby of Mrs Barnes rather than in fear of the negro himself.

When arrested in Cape Charles, Lee at once cowed and became nervous. When he was locked up in Eastville jail he was very nervous, and Tuesday his fears for his safety increased to the point where he begged and cried for protection at times. When the troops placed him aboard the steamer Old Point Comfort, at Cape Charles at midnight, he gave vent to a noticeable sigh of relief, and was heard to say in an undertone: "Thank the Lord I am away from that place." After leaving the Eastern Shore Lee displayed little uneasiness, and Wednesday morning he was calm. His principal fear seems to have been of violence at the hands of the Maryland mob. He appreciates that he must go back to Maryland for trial, but does not seem to dread this so much.

A curious coincidence in connection with the assault is the fact that Mrs. Barnes is a sister of a Mrs Tull, who was assaulted by a negro named Cuba in the same county nine years ago. For his crime Cuba was lynched in the Courthouse yard at Princess Anne a few minutes after a jury had found him guilty.

DEATH OF DR. L. D. COLLIER.

One Of The Oldest And Most Highly Esteemed Citizens Of Salisbury Passes Away.

The funeral of Dr. Levin Dashiell Collier, who died last Tuesday morning at five o'clock, took place Thursday afternoon at four o'clock at his late home on Division street, this town, and was very largely attended. During his continual business and professional career of more than half a century Dr. Collier had attracted a very large circle of warm friends, and they gathered from far and near to pay a last tribute to his memory. The casket and the grave were covered with beautiful floral offerings. The service was conducted by Rev. David Howard, rector of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church and Rev. Dr. S. W. Reigart, pastor emeritus of Wicomico Presbyterian Church. The pallbearers were four nephews of the deceased, namely, W. A. Graham, assistant editor of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant; Robert P. Graham, of Baltimore; S. A. Graham and Donald Graham, of Salisbury; and L. W. Gunby and Walter B. Miller, of Salisbury, who married neices of Dr. Collier. Other out-of-town relatives who were present at the funeral were Mr. Joseph Y. Brattan, of the Baltimore American, a brother in-law; Mr. William Smith and Mrs. John Carrow, of Dover, Del.; Mrs. R. P. Graham, of Baltimore; Mrs. William Evans, of Newark, Del.; Misses Emma and Mary Brattan, Miss Annie Robertson and Mrs. Irving Cooper, of Mardela.

Dr. Collier was a son of Levin Collier and was born in Salisbury September 20, 1830. He was one of the best known and most highly respected citizens in Salisbury. He was a gentleman of the old school and leaves a vacancy in the business and social life of the town that will be sorely felt and impossible to fill. He was constantly at his post of duty at his store and for many years he prescribed for the ailments of hundreds of people throughout the county. His unfailing courtesy and sympathy drew to him friends and admirers in all the walks of life, and their grief at his demise is deep and sincere.

Dr. Collier during Civil War times took an active part in Republican politics and was at one time Provost Marshal and later a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue. During the last years of his life, though often solicited to be a candidate and to be a delegate to district and State conventions, he refrained from all active participation in political matters. He, however, consistently supported the National Republican ticket. He was engaged in the drug business and the practice of medicine in Salisbury for more than 50 years. He first entered the business here in 1848, after a term of employment with a wholesale drug firm in Baltimore. He was first employed in Salisbury by Dr. William Thomas and went with Dr. Thomas to Cambridge, where he resided for several years. In 1854, upon the death of Dr Shipley in Salisbury, Dr. Collier purchased the business and this he continued until the present time. Dr. Collier took a course of lectures at the University of Pennsylvania and graduated. He practised his profession until 1871, when he abandoned it, outside of prescribing at his store.

Dr. Collier was twice married. His first wife was Laura Humphreys, daughter of the late George Washington Humphreys, whom he married March 25, 1858. By this union three children survive—Mrs. Wm. E. Dorman, Mrs. J. R. T. Laws and Mr. George R. Collier. The second marriage was to Louisa Brattan, daughter of the late Joseph Brattan, of Mardela Springs, May 23, 1876, who survives. Four children also survive by this union—Misses Lizzie, Pauline and Mary Collier and Mr. Levin D. Collier, Jr. Deceased is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Louisa A. Graham, widow of the late Col. Samuel A. Graham.

Dr Collier had a successful business career and leaves a comfortable estate. He carried a benefit certificate for $3,000 in the Royal Arcanum and one for $2,000 in the Heptasophs, both of which are payable to his wife.

Dispatches on Thursday from Princess Anne to the Baltimore papers stated that the grand jurors of the April term of Court were being summoned for the special session to be held next Wednesday for the purpose of trying Lee. The dispatches further stated that the prisoner would be taken from Norfolk to Baltimore, and that when the negro was taken from Baltimore to Princess Anne next week to be tried, the sheriff would be accompanied by the National Guard to protect the prisoner.

A Kansas Sweet Girl Graduate.

A Kansas girl graduated to whom had been assigned the theme "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy," wrote this essay,

"I do not care a cent whether Italy lies beyond the Alps or in Missouri. I do not expect to set the river on fire with my future career. I am glad that I have a very good education, but I am not going to misuse it by writing poetry or essays on the future woman. It will enable me to correct the grammar of any lover I may have should he speak of "dorgs" in my presence or "seen a man." It will also come handy when I want to figure out how many pounds of soap a woman can get for three dozen eggs at the grocery. So I do not begrudge the time I spent in acquiring it. But my ambitions do not fly so high. I just want to marry a man who can lick anybody of his weight in the township, who has no female relatives to come around and try and boss the ranch. I will agree to cook dinners for him that won't send him to an early grave, and lavish upon him a wholesome affection, and to see that his razor has not been used to cut broom wire when he wants to shave. I do not care if I get a little rusty on the rule of three and kindred things as the years go by."

Snake Stories.

While Mr. Harry Kepler, near Middletown, was hauling wood from the mt land of Wm. Leatherman, he saw a blacksnake. John Forest, of Hard-scrabble, grabbed the reptile by the tail and jerked his head off. It measured 6½ feet in length.

Victor Hartsock, of Harmony, shot two black snakes which had climbed into a chestnut tree in front of Mr. Geo Wachter's house. Both snakes were killed at one shot and measured 7 feet each.

Clarence Waters and Edward Baker, of Harmony, while engaged in hauling rails from the mountain, killed a black snake that measured 5¼ feet in length.

In Memoriam.

On June 9, 1906, death entered the peaceful home of Mr. Wm. Jones, on E. Elizabeth street, and took their little boy from them Johnny, aged 21 months, was a sweet little child and much loved by all who knew him His illness was of short duration, and he had been confined to his bed but a few days when the death angel called and closed his baby eyes to the pain and sorrow of this life. While the loss is great to the father and mother, yet it is consoling to know that he is safely resting in the arms of Him who said "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God."

The funeral was held at the home of the parents, and services were conducted by the writer. Interment took place in the cemetery at Powellsville The bereaved parents have our deepest sympathy in this, their hour of affliction.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea spoonful It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. DISCOVER A NEW PARADISE

Summer And Winter Tourists Flock To Western North Carolina—Southern Railway Reveals "The Land of the Sky" and "The Sapphire Country."

The day has passed when the tide of travel for pleasure or health or to escape from the heat of the summer months flow northward. Imagination for a long time lured tourists in that direction in the belief that toward that point of the compass, and that alone could comfort be found in summer or rest attained by those wearied by prolonged application to business cares.

Experience, made possible by the development of the South by the Southern Railway, has shown that in the picturesque portions of North and South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee, and other States of the Southern country, nature has provided the ideal conditions that tend to make a summer vacation healthful, restful and thoroughly satisfying.

One naturally thinks of the South as a winter resort, but the Southern Railway has made it possible for thousands of persons to know that in Western North Carolina the climate is perfect the year round, and that in midsummer that region is ideal.

Whether it be the hunter, the angler, or the idler, the broad plateau, the foothills, and the mountain sides and tops of the picturesque Blue Ridge open day after day new fields for sport and new scenes of rest or recreation. Every desirable spot of this broad plateau, 2,000 feet above the sea, is accessible by the Southern Railway, whose summer schedule has been arranged to meet the particular requirements of summer travel and especially of those who are limited to week-end trips.

The grandeur of the scenery along the line of this road is seen at its best in "The Land of the Sky" and the "Beautiful Sapphire County," the very names themselves giving some hint of the remarkable beauties unfolded to the visitor.

Asheville is the center of "The Land of the Sky," and radiating from it may be found Hot Springs, Waynesville, Haywood White Sulphur Springs, Hendersonville, Brevard, Biltmore, Lake Toxaway, and a short distance farther on to the southwest, "the Beautiful Sapphire Country." It is to the enterprise of the Southern Railway that these now famous sections of the South owe their popularity. They are easily reached by palatial through express trains from New York City, affording every comfort and luxury during the Southern journey. Connections carefully arranged likewise make them accessible from all points in the South and West. It is at Salisbury, N C. that the tourist from the North gains his first glimpse of the beautiful country. From that point until the train reaches the summit of the Blue Ridge, the route is through a district of constantly changing and exquisite scenery.

The Sapphire country has been compared, and not inaptly, to the far famed English lake district, but this lake region of the South is on a much grander scale. Its mountain peaks tower well into the clouds and its cliffs are twice the height of those in England. Its cataracts and mountain streams come plunging down their rocky beds from far greater distances than the English streams In the region of the "Land of the Sky" more than eighty mountain peaks tower over 5,000 feet, and twenty three of them are higher than Mount Washington, the giant of the White Mountains. No longer do the mountain resorts of New Hampshire, New York and Vermont hold sway, for since the erection of the splendid hotels and innumerable hostelries of more modest pretensions in this section, those seeking health, rest, recreation and change have found in this glorious mountain and lake region climate, scenery and comfort—and what more can one want.

There was issued from the press only yesterday an artistic brochure by the Southern Railway telling all about this country It contains time tables, descriptive matter, the names of resorts, the prices charged, and tells how to get there It is a complete index to a perfect vacation country, and after reading it no one need be in doubt as to where to spend his vacation, how much it will cost and how to reach it.—Post, Washington D. C, May 22, 1906.

"Adam," said Mother Eve, "I wish you would put a few cut worms on my favorite fig tree."

"What, and have all the nice leaves bored full of holes?"

"Certainly, I wish to make an open-work shirtwaist."

Philadelphia has over 290,000 dwellings within its city limits.

Easton National Bank has declared its usual semi-annual dividend of 6 per cent which will require a disbursement of $12-000.—Star Democrat.

An exchange has developed the biggest trust on earth. It is the country newspaper. It trusts everybody, gets cussing, and if it busts for trusting, gets cussed for busting.

The rates of fire insurance have advanced all over the country which is due probably by the recent heavy loss of some of the old line companies by the fire at San Francisco, The increase will amount to from 10 to 25 per cent.

The city of Paris eats in dollar values one-third in poultry to all other meats, and Paris cooked chicken is praised by all travelers. Last year the poultry consumed was valued at $10,000,000; eggs over $5,000,000; snails, $1,000 000 Of the meats a large proportion is horse meat, which tastes like our grass fed beef, the fat being a bright yellow.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Directors of the bank of Crisfield held on Thursday June 7th, 1906. the regular semi-annual dividend of three per cent clear of all taxes was declared, payable July 2nd, 1906. They also added $5,000.00 to the surplus fund, making it $20,000.00. The deposits of June 9th, as reported to the Directors were $334,973.70.

Luther Howell was shot through the heart and instantly killed at Frederica Del., Saturday night, and C. W. Cameron of Philadelphia, a baseball umpire, was shot in the shoulder and seriously injured, as the result of a baseball game The shooting wad done by Juniper Benson and Buck Causland, negroes, who escaped, but were subsequently captured and lodged in the jail at Dover, Del. The shooting was an outcome of a quarrel over a ball game between the Frederica and Felton teams.

A dispatch from Frederick Md. states that a tremendous crop of cherries is being gathered by the farmers of Frederick county, quantities of which has been shipped away. On saturday last a consignment of five tons was shipped from Frederick to Eastern cities, and other large shipments will follow this week. The pea canning industry is at its height in this county, and within the next two weeks wheat will be ready to harvest.

Thieves are growing bold in and around Newark Del. The dwellings of Harry Kendall and Charles McCall, near that town were entered and plundered a few nights ago and early Sunday morning two negroes smashed a show window in the Opera House and crawling inside broke open the cash register from which they got $6. They took a suit of clothes, some caps, ties and other furnishings and going out by the front door set off the burgular alarm The janitor was roused and saw the negroes leaving and Bailiff Chalmers showed up promptly, but not soon enough to come up with the thieves.

The barn on the farm of H. Tjaden a farmer living near Vienna, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed by the fire which ensued during the storm which visited many sections of Dorchester county Friday afternoon. A horse standing in the barn was also killed by the bolt. A daughter of Mr. Tjaden had a very narrow escape from death. She was milking a cow in the barn when the stroke came. The bucket which she used as a receptacle for the milk and which was only a short distance from her was struck and torn to bits. The young lady however, escaped without injury of and kind.

Quite a little excitement was caused during the storm Saturday afternoon at the corner of High and Poplar streets by burning into one of the telephone wires. The lightning which was playing on the wire seems to have met with some obstruction, causing it to collect at this point. The breaking of the wire was followed by a sound very much like a pistol shot, and at the sound quite a number of people gathered. According to the evidence of those present a ball of fire was seen to drop immediatly after the explosion, varying in size, according to the eyes of the observers, from a walnut to a washtub. In the exchange the shock caused 75 of the drops which announce the ringing of a 'phone bell to drop, and scared the operators as well.—Cambridge Record.

Never before in the history of Ocean City has there been so much activity displayed at this period of the year as now. There is also every indication that this will prove the most prosperous season. Many cottagers have arrived, and nearly all the boarding houses have some visitors.

And now the corset is doomed, maybe. This interesting bit of information has reached New York in a letter from a Manhattan woman who is traveling in Europe and using her eyes to such an effect that she has seen things not mentioned in the guide books. She says Paris faddists have started a campaign to induce society women to abandon this article of dress.

An exchange tells of the following strange incident which happened in one of the churches in rural district: "Brethren," said a man in the meeting, "so many sinners are dying every day. I have come to the conclusion that Hell is full." He had just about taken his seat, when an old deacon in the amen corner raised the hymn; "There's a place reserved for you, brother: there's a place reserved for you."

One of our citizens who occasionally wipes the dishes for his wife became tired of the job and refused, saying that "it is not a man's work." Not feeling disposed to lose his help she brought the Bible out to convince him of his error and read as follows from 12 Kings 21:13: "And will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down. It is needless to say that he is doing his occasional stunt.

According to indications the great fire of February 7, 1904, has not yet spent itself, after smoldering thirty months. About 1 o'clock Thursday, while some workmen were clearing the debris from the foot of South street, a lot of grain was disclosed. As it was exposed to view smoke curled forth, and in a few minutes flames burst out. As there is no inflammable material about the wharf, the only cause that can be given for the fire is the conflagration of two years ago.

Des Moines, Iowa, boasts of a baby that changes color three times a day. It is the child of Hindoo parentage, said to be the first one to make that claim ever born in America. When the little fellow awakens at sunrise he is a pretty pink, fair complexioned boy. At noon he changes color and within an hour is of the dark ginger color of his princely ancestors. At night he becomes an alabaster white. The mixture of bloods is said to be accountable for the strange phenomenon.

The doctrine of vegetarianism appears to be shaken by the result of an investigation that an English newspaper has made into the subject of the longevity of birds. With one notable exception, the carrion or meat-feeding birds are the longest lived. The exception is the swan. The averages of some of the best-known birds are given in the following: Blackbird lives 12 years; blackcap, 15; canary, 24; crane, 24; crow, 100; eagle, 100; fowl, common, 10; goldfinch, 15; goose, 50; heron, 59; lark, 13; linnet, 23; nightingale, 18; parrot, 50; pheasant, 15; pigeon, 20; sparrow hawk, 40; swan 100; thrush 10 and wren, 3 years.

Judge Robert J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, gives what he declares is a sure cure for hydrophobia. It is as follows: One ounce and a half of elecampane root bruised is put into a pint of new milk and reduced one-half by boiling. Take one ounce in the morning, fasting until afternoon, or at least not eating until several hours have passed. The second dose should be the same as the first, except two ounces of the root are needed. The third dose are all that are needed for the cure. This medicine can be given at any time before the spasm comes upon the bitten person. A dose for a horse or cow should be three or four times as large as that for a person.

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1906.

New Senators From Maryland And Delaware.

The appointment of Hon. William Pinkney Whyte, "the grand old man" of Maryland, to fill out United States Senator Arthur P. Gorman's unexpired term, seems to have aroused all the ire of the "unterrified" wing of Democracy in Maryland. They are, in fact, so imbued with Gorman's political ideas that any man not of the Gorman stripe is unworthy. Governor Warfield has seen fit to go counter to the wishes of these gentry upon several occasions during his administration, and greatly to the satisfaction and encouragement of the people in general.

For personal reasons, so long as a Democrat had to be chosen to succeed Gorman, we preferred that Ex-Governor Jackson be nominated as United States Senator. But we understand that Governor Jackson did not care for the appointment. Senator Whyte will, we have every reason to believe, make an acceptable representative for the State. He is aged, but vigorous. He is also experienced and will not be compelled to wait in the background for recognition. Furthermore, he will not bolster the pretensions of would be successors from the ranks of Gorman's lieutenants to the captaincy.

Delaware's troubles at last are over. Addicks is out of it and for good. Col. Henry A. Du Pont, elected Senator last week, will now step to the front in Delaware as undisputed leader of the Republican forces. He will, no doubt, be able to swing Delaware into the Republican column, where she belongs, without much fear of successful dispute by the Democrats. Half of Delaware's difficulties and disgraceful venality has been caused by the Democrats and pretty nearly the other half by Addicks. The State should now return to decency and a popular government without the influence of money at the polls. This means Republicanism.

The Crimes In Somerset.

We must heartily commend the officials of Somerset county for their courage and determination to prevent the lynching of the two negroes now under arrest there and in Virginia for the crimes committed by the men last Sunday and Tuesday. The offense of the negro known as "Kid" was especially heinous and hanging is too good him. It is easy to condone a mob for stringing up such a wretch, but this is not law and order and the Somerset officials did exactly right to protect their prisoner from disorganized vengeance. The courts will surely hang the negro and it will have all the more force as an example when done under the majesty of the law.

The negro Watson, who assaulted Mr. Samuel Barnes on Tuesday and who was nearly killed by the crowd at Pocomoke, received perhaps a just punishment. It should not however, have been inflicted by a mob. Such violence is always to be regretted as it serves to inflame the negroes as a race and does no good in similar crimes. Furthermore it greatly injures the reputation of a community with the country at large. The Eastern Shore is rapidly forging to the front and we do not want to be classed with the backwoods regions of the South where incidents of this kind are almost of daily occurrence.

BAPTISTS IN SESSION.

Eastern District Association For Ministers And Laymen Met In Division Street Baptist Church This Week.

The annual meeting of the Eastern District Baptist Association was held in the Division Street Baptist Church Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The session Tuesday was preliminary to the regular meeting and was in the order of a conference. Rev. B. G. Parker, of Mardela Springs, spoke on the "Use and Abuse of Pastoral Visitation." Mr. W. E. Hearn, of Cambridge, and Rev. L. E. Dalton, of Easton, spoke on the advancement of God's work. Rev. E. B Hatcher, of Baltimore, gave an account of the meeting of the Western District Association recently held at Hagerstown.

The election of officers at the meeting on Wednesday resulted in Mr. E. M. Ross, of Pocomoke, being chosen Moderator; W. E. Hearn, of Cambridge, vice-president, and Mr. John A. Sims, secretary and treasurer. Rev Mr. Granberry delivered the address of welcome to which Rev. H. L. Swain, responded. Rev. Theo. W. Gayer, of Girdletree, gave the annual sermon and Rev. Walter Rhoades, of Baltimore, delivered the annual doctrinal sermon. The discussion of both foreign and home missions was the order of the day.

The final meetings were held Thursday. The report on State missions was read and discussed. An encouraging account of the present day outlook for Baptists was given by Rev. E. B. Hatcher, of Baltimore. Ministerial Education was discussed by Rev. R. C. Granberry.

At the conclusion of the morning session, the ladies attending met and formed the Womens' Branch of the Eastern District Baptist Association. Mrs. Oscar Lee Owens, of Cambridge, was chosen president.

Reports on Sunday School, B. Y. P. U. and Temperance work were read and discussed. The report of the committee on the Digest of Letters showed that more baptisms had been made by churches in the Association than ever before.

After a rising vote showing the appreciation of the visitors for their treatment by both the Baptist Churches in Salisbury and the people of the town the meeting came to a close to meet next year at Cordova and it won't improve your own appearance any to criticise your neighbor's clothes. The thing for you to do in the matter of crops is to get down and do a little hoeing on your own grounds, and in the matter of personal appearance you can't do better than come to Lacy Thoroughgood for a new summer suit. It is an honest fact that Thoroughgood's suits and hats do more to improve a man's appearance than anything we know of, for the reason that they're made of better material, fit better, have better style, and are worked on by better tailors than any other ready-to-wear clothes kept in Salisbury. Thoroughgood's clothes are guaranteed as to quality, and are the standard as to what is correct in style, material, and workmanship. The best way to satisfy yourself is to see the clothes—try them on—we will be very glad to show you. It's poor economy to buy cheap goods of any kind—that is, cheap in quality. To buy an inferior make of clothes is throwing money away. Buy your suits from Thoroughgood. They're good and everybody knows it now. He's been in the business twenty years in Salisbury, and nobody has been robbed yet.

It Won't Help Your Own Crop Any To Sit On The Fence And Count Your Neighbor's Weeds

SHOES DE LUXE

NEVER were shoes more beautiful than the new "Queen Quality" Custom Grade models. The extent of their variety may be prosaically presented by stating that they are made in no less than 4,760 variations of shape and style, thus affording accuracy of fit for every type and size of foot, and ease the first day worn. But no figures can express the charm of this variety, indeed it is but faintly suggested by the illustrations here shown. To appreciate this you must see the shoes. Microscopic Writing.

Thackeray could write the Lord's Prayer on a sixpence, which is the size of a dime, but it is now possible to write the prayer on a surface so small that one grain of sand would hide it completely. Microscopists sell copies of the Lord's Prayer written in a circle only the five-hundredth part of an inch in diameter. To read the prayer it is necessary to use a lens magnifying 500 times. Writing so incredibly small is accomplished by means of levers six feet long. These levers are so adjusted that the motion is gradually lessened as it travels along them till, when it reaches the delicate end, armed with a minute diamond pen that rests on a glass surface, it causes the pen to register on the glass writing so small as to be invisible.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A British Blunder.

There is an old story of the foreign office in connection with the small French colony of Chandernagore. This tiny possession is situated on the Hooghly, twenty-one miles from Calcutta. It extends two miles along the river and one and a half miles inland from it. During our wars with France the settlement was taken and added to our dependency, but when terms of peace were arranged our minister of foreign affairs, in total ignorance of its position and of the importance of its retention, agreed to its being restored to France. It turned out that he thought it was a small island in the West Indies and of no consequence!—Westminster Gazette.

The Interior of the Earth.

A frequent remark is that mankind dwells on a thin crust encircling a molten mass and that the journey of life is practically on a fire ball incased in a fragile shell that has cooled and that, as it cools further, contracts with earthquake shocks. Much virtue in rhetoric, if the purpose is to elevate the hair and induce cold thrills and gooseflesh. The internal fire of the earth is an inference and, in any large sense, historically harmless if true. Persons who worry over cosmic problems might also keep awake of nights over the palpable truth that the earth moves through space without any visible means of support. On the planet are the plain marks of epochs of ice as well as of intense heat. Scientists agree that glacial ages will come again, but geology teaches that they are gradual and of limited extent geographically. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cinderella of the Canary Islands.

Hierros can hardly be called, although nominally entitled, one of the "fortunate isles." It is the Cinderella of the Canary group, and in its southwesterly isolation may be said to live on fog. But for the mists that drench its shores the little island would die of thirst, and no vegetables could be sent to market. Its western promontory, Debas, once enjoyed celebrity as the spot through which was drawn the first universal meridian.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XII, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 17.

Text of the Lesson, Luke ix, 28-36. Memory Verses, 30, 31—Golden Text, Luke ix, 35—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.]

In each of the three gospels which record the lesson of today the transfiguration story is immediately preceded by our Lord's saying concerning some standing there who would not taste of death till they had seen the kingdom of God (verse 27). We cannot but believe therefore that the transfiguration and its accompaniments were the fulfillment of our Lord's saying. Peter's comment upon it in II Pet. i, 16-18, and his frequent references to the sufferings and the glory (I Pet. i, 11; iv, 13; v, 1) confirm this. In last week's lesson we heard our Lord foretell His sufferings and heard Peter rebuke Him for the thought. Then our Lord said that His followers must be prepared to suffer with Him, to deny self, take up the cross daily and follow Him. But for their encouragement He said that, though He was now with them in humiliation, He would come again in glory and reward every man according to his works (Matt. xvi, 27). The transfiguration was a sample of His glory, His kingdom in miniature, to encourage those who were following Him in His humiliation to be content and even rejoice, to be partakers of His sufferings, knowing that when His glory should be revealed they would be glad with exceeding joy (I Pet. iv, 13). Abraham was sustained by the assurance of the city, Moses by the recompense of the reward, Paul by the glory to be revealed and our Lord Himself by the joy set before Him (Heb. xi, 10, 16, 26; xii, 2; Rom. viii, 18).

The Lord Jesus was in constant and conscious touch with His Father in heaven. Knowing that He came from God and would return to God, He gave Himself up wholly to the will of God and ever lived to please His Father, trusting Him for every word and work. In Him dwelt all the fullness of God, but as a rule the glory was concealed within that mortal body. On this occasion as He talked with His Father the glory shone through, and His face shone as the sun, and His raiment was white as snow, white and glistening. Compare Rev. i, 13-16; xix, 12. After Moses had been forty days with God in the mount his face shone, but that was reflected light. This light seen in Christ was from within, for He was God manifest in the flesh.

In all the Bible story only two men besides our Lord are recorded as having fasted forty days, and here they are with Christ alive and well and talking with Him concerning His approaching sufferings as the great sin bearer, by virtue of which they had already enjoyed hundreds of years, as we count time, in the presence of God, one of them over 1,400 years and the other nearly 900. The death and resurrection of Christ must have an importance in the eyes of the redeemed in glory which they do not seem to possess to many of the redeemed on earth. See Rev. v, 9, 10; vii, 14; xii, 11; xiv, 4, and compare with reference to what they should be to the redeemed on earth, Rev. i, 5, 6; Gal. ii, 20; iii, 13; Eph. i, 6, 7; I Pet. i, 18, 19; iii, 18, etc. We are surprised to see the three favored disciples heavy with sleep in the presence of such glory, but does not this and the fact that they actually slept in the presence of His sufferings in Gethsemane strikingly set forth our inability to grasp eternal realities except by the Spirit of God? Do we not all sadly confess our indifference to the things unseen and eternal except the Spirit quicken us and teach us? And when we attempt to speak of heavenly realities are we not apt to talk as foolishly as Peter did on this occasion (verse 33) unless the Spirit speak through us? For the natural man cannot understand the things of God (I Cor. ii, 11-14). Moses and Elijah and all the prophets spake of Christ by the Spirit (I Pet. i, 11), as it is written, "To Him give all the prophets witness" (Acts x, 43), and now from the cloud is heard the voice of the Father, saying, "This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye Him." With verse 35 compare Matt. xvii, 5. This testimony from heaven may well cover all His public ministry, while that at His baptism covers the thirty years of His life at Nazareth. In all His life on earth He always pleased the Father.

When His kingdom comes it shall be seen that He will have with Him His risen and translated saints represented here by Moses and Elijah, and Israel on earth shall be a righteous nation, represented here by the disciples. The King of kings with His church glorified and Israel in their own land shall possess the whole earth and fill it with His glory, and His will shall be done on earth as in heaven, and the kingdom on the whole earth shall be the Lord's. Wars shall cease, every high thing be brought low, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day (Isa. ii, 4, 11, 17). The sight of this glory made them fall on their faces in fear, as it afterward did John in Patmos, but His loving hand and His gracious "Fear not" are ever the same (Matt. xvii, 6, 7; Rev. i, 17). They saw no man any more save Jesus only with themselves (Mark ix, 8), and thus we are to go on day by day, occupied with Him and His grace and glory till we see Him face to face. So shall we be transfigured, for that is really the word in Rom. xii, 1; II Cor. iii, 18, which in the A. V. is rendered "transformed" and "are changed." If there were more transfigured saints there would be more wanting to be like them and like Him.

Her Property.

Now and again things happen on the football field which go to add to the gayety of the nation. On one occasion, for instance, during a certain league match in the north, the referee somehow managed to lose his whistle. There was not another whistle to be found, and it seemed that the game would have to come to a sudden and inglorious end, until the referee hit upon an ingenious scheme. He produced a latchkey from his pocket and managed to tootle merrily enough on it till suddenly, as he approached the touch line a woman's shrill voice was heard, exclaiming:

"Fred, come here at once! Where did you get that latchkey?"

As he listened to the guffaw which went up from the assembled crowd that referee was the most sheepish looking man on the ground, and as he thought of the curtain lecture looming ahead his heart became like lead within his bosom.—London Answers.

Blessings of Work.

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best will breed in you temperance, self control, diligence, strength of will, content and a hundred virtues which the idle will never know.—Charles Kingsley.

Business Education.

Nothing will stand you in better stead in the hard, cold, practical, everyday world than a good, sound business education. You will find that your success in trade, occupation or profession will depend as much on your general knowledge of men and affairs as on your technical training.—Success Magazine.

More Important.

Some of the other symptoms of Heart Trouble are: Pains in the Side, Back and Shoulder; Fainting or Weak Spells; Dry Cough; Swelling of Feet and Ankles; Cold Feet or Hands.

No one can afford to allow a weak heart to go without medicine, because weak heart means poor circulation, and poor circulation means weak lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys, etc.

If, therefore, you suspect heart trouble, begin taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. The Heart Cure will do you good, as it is a splendid tonic for the blood and nerves, and will revitalize your entire system.

Finally, remember, Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold under a guarantee that the first bottle will do you good.

If it doesn't—your money back.

"I was afflicted with heart trouble for three years. I would be apparently all right, and without a moment's warning would fall as though shot. The attacks were frequent, and a terrible dread possessed me, as I never knew when or where, nor under what conditions I would be attacked, and whether I would survive them. I consulted and was treated by some of the most eminent physicians of the state. Not finding relief from this source, I began taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and began to improve at once. I used ten bottles, which entirely cured me, as I have not had an attack for five years."—MRS. JOHN DRESBACK, Leipsic, O.

Three crates of berries will buy from us a Fine Suit of Clothes—as fine as a millionaire wears. To be a millionaire therefore (in clothes) buy your new suit with your strawberry money from Nock Brothers.

We have a new store—that is, a new store to you since last strawberry time. It is located where the Farmers & Merchants Bank used to keep. We have a new stock, strictly up-to-date, of everything a man wears—and some things women wear.

The burglars who blew open the B. C. & A. Ry. Co's. safe a few weeks ago passed our store by. Why? Because our profits are so small we haven't got a safe—don't need one. We're selling cheap this year because we want your trade. In fact we give some things away. Come in and see what we have. Doesn't cost anything to look.

Next year we will want the real value of our goods—ask more for them. But the fellow who buys from us this year won't want a new suit next year. His this-year's-suit will be as good as new. They're not iron-clad, but they're the best wearing clothes in town, and we guarantee a less price.

Other things in our stock are according. There's no use quoting prices—we don't want our creditors to know what we're selling at. They might close us up.

But for $15—fifteen little dolars—$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$—we will give you a Suit of Clothes that will make you the best-dressed man in your neighborhood.

Come and see us. If you find one thing overdrawn or untrue in the above we will make you a present of a New Stetson Hat, or better still, a Nock's Special.

We are after the strawberry money you are going to spend, and we are bound to have it if values will bring it.

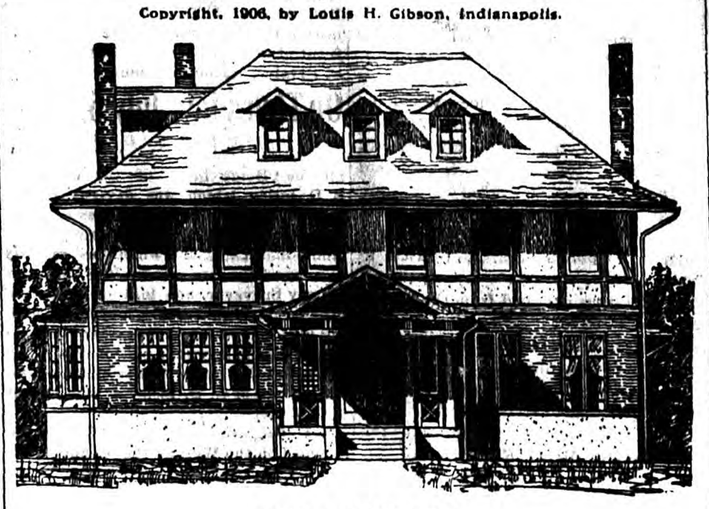
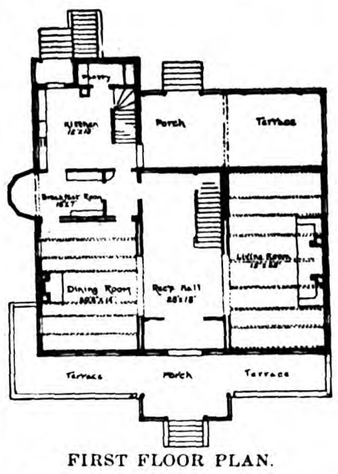
DISTINCTIVE DWELLING

Handsome but Homelike House For Those Who Want "Something Different"—Cost $8,000.

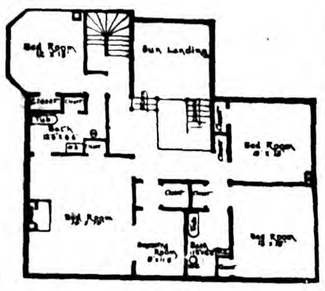
Copyright, 1906, by Louis H. Gibson, Indianapolis.



FRONT ELEVATION.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This house has a north front, with no direct sun on the side of the principal entrance. Therefore only the doorway is protected by a porch. The front porches on each side are in the nature of cement floored terraces, with surrounding brick walls. The covered porch is in the rear and has an outlook on a garden of flowers, shrubs and trees. The dining room is connected with the kitchen by a china or butler's pantry sufficiently large to be used as a breakfast room.

The hall, thirteen feet in width, is open at both ends. The same kind of doorway, with windows on each side, opens to front and rear porches. There are casement windows at each end of the sitting room, which give full opening from end to end and on to the porch. On one side of the room is a large brick fireplace, with projecting seats on each side.

There is a large sun room twelve feet deep and thirteen feet wide on a level with the stair landing. Nearly all the south end of this room is of glass. The flat roof over the porch next to the landing will be used for sleeping purposes during a part of the year, arrangements being provided for vines, and canvas covering for protection when wanted.

On the second floor is a little sitting room next to the front bedroom, which connects with the bathroom. On the southeast corner of the house is a smaller bedroom, which also connects with the bath.

The first story is of old colonial brick, varied in color and laid up with large joints. The mortar is tinted a dull buff. The second floor is of plaster. The woodwork both outside and inside is stained, not painted. The cost is about $8,000.

LOUIS H. GIBSON.

Origin of Words.

To Milan is owed the word "millinery," a milliner having been originally a Milaner, an importer of feminine finery from Milan, just as a "cordwainer," shoemaker, was a worker in "cordouan," leather from Cordova. It is curious to note how many words have come from the geographical names of northern Italy. There is, for instance, "florin," the coin of Florence, and "pistol," from Pistoja.

Dr. Johnson said that the word "job" was "a low word now much in use, of which I cannot tell the etymology." It is supposed to be really identical with "gob," a mouthful or morsel. Pepys records how "my lord" said to him, "I will do you all the good jobs I can," and Pepys himself speaks of Tangier as "hitherto used as a jobb to do a kindness to some lord." But the simple monosyllabic ugliness of the word was too much for Johnson.

Many words of most august sound prove to be of quite commonplace ancestry when traced to their origins. "Finance" is really only "settling up." Literally it is just "ending" and was formerly used in that very simple sense in the English language. Then it came to signify settling up with a creditor and acquired the special sense of ransom.

Business Methods.

Great numbers of vast fortunes in this country have been and are being built up on the very ignorance of the masses in regard to business methods. The schemers bank on it that it is easy to swindle people who do not know how to protect their property. They thrive on the ignorance of their fellows. They know that a shrewd advertisement, a cunningly worded circular, a hypnotic appeal, will bring the hard earnings of these unsuspecting people out of hiding places into their own coffers.—Success Magazine.

Slovenliness In Speech.

Do not drift into careless habits of speech. Slang, which is slovenliness in speech, is as contemptible as slovenliness in dress. Many people use slang because they are too lazy to think of proper forms for the expression of thought. The clothing of our minds certainly ought to be regarded before that of our bodies.

Moated Houses In England.

Helmingham Hall is the seat of Lord Tollemache in Suffolk, about eight miles from Ipswich. The existing drawbridge has been raised every night for the past 300 years, and the present owner does not allow the custom to become obsolete. Another fine example of a moated house is Leeds castle, about three miles southeast of Maidstone, in Kent, which, surrounded by its moat, forms almost a lake crossed by a single bridge. There is a fine moat at Wells, in Somersetshire, where the episcopal palace, an ancient castellated mansion, is surrounded with walls inclosing nearly seven acres of ground. This moat is supplied with water from St. Andrew's well.—London Standard.

Quite a Stoic.

"I had expected there would be a great splurge at Miss Fawtyfore's wedding, but it seems to have passed off quietly."

"Oh, yes. The young man submitted to the operation without a murmur."—Chicago Tribune.

Breaking It Gently.

Mr. De Club—My dear, a great German physician says women require more sleep than men. Mrs. De C.—Does he? Mr. De C.—Yes, my dear—um—er—you'd better not wait up for me tonight.

Easy Enough.

Insurance Superintendent (suspiciously)—How did your husband happen to die so soon after getting insured for a large amount? Widow He worked himself to death trying to pay the premiums.

They Come In Flocks.

One way to gain lots of relatives is to die rich and leave no will.—Baltimore Sun.

Olden Times.

"Why do you say olden times?" asked a little girl who had been listening to a Bible story. "Times are ever so much older now than they were in those days."

A man never shows his own character so plainly as by his manner of portraying another's.—Richter.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Read It.

Kidney ills come quietly—Mysteriously,
But nature always warns you through the urine.
Notice the kidney secretions.
See if the color is unhealthy—
If there is settlings and sediment.
Passages too frequent, scanty, painful
Its time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills,
To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.
Doan's have done great work in Salisbury,

E Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension, says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last Febuary. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back.

The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

Street Commissioner Sirman Refuses To Serve At Salary Offered.

Last Tuesday night the City Council confirmed the appointments sent in two weeks ago by Mayor Harper, with the exception of J. Frank Waller, named as an extra night policeman, as follows:

Counsel to the Board—L. Atwood Bennett; Police Justice—Wm. A Trader; Street Commissioner—G. Edward Sirman; Chief of Police—Woodland Disharoon; Assistant—James W. Kennerly; Night Policeman—James Crouch; Chief Fire Department—E. Edward Sirman.

The Council decided that they could not afford the expense of an extra night man on the police force, so refused to confirm Mr. Waller's appointment Mayor Harper dropped from the list of the city force day policeman Samuel Perdue and changed J. W. Kennerly from Street Commissioner to day police duty to succeed Perdue All the above appointments take effect July 1st.

There is considerable doubt as to the acceptance by Mr. G. E. Sirman of his appointment as Street Commissioner. Mr. Sirman has declined the office at the salary named. Unless the Council finds it possible to meet his requirements, a new appointment will have to be made. The matter will be settled very likely next Monday night.

NEGRO RAVISHER INDICTED.

Dramatic Scene In Somerset Court On Wednesday—Crowd Awaited To Lynch Him.

It was a dramatic scene in the court room at Princess Anne on Wednesday, when the special session of the Somerset county Court convened to present the charge of rape against the negro Lee, alias Scott, to the Grand Jury for the April term, called into session by Judge Page for the purpose of finding a bill of indictment for the terrible crime committed by the negro the week previous. Judges Page, Holland and Lloyd were on the bench and the proceedings were gone through with the utmost solemnity. At times, during the hour Court was in session, the room was as still as death. No sensational features developed however and there was no demonstration by the tremendous crowd that jammed the Court room, the halls ontside and filled the Court House yard. The prisoner was not present and this is the only thing that saved his neck, as the crowd were determined to wreck vengeance upon him had he appeared. It is estimated that 2,500 men were in and about the Court House.

Robert Barnes, husband of the woman who was assaulted, Miss Powell, his other victim, and her brother and other relatives of their respective families, were in Princess Anne, but kept in the background. Miss Powell was not forced to go through the ordeal of appearing before the Grand Jury, the evidence of Dr. E. M. Eccles, the physician who attended her and Mrs. Barnes after the crime, and of Deputy Sheriff Charles Lankford, of Virginia, to whom Lee confessed, being all that was considered necessary. The above two were the only witnesses examined. The crowd was cool and there was no drunkenness. They gathered about in knots and clusters, talking of the crime. Occasionally the feelings of some one of the men would rise into passion and his voice could be heard as he cursed the negro to his surrounding hearers, but there was no other outward evidence of disregard for the law. No person who talked with the people for five minutes however, would doubt but that they would have torn the negro limb from limb had he been taken to Princess Anne that day. The men were deeply incensed at Judge Page and Sheriff George Brown for having balked them from their purpose, but their anger vented itself in outbursts of denunciation and expressions of determination to "get" the negro when he did appear. They are watching every approach to Princess Anne night and day and swear they will eventually kill him.

Judge Page's charge to the Grand Jury was very brief. After they were assembled inside the bar, he said:

"Gentlemen of the Jury, you have been called together to consider a matter of which the State's Attorney will fully inform you when you go to your room. Gentlemen, you may now retire to your room".

The jury filed out, attended by State's Attorney Henry J. Waters, and an informal recess of Court was taken for one hour. The jury remained in session only about thirty minutes, however, and at 10.35 o'clock Court was again called. The jury was presented before the Court and asked the usual formal questions in reference to the finding of a bill of indictment or presentment, to which the answer "yes" was given. Judge Page thereupon thanked the jury on the part of the county for their promptness and diligence, and dismissed them, unless they should again be called together. Court then adjourned, at about 11 o'clock. No date was fixed for the reassembling of Court for the prisoner's trial, and all the talk at Princess Anne among the attorneys and officers of the Court is that the trial wil take place in Baltimore. It is questioned whether this can be done legally, but the weight of opinion is that it can. The prisoner will be represented by C. O. Melvin, of Pocomoke.

SECOND ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

Lock Sawed In Two By Safe Blowers, But Not Far Enough, When Discovered—Two Are Taken To Princess Anne.

When Sheriff Bradley went to see the alleged safe blowers who are confined in the Salisbury Jail Friday morning he found that the lock to their cell had been tampered with. The clasp had been sawed in two, but not far enough to admit of the opening of the bars. No questions were asked the prisoners, the broken bars being considered sufficient evidence that they had made another attempt to secure their freedom.

After consideration it was deemed best to separate the men, and if possible to put them in more secure quarters. Accordingly, Deputy Sheriff Waller took Frank Smith, alias "Specs," and Robert Taylor, alias John Pennell who are considered the most dangerous of the lot, to Princess Anne Friday on the noon train. Frank Matthews and James Hawkins, as well as the fifth of the gang who was recently moved from the hospital, are still confined in the jail here.

WORKING OUT PLANS.

Baltimore City Southern Methodists Want To Accept Governor Jackson's Offer.

While nothing definite has been outlined, plans are being discussed whereby the joint congregations of Calvary and Trinity Southern Methodist Episcopal churches in Baltimore can take advantage of the offer made by Ex-Gov. E. E. Jackson to contribute $50,000 toward a building, provided the congregation raise $100,000 and secure a site. The problem of getting a site takes care of itself, as the ground upon which Trinity Church stands, at Madison avenue and Preston street, is owned by the congregation. It can be sold or exchanged for a location elsewhere if the congregation should decide to move.

Ex-Governor Jackson's offer has only two conditions, both of which are characteristic of him. He and Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson of the Southern Church are devoted friends. Their intimacy extends over a period of years, and the kindly feeling entertained for the Bishop by Governor Jackson is shared by Mrs. Jackson and the other members of the ex-Governor's family. Affection for his friends is one of the ex-Governor's strongest traits, and as a tribute to the worth of Bishop Wilson and to the esteem in which he is held Mr. Jackson submitted as one condition that the edifice should be called "The Alpheus W. Wilson Methodist Episcopal Church South."

The other condition imposed by Governor Jackson applies to the amount to be given. He pledges $50,000 toward the erection of the edifice, but the congregations of Calvary and Trinity churches, which have merged since the property of the former, at Greene and Lombard streets, was sold to the University of Maryland, must secure $100,000, making the total cost of the church building $150,000.

Governor Jackson has long been identified with the Southern Church. This denomination has several structures in Baltimore, all of which are creditable to it and suitable for the purpose for which they are used. Not one of them, however, is immeasurably superior in design and dimensions to the others; none that can be pointed to as the "first" church of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Ex-Governor Jackson evidently felt that this should not be the case, and his views on this subject are said by those interested to have been heartily approved by Mrs. Jackson. It was for this reason that in donating the handsome sum of $50,000 he asked that $100,000 be provided by the congregation. With such a sum as the ex-Governor seeks to provide, Baltimore would have few more handsome edifices than the one he wishes to stand as a memorial to his friend, Bishop Wilson.

Rev. J. P. Prettyman, pastor of Trinity Church, said Thursday that nothing definite would be done until Ex-Governor Jackson returned to the city. He is now in Atlantic City, where he will spend a week before going to Watkins Glen, where he will spend three more weeks. The remainder of the warm weather will be spent by him at Bedford Springs, where he will be joined by Mrs. Jackson. It will probably be the latter part of September before the plans for the new church begin to assume such shape that the actual work of building can be undertaken.

When the idea of erecting a fine edifice was first brought up at the General Conference of the Southern Church two were to be built—one in Washington and one in Baltimore. Mr. Jackson promised to contribute $50,000 toward this project, but later the Baltimore end was dropped. Governor Jackson at once withdrew his offer. Any plans of this kind must include Baltimore City, as the Governor feels that it should not be overlooked.

How to kill Potato Bugs.

A man well known about town in Salisbury, and more or less prominent in local Republican political circles, spent a good round dollar recently to obtain some very interesting information and in consequence is being guyed unmercifully. We do not mention his name for fear of future consequences. But then everybody around Paul Watson's knows who he is.

The gentleman in question is more or less interested in horticultural and agricultural pursuits and when a short time ago, he saw an advertisement to the effect that for the small sum of one dollar a sure means of killing potato bugs without Paris green would be forwarded, he jumped at the chance.

In due time a package reached him through the mail and he opened it amid a crowd of admiring friends, who had gathered to see the wonderful machine, the virtues of which he had spread far and wide. When the paper was opened two small blocks of wood were revealed, marked No. 1 and No. 2.

The instructions read "first catch your bug and put him carefully on No. 1, then mash him with No. 2.

The language that struck the air the next minute turned everything blue and to this day the ducks in front of Doody's store can't quack in the right key from fright.

ADMITS HIS CRIME.

The Negro Lee Safe In Baltimore City Jail—Confesses His Guilt To Many Persons.

William Lee, the mulatto assailant of Mrs. Robert Barnes and Miss Frances Powell, of Somerset county, is locked up in the Baltimore City jail, arriving in that city from Norfolk early Thursday morning in charge of Sheriff Brown and two deputies. The negro was kept handcuffed to either the sheriff or one of his deputies all the way to Baltimore, and was hurried to the jail immediately upon the arrival of the steamer, under guard of a squad of police. Only a few persons were at the wharf when the boat arrived, and there was no disturbance. Lee went to sleep as soon as he was given his breakfast, after reaching the prison.

The negro freely admits his guilt. At Norfolk he confessed his crime to Sheriff Brown and expressed sorrow. He begged the sheriff to try and get him off with a life sentence in the Penitentiary. In Baltimore, when interviewed by a Baltimore News reporter, he was not inclined to be talkative at first, and regarded his visitors suspiciously; but after a few minutes conversation became more communicative.

GLAD TO GET TO JAIL.

"I suppose you are glad to be safely here in this strong jail?" said the reporter.

"Yes, sir; I'm mighty glad to get here. They was talkin' 'bout doin' all kinds o' things to me down the country," replied the mulatto. "I'm glad to get here. 'deed I is!"

"What ever possessed you to commit such a crime?" he was asked.

ADMITS HIS GUILT.

"Well, I don't know," he replied, folding and unfolding his arms, "I jus' don' know, 'ceptin' the devil got into me. I'd been drinkin' a little bit that day, and maybe it went to my head and made me crazy and I done what I done. I ain' going to lie, but I don' want to talk about it no more."

Lee, in response to further questions, said that he was born in York county, Virginia, and that his parents were not living. "I lived with step-people most all my life," continued the mulatto. The prisoner does not appear to realize the fate that is rapidly approaching him, and seems entirely indifferent, now that he is for a time at least safe from mob violence. When asked if he wanted to go to Princess Anne for trial, he answered very promptly in the negative, although he added in an indifferent tone: "I reckon I'll have to go back there some time."

SAYS HE HAD NO PISTOL.

He was asked what had become of the revolver with which he threatened Mrs. Barnes and Miss Powell.

"I didn't have no revolver," replied the mulatto. "I had a knife, and what's said about me having a revolver is wrong."

CONFESSED AGAIN WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Lee made another full confession to Deputy Sheriff Shelton Wednesday night on the way from Norfolk to Baltimore. "The story of the actual assault is about the same as heretofore published," said Mr. Shelton. "The negro said that he had gotten into a fight at Crisfield on the morning he committed the crime with the mate on a fishing steamer, and that it was in the hopes of escaping punishment for that offense that he had left there and gone to Kingston. The negro then described the offense," said Mr. Shelton, "about as he had described it in his written confession to the deputy sheriff of Northampton county. After committing the assault, he said, he watched the women until they got into the yard of their home, and then decided to go to Pocomoke and take a train to Portsmouth.

"On the way to Pocomoke, the negro said, he stopped at Rehoboth Church, where he stole a horse and buggy. From there, he said, he drove to Pocomoke, and, turning the horses loose, boarded the first train that came along going in the direction of Cape Charles City. While on the train crowds searched it for him, but overlooked him. When he reached Cape Charles City he was arrested a short while after he got off the train."

INSULTED WHITE WOMAN LAST YEAR

"He admitted to me a so," said the Sheriff, "That he insulted a white woman on the streets of Newport News last August, and that he skipped from there to keep from being lynched at that time."

"Asked as to the feeling against the negro in his county, Sheriff Brown replied: "The feeling there is still very strong, and the people are terribly worked up over the matter. There has been some talk about my keeping the prisoner away, but I have done my duty as I saw it and I have no excuses to offer."

The Sheriff and his deputy left Baltimore on the 5 o'clock boat Thursday afternoon for Crisfield.

Laying Corner Stone Of A. M. E. Zion Church.

The corner stone of the new A. M. E. Zion Church, East Church street, was laid on Sunday, June 14, at 5 p. m.

The laying of the corner stone marks an important period in the history of the A. M. E. Zion Church in Salisbury. From its incipiency it has struggled against much opposition and amid discouragements for a better house of worship in a more desirable location. The church has been organized 27 years, Rev. A. J. Spencer being its first pastor. The organization has worshipped on Water street for 21 years. During the pastorate of the late Rev. B. H. Freeman a lot was purchased on East Church street 46 by 120 feet.

Ground was broken for the new church on Tuesday, April 3, 1906. The foundations of the church have been laid, the church raised, the corner stone laid, and during the pastorate of the present incumbent over $1,000 has been raised within 19 months. Rev. Dr. M. R. Franklin, financial secretary of the A. M. E. Zion Church, delivered the corner stone sermon at 3 p. m. in the auditorium of the new church to a large audience. The pastor, Rev. G. M. Oliver, laid the corner stone in the presence of a large crowd of both white and colored people, aided by Dr. M. R. Franklin, Rev. J. H. Blake and Messrs J. W. Windsor and Lee Johnson, the builders. The corner stone is a beautiful one, bearing the name of the new church, viz: "St. Paul A. M. E. Zion Church, A. D., 1906," and contains a copy of the discipline, the church almanac for the year, "The Courier," the "Star of Zion," the official organ of the A. M. E. Zion Church, a list of the contributors, the names of the bishop, presiding elder, pastor, trustees and building committee of the church. Collection during the day was $116 69.

The church is 38 by 60 feet, is a two-story structure of modern architecture and possessing modern improvements. The institution demonstrates negro enterprise and thrift, the congregation having raised considerable of the money.

Bishop G. W. Clinton, D. D., will dedicate the church in the early fall. It is the purpose of the members of the church, aided by the generous white and colored friends in the city and the Church Extension Society of the connection, to raise an amount sufficient to cover two-thirds the cost of the erection of the church upon dedication.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Federal Officers For Maryland.

The long looked for and much discussed federal appointments for Maryland closing up the batch at the disposition of the President, were made Tuesday. Only two of the old officials hold over—Messrs. Rose and Langhammer—while the other three—Messrs. Malster Dryden and Mace were dropped.

The new names sent to the Senate by the President were a surprise to some persons, but not to others. The appointments reflect a combination of civil service reform and the Republican state and city organization.

The officials who were named by the President and those they will succeed follow:

United States District Attorney, John C. Rose, reappointed; salary, $4,000.

United States Marshal, John F. Langhammer, reappointed; salary, $3,500.

Assistant United States Treasurer, C. C. Pusey, Havre de Grace vice A. Lincoln Dryden, Crisfield; salary $4,500.

United States Appraiser of Merchandise, J. Carlisle Wilmer, Charles county vice C. Ross Mace, Baltimore county; salary, $3,000.

Naval Officer, Gen. J. Stuart MacDonald, of Baltimore, vice William T. Malster; salary, $5,000.

Death of Chas. A. Smith.

Chas. A. Smith, a farmer, died at his home near Hebron on Tuesday, June 12, of cancer. He leaves a widow who is a sister of Mrs. John W. Windsor and Mrs. Glen Perdue, of this city, also several children. He leaves several brothers and sisters. Mr. Smith was a gentleman of fine character and had a host of friends to mourn his death. His remains were interred in the cemetary at Hebron on Thursday. Funeral services were conducted by the Pastor at that place.

Secretary of War Taft has just transmitted to Congress the report of the Chief of Engineers on the examination and survey of Crisfield harbor, and favors the making of improvements to cost $37,706.62, and the expenditure of $800 per annum for maintenance. It is a fact beyond successful contradiction that about seven-eights of the horrible crimes that have been committed within the borders of Somerset county for nearly a half century have been perpetrated by negroes coming into this county from states south of us, and it is to be regretted that such murderously inclined villains cannot be kept outside our borders. It will also reduce the cost of automobiles so as to place them in reach of many people who can not afford to own them now.

History is making faster in Russia than anywhere else in the world—and it is vital, deep reaching history, too. Vance Thompson, in the July Everybody's, brings before you with wonderful art the scene and incidents of that great national drama.

Charles Edward Russell, who has also been at the other side of the world in the interests of Everybody's readers, contributes this month a highly important instalment of "Soldiers of the Common Good," dealing with the vigorous commercial policy of Japan.

There are important matters nearer home, one of which is the great bucket-shop evil, now under the searching fire of Merrill A. Teague. In his second article, this month, Mr. Teague names the leading bucket-shop thieves, and gives amazing evidence whereby these criminals convict themselves. In this number Mr. Lawson gives a brilliant picture of a Boston court scene and its significance, under the title, "A Prediction Roll-Call"; John L. Mathews tells the inspiring story of "Sophie Wright: The Best Citizen of New Orleans"; and a charactesistically humorous portrayal of "The Glorious Forth" as childhood sees it.

Gilbert Parker's powerful story, "The Error of the Day," and "Marcia Way," by the very able new short story writer, Richard Washburn Child, are striking features of the July fiction.

Thatched Roofs In England.

"The thatched roof, which makes the English cottage picturesque, is doomed," said an architect. "For some years it has been going gradually. Soon it will be altogether a thing of the past. Fire insurance is the cause of the thatched roof's disappearance. No company will insure a cottage or its contents if the roof is thatched. They who want insurance must substitute for the roof of thatch a tiled one. As long as the English cottager remains very poor so that his house and furniture are not worth insuring he keeps a thatched roof over his head. As soon as he begins to prosper and lays in household goods of value he takes out a fire policy and away then goes his thatched roof." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Courier's New Management.

For many reasons it is with regret that the present Editor and Manager of this paper announces his retirement from the business after this week. There will be no further changes, the other officers and the board of directors remaining the same, the only change being that Mr. Elmer H. Walton succeeds Mr. Benjamin as Editor and Manager and takes charge Monday morning.

The present editor started THE COURIER and it has grown up under his eye. He has been through many trials and tribulations with it—almost as many as a parent goes through with his child. He has eaten with it, slept with it and put in it as much endeavor as he is capable of exerting. He was green in the business and has made some mistakes, which we are sure have been forgiven long ago. The paper has been successful in several ways and we hope has done some good—at least no harm. It has lived, at all events, for more than seven years. We are sure it will be found even more alive, under its new management, seven years hence, than it is today.

We bespeak with our friends their good will for the new man. We have many, many things to be thankful for, have received many favors for which we are very grateful. We trust that the same support that has been tendered the old management will be given to the new. Mr. Walton is well known in the community and in the county and we feel sure that we are leaving the paper in capable hands. More than this it is useless to say. So with a final wish of good luck to all our friends and the hope that our successors will be as cordially treated as we, we bid them all good bye.

The Prisoner's Escape

Written by FRANK SMITH

An Imaginary Story By One Of The Safe Blowers Now In Salisbury Jail

'Twas midnight, and snowing hard. The wind now rising to a gale, blew in fitful gusts the falling flakes, causing them to drift in huge drifts by the road side. Woe to the belated traveler out on such a night as this. Thro this avalanche of sheet and snow loomed the massive walls of the State Prison at ————. The lights on the top of the walls cast but a faint glimmer on the surrounding objects as if they, too, were afraid to penetrate this indescribable gloom. Inside of the prison all was quiet; not a sound could be heard except the pat, pat of the warden as he made his hourly rounds, and the rattle of the windows as they shook beneath the onslaught of the terrific storm outside. Yet between the occasional bursts of wind and the rattle of the windows could be heard, soft and indistinct, the sis-sis of a saw as it attacked the cold steel which stood between its owner, a convict, and liberty. Time and time again the convict would retire to his cot, there to remain until the warden had passed his cell and his cry of "all's well" echoed throughout the corridor. Presently his perseverance was rewarded; with a little "click" he wrenched the bar from its support, squeezed his body thro the apperture like a snake, and then like a ghost, flitted across the corridor and began on the last barrier between himself and the outside world. Harder and harder he pressed the little piece of steel, swifter and swifter he caused it to fly back and forth. What mattered it to him if his hands were cut to the bone; what mattered it to him whether the blood oozing from the ragged cuts on his hand caused him to grow weaker and weaker. Was not this inch of steel the barrier that blocked his way to the outside world? The cuts he noticed not; the blood he saw not. His mind had passed from his present everyday life, and he saw naught but the future: Saw the green fields, the bright yellow wheat, bowing their golden heads to and fro with the balmy south-winds; saw the old homestead nestled in the shady grove of maple, little children at the door, and romping around in childish play. Ay, and his fair wife, as she slowly went about her household duties. He fancied he saw her as she flew into his arms after their long separation.

All this and more he saw. What mattered it to him whether the tears would come to his eyes and fall like glistening pearls on the steel below. He cared not how the storm raged outside, he was done with the present. All he looked at, all he cared for, was the future. He registered a solemn vow if he escaped, to change his mode of living, go back to the home in the maples, to his wife and children and make amends for the sorrow he had brought upon them.

The distant tread of the warden making his rounds came to his ear, and he worked the harder. To and fro the saw darted. Would it never get thro? The perspiration stood on his forehead like beads; still he kept on. Nearer and nearer came the warden. My God! would it never get thro? There was a dull buzz, a click sharper than the rest, and the saw had done its work. Grasping the bar with the grip born of desperation, he wrenched it from its fastenings, wormed his way thro the hole thus made and fell exhausted to the ground below.

The cold air revived him, and there was no time to be lost. One more barrier to cross and he was free! free!! after 10 long years of confinement. How his heart beat, and his eyes glistened, as with hat pulled down far over his face to keep the blinding sleet from striking him, he half ran, half staggered toward this last obstacle to freedom. Yet this last obstacle was the worst one of them all. A massive perpendicular wall of solid masonry 40 feet high. Bluntly dashing at the wall he strove to climb it, but it was no use. Time after time he tried only to fall back again. Tears came to his eyes and he beat his torn hands in despair. After getting this far was he to be caught and brought back to his lonely confinement? No, a thousand times no. Better death than this, far better.

He cast his eyes about for some means whereby he could gain access to the top of the wall. At last he has it. Staggering over to the corner of one of the numerous factories of the prison that faced the enclosure, he laid hold of the water drain and begins his laborious climb to the roof. Hand over hand he climbs, pausing occasionally to stop for breath. At last the roof is reached. But hark! What was that? And then above the roar of the storm could be heard the mad ringing of the prison bell.

The convict stood agast. Well he knew the ringing of that bell. Often he had heard that bell ring, and he knew that it rang to let the outside world know that a prisoner had escaped from————.

Ha! he whispered hoarsely, "they've discovered my escape, but by God! they'll never take me alive."

Then he hastily crossed the roof to the side that faced the street. On this side there was no wall, no nothing between him and liberty, except a drop of sixty feet. As he stood at the edge of this deep chasm, he hesitated. Well he knew that to attempt such a leap would be death. Yet not a moment was to be lost. Already he could hear the sounds of approaching pursuit. To wait was the dark, gloomy prison, the solitary confinement and subsequent punishment for this night's work. On the other side, to take the leap meant death, instant death, and then—the long peaceful sleep. The sound of the pursuers grew closer, and then with a muttered prayer he leaped to the ground below.

The evening papers of that day contained the following:

"SUICIDE ON THE EVE OF HIS RELEASE"

John ————, a convict serving 20 years at the State prison here, made a desperate attempt to escape last night. During the storm he sawed his way from the cell house and managed to reach the roof of the shirt shop. His escape was discovered shortly afterward by the warden making his rounds. He was traced to the roof and the guards were rapidly closing in upon him, when to escape capture, he took the frightful leap to the ground below. His body was horribly mangled, nearly every bone being broken. A pathetic incident of the escape is that the Governor had at a late hour last night signed a pardon for the man and it arrived by messenger just as the convict was being taken from the prison to his home—dead.

The Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, and Suspenders, Hosiery, Underwear, Neckwear, Umbrellas, Night Shirts and Pajamas that Lacy Thoroughgood sells in his two stores are genuine—no imitations. There's no sham about them, and you never get cheated when you buy them. A merchant prospers only when he sells good goods The makers of Lacy Thoroughgood's clothing rank among the largest manufacturers in the world. They claim that there is no better line of clothes made than theirs; and to substantiate this, into every garment of their make is sewn a guarantee label, which means that the purchaser may have his money refunded if he does not find any suit of their make all they claim it to be. The clothes that Lacy Thoroughgood sells are the best made and correct in style, If you have worn a suit that came from Lacy Thoroughgood's store you know this to be a fact. A slight-of-hand performance deceives the on-looker by attracting the attention to what is being done by one hand while the deception is accomplished with the other. Some clothiers use the same methods. They say to the public "LOOK OUT" for this particular cheat or that particular fake, with the expectation of having some greater failing go unnoticed. Lacy Thoroughgood has never had to resort to such methods. He has been in business 20 years, and nobody has been cheated yet. We sell no shams, we keep no imitations. Thoroughgood sells only the best goods made.

—Edward Watson, the negro who assaulted Mr. Samuel Barnes, of Somerset county, last week, was brought to Salisbury jail late Tuesday afternoon from Princess Anne by deputy sheriff Morris and Chief of Police Packard, of Princess Anne. NEVER were shoes more beautiful than the new "Queen Quality" Custom Grade models. The extent of their variety may be prosaically presented by stating that they are made in no less than 4,760 variations of shape and style, thus affording accuracy of fit for every type and size of foot, and ease the first day worn. But no figures can express the charm of this variety, indeed it is but faintly suggested by the illustrations here shown. To appreciate this you must see the shoes. Don't Kill the Hawk.

Man has sinned more than any other animal in trading with nature's balance. Clover crops and the killing of hawks are apparently unrelated, yet the hawks eat the field mice, the field mice prey on the immature bees, and the bees fertilize the clover blossoms. The death of a hawk means an overincrease of field mice and a consequent destruction of the bees.—Country Life In America.

Hippocratic Era in Medicine.

Richard Cole Newton declares that even in the early days of the Hippocratic era the art of surgery eschewed all forms of superstition and philosophic nature, attaining practical results by direct methods. At a very early date the profession of medicine was properly recognized in Greece and in many cases was generously rewarded. We read of swindlers and charlatans in those days too. Patent medicines were also sold. The Hippocratic oath, which for over twenty centuries has remained practically unchanged, is an evidence of the sagacity, the sense of professional honor and responsibility and the clear thinking of the Greeks. Hippocrates was born on the island of Cos in 460 B. C. A large collection of writings, evidently the work of many physicians, whose identity is unknown, has been ascribed to the pen of this leader. The Greeks were wonderfully brilliant in medical attainments, for they studied nature and her methods and shook themselves free from a monumental load of ignorance and superstition. The synchronous development of mind and body was the fundamental rule, both of health and education.—Medical Record.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON XIII, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JUNE 24.

Text of the Lesson, A Comprehensive Quarterly Review—Golden Text, John vii, 40—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.]

LESSON I.—The two foundations (Matt. vii, 15-29). Golden Text, Jas. i, 22, "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only." God is a God of truth, Jesus Christ is the truth, the Spirit is the Spirit of truth, but there is an enemy who is the father of lies, and there is no truth in him. Deceit and lying are peculiarly his own. This enemy has many followers who talk well, but they are all talk. They say and do not.

LESSON II.—Jesus and the Sabbath (Matt. xii, 1-14). Golden Text, Ex. xx, 8, "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." There is a religiousness which is for man's approbation and yet thinks to please God. Such was that of the Pharisees, for all their works they did to be seen of men (Matt. xxiii, 5). They perverted the Lord's days and feasts by using them for their own ends, and thus made idols of them. Jesus by His good works on the Sabbath days sought to enlighten them and give the day its right place for God and man.

LESSON III.—Jesus' power over disease and death (Luke vii, 1-17). Golden Text, John xi, 25, "Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life." Power over all the power of the enemy, all power in heaven and earth, are His (Luke x, 19; Matt. xxviii, 20), and this lesson illustrates two phases of that power—the one dependent upon the faith of the centurion and the other seemingly without faith on the part of any one; just His own compassion for the widow.

LESSON IV.—Jesus, the sinner's friend (Luke vii, 36-50). Golden Text, Luke vii, 50: "Thy faith hath saved thee. Go in peace." Here we have a self righteous Pharisee, a sinner, but he did not know it, and a poor sinner who was very conscious of it and truly penitent. The sinner becomes truly saved and goes her way with the assurance of sins forgiven, while the self righteous man continues in his sins because he knew not that he needed a Saviour.

LESSON V.—The parable of the sower (Mark iv, 1-20). Golden Text, Luke viii, 11, "The seed is the word of God." The Pharisees who hated Him having decided to kill Him, He then began to teach in parables that the willfully blind might not see. This first parable and also the second, our next lesson, He explained when alone with the disciples so fully that they had in them the key to all parables and to His purpose during this age of His rejection.

LESSON VI.—The parable of the tares (Matt. xiii, 24-30, 36-43). Golden Text, Gal. vi, 7, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The seed of last lesson is in this one; those who receive that seed thus become the children of God. During this age tares and wheat, the ungodly and the godly, grow together till the end of the age at the return of our Lord. The zeal of the devil in sowing his tares should incite the children of God to more zeal.

LESSON VII.—A fierce demoniac healed (Mark v, 1-20). Golden Text, Mark v, 19, "Go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee." From Gen. iii the conflict is on between the Lord and the devil for man and his inheritance, the earth, but when God became incarnate in the Son of Mary it would seem as if the devil sought to imitate this. The mystery is that, having such power, as is manifest in this lesson, He should tolerate the devil at all, but his time will come.

LESSON VIII.—Death of John the Baptist (Mark vi, 14-29). Golden Text, Eph. v, 18, "Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess." Here is a seeming victory for the devil in his being permitted to accomplish the death of John the Baptist, but it is only as far as human sight can see and for a brief period. The real gain was John's (Phil. i, 21, 23). He had the victory in being faithful unto death (Rev. ii, 10). They buried his body, not himself.

LESSON IX.—Feeding the 5,000 (Mark vi, 30-44). Golden Text, John vi, 32, "My Father giveth you the true bread from heaven." The hungry multitudes, famished in body and soul, suggest the condition of the whole earth even today. The disciples' "Send them away" is the expression of most believers, but the Lord's "Give ye them to eat" is the word for each believer now as then.

LESSON X.—The gentile woman's faith (Mark vii, 24-30). Golden Text, Matt. xv, 28, "Great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt." Here is another case of demon possession, a helpless little girl delivered by her mother's appeal to Jesus. There are still many demon possessed children and the very same Jesus, but where are the humble, trustful, persistently believing mothers taking their right place before Him?

LESSON XI.—Peter's great confession (Matt. xvi, 13-28). Golden Text, Matt. xvi, 16, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." The sufferings of Christ and the glory that shall follow (I Pet. i, 11) are set forth here in connection with His first reference to His church, and we are taught that as the members of His body, the church, we must be content to walk with Him in self renunciation and humiliation.

LESSON XII.—The transfiguration (Luke ix, 28-36). Golden Text, Luke ix, 35, "This is my beloved Son; hear him." There is a reward and a glory which will far more than compensate for all the suffering we may be called upon to endure here for His sake. It will not be until the resurrection of the just, for then only will the kingdom come.

Tree That Gives Light.

Among freaks of nature in trees there stands conspicuous one known as the Asiatic star tree. It is enormously tall, growing to a height of from sixty feet to eighty feet, while from the ground up to a distance of about forty feet the trunk is perfectly bare. From that point there spring a number of tangled limbs, which shoot out clusters of long, pointed leaves, and it is these, grouped together, that emit at night a clear, phosphorescent light. This gives the tree a spectral appearance and is very deceiving to travelers, who frequently mistake the glow for an illuminated window of a house. The light is not brilliant, but is of sufficient strength to allow of a newspaper being read by it. It does not flicker, but glows steadily from sunset to daybreak.

Men Who Walked on All Fours.

In the kingdom of Poland there was formerly a law according to which any person found guilty of slander was compelled to walk on all fours through the streets of the town where he lived accompanied by the beadle, as a sign that he was disgraced and unworthy of the name of man. At the next public festival the delinquent was forced to appear crawling upon hands and knees underneath the banqueting table and barking like a dog. Every guest was at liberty to give him as many kicks as he chose, and he who had been slandered must toward the end of the banquet throw a picked bone at the culprit, who, picking it up with his mouth, would leave the room on all fours.

No Peace For Discoverers.

It is remarkable how few of the discoverers and conquerors of the new world died in peace. Columbus died of a broken heart, Balboa was disgracefully beheaded, Cortes was dishonored, Sir Walter Raleigh was beheaded, Pizarro was murdered, Ojeda died in poverty and Henry Hudson was left to the mercy of the Indians along the bay which he discovered.—Detroit Free Press.

Three crates of berries will buy from us a Fine Suit of Clothes—as fine as a millionaire wears. To be a millionaire therefore (in clothes) buy your new suit with your strawberry money from Nock Brothers.

We have a new store—that is, a new store to you since last strawberry time. It is located where the Farmers & Merchants Bank used to keep. We have a new stock, strictly up-to-date, of everything a man wears—and some things women wear.

The burglars who blew open the B. C. & A. Ry. Co's. safe a few weeks ago passed our store by. Why? Because our profits are so small we haven't got a safe—don't need one. We're selling cheap this year because we want your trade. In fact we give some things away. Come in and see what we have. Doesn't cost anything to look.

Next year we will want the real value of our goods—ask more for them. But the fellow who buys from us this year won't want a new suit next year. His this-year's-suit will be as good as new. They're not iron-clad, but they're the best wearing clothes in town and we guarantee a less price.

Other things in our stock are according. There's no use quoting prices—we don't want our creditors to know what we're selling at. They might close us up.

But for $15—fifteen little dolars—$$$$$$$$$$$$$$$—we will give you a Suit of Cloth that will make you the best-dressed man in your neighborhood.

Come and see us. If you find one thing overdrawn or untrue in the above we will make you a present of a New Stetson Hat, or better still, a Nock's Special.

We are after the strawberry money you are going to spend, and we are bound to have it if values will bring it.

Chuck-It-Up Town Greets Pilgrim Joe

Cheered and Given a Rousing Send-off—Licks Sewing Machine Man.

[Copyright, 1906, by B. Reade.]

As I was drawing near the enterprising town of Chuck-It-Up one day last week I found a song in my heart. In my pocket I had a wad of money about as big as a shingle; there was my old hoss and tintype outfit; there was my fighting dog and my grasshopper in a bottle. And, to crown all, there was my Pilgrim Pain Alleviator, the grandest and noblest remedy for human ailments placed before the public since the Mayflower came to anchor and the pilgrim fathers went looking for herbs and roots.

There are other medicines on the market, but only one alleviator. When you buy a bottle of it you can have just as much confidence in its virtues as in the word of a member of congress.

"I PILED ON TO HIM AND GAVE HIM THAT FOR WHICH HE HANKERED."

No trust handles it.

You don't have to divvy with a member of the legislature.

There is no whack coming to the alderman of your ward.

It soothes a broken heart as well as a broken leg.

None genuine without a yaller label on the bottle. The yallerer the label the more genuine the contents.

As I was saying, I felt giddy over my many virtues as I was driving along, and I entered the town named with my hat on my ear and exhilaration in my heart. I was soon made aware that my welcome was not what it should be, and I speedily ascertained the cause thereof. A seller of washing machines who had proposed a partnership with me and had been turned down and ached for revenge had been in the town for two days spreading stories to my detriment. He had made a special pint on my grasshopper, making out that I was cruel to animals and therefore sordid and wicked at heart. I had skassly reached the tavern where I was going to put up when a knot of choice and eminent citizens, headed by the mayor, appeared, and the latter said:

"This town of Chuck-It-Up hain't so very much on business, but it is ready to bank its last dollar on sentiment. A critter who will go at it deliberately and maliciously to blast the life of an innocent grasshopper is not welcomed among us. You have just five minits in which to skate."

"Sir," says I in reply, "do I look like a critter who'd steal food from in front of a cricket or strike an orphan grasshopper with a club?"

"Not skassly, but hain't it true that you are carrying around a hopper in a bottle agin his will and desires? It is for hoppers to hop, to play and gambol, frisk and frolic. When you have it one corked up in a bottle what must his feelings be?"

"I'll show you," says I, as I brings out the bottle. "I found this hopper on the wide prairie two years ago. He was cold and hungry. He had been abandoned and was afraid. He was in pill and had given up hopes. I rescued him, and he has been with me ever since, and there hain't a day that he don't try to testify his gratitude. Once a day I let him out to perform his circus acts, as follers:"

With that I poured the hopper out on the grass, and he amused the crowd for ten minits with his circus and then returned to the bottle.

"There don't seem to be nothing cruel about that," says the mayor. "Why, I keep a beetle in a cigar box myself, and I don't say that he is suffering any. Stranger, does it happen that your hopper is anything of a fighter?"

"Only jest enough to maintain his rights in this world."

"Cause if he was a bit of a fighter and you had $10 to back him I would bring out my beetle. The town of Chuck-It-Up has a hundred and fifty virtues to its credit, but it dearly loves a little scrap now and then."

I intimated my willingness to bring about a tragedy and produced my dough, and he sent for his beetle and soon had him on hand. The insects were placed in an empty starch box on the grass, and though I always strive to foller in the footsteps of integrity I thought it no wrong to take as many side bets as were offered. One of these—for $20—was with the washing machine man. The Chuck-It-Uppers yelled to their beetle to go in and make the splinters fly, while I said not a word. In five minits it was all over, and the beetle lay on his back as dead as a politician caught with the goods on him. The crowd was dumb for a minit, and men began to scowl at me. Then the feeling changed, and I was cheered and applauded and given the freedom of the town in a tobacco box.

For two days I took tintypes at 10 cents a take, and when I was ready to leave I had also disposed of three dozen bottles of my alleviator. The washing machine man had departed ahead of me, but four miles out of town he was awaiting my coming. As I drove up he said:

"Old fraud, I want them $20 back!"

"Not skassly," I replies in all kindness.

"Mebbe you don't know that hell hath no fury like a woman scorned?"

"But you hain't wearing petticoats."

"But I've been scorned jest the same, and one of us is going to get broken bones."

I saw that it was one of those cases where my alleviator would fail to cure, and I got down from the wagon and took off my coat and prepared to uphold my honor. He of the washing machine—warranted to do the largest family washing in twenty minutes without injury to the most delicate fabrics—was not long in coming. His eyes was rolling and his teeth chanking, and any one not depending on Providence might have turned and fled at the sight. As it was, I met him with a right hand swing that rolled him over on the grass, and while he was wondering where he was at I piled on to him and gave him that for which he hankered.

He was a licked man inside of three minits, and when I mounted my vehicle and drove away he was sitting up and realizing that he who hath his quarrel just is just the feller to give the other one a good walloping.

There was peace in my heart as I drove on. I was saying to myself that virtue and integrity were the two jokers in the pack when a man riding a blind hoss turned in on me from a crossroad and stumped me for a trade. When I did not show any great amount of enthusiasm he pretended to recognize my animal as one stolen from him two years before, and demanded that I give up his property. A man may be a twin brother to integrity and still be posted on the game of bluff. I saw that he was talking through the top of his hat and I smiled benignly at him and may have winked at the same time. Then he got off his blind steed, and made as if he would unhitch mine whether or no. Giving my skinned knuckles a lick with my tongue, and feeling, as in the other case, that Providence was with me bigger'n a house, I descended and closed in.

The bluffer was not all bluff. He made a fairly good fight of it, but when I had settled him with a solar plexus blow I felt it my duty to wallop him a few times more to show my good will. I left him softly sleeping and snoring as he slept, and as I drove on I was fain to say to myself:

"He who tackles integrity tackles a haystack."

And further:

"Virtue sits enthroned on a mountain top and can't be hauled off her nest by the neck. If thou wouldst get the best of Virtue spread sticky fly paper at her feet and smile softly."

And again:

"Honesty was never known to pay more than 10 per cent, but he who is a hog as to interest will sooner or later lose his bristles thereby."

The Discipline of Failure.

The best skating is always on thin ice—we like to feel it crack and yield under our feet. There is a deadly fascination in the thought of twenty or thirty feet of cold water beneath. Last year's mortality list cuts no ice with us. We must make our own experiments, while Dr. Experience screams himself hoarse from his bonfire on the bank. He has held many an inquest on this darkling shore of the river of time, and he will undoubtedly live to hold many another, but thus far we have not been the subjects, and when it comes to the mistakes of others we are all delighted to serve on the coroner's jury. It isn't well for us to be saved from too many blunders. We need the discipline of failure. It is better to fail than never to try, and the man who can contemplate the graveyard of his own hopes without bitterness will not always be ignored by the gods of success.—Meredith Nicholson in Reader.

An Unconscious Humorist.

"You have a great respect for that critic's opinion."

"I have the highest opinion for his probity and discernment," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "His comments on my performances have invariably been most favorable."—Washington Star.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—Mysteriously.

But nature always warns you through the urine.

Notice the kidney secretions.

See if the color is unhealthy—

If there is settlings and sediment.

Passages too frequent, scanty, painful

Its time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills,

To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.

Doan's have done great work in Salisbury.

E Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension, says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last Febuary. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back

The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

Willard H. Hall.

Willard H. Hall, of Port Penn, Del., son of the late Alfred K. and Alice Mustard Hall, born July 11, 1855, at Milford, Del., died yesterday morning at 2 o'clock of tuberculosis at the home of his sister, Mrs. Robert D. Grier, Salisbury, Md. Mr. Hall was well known at Lewes, Del., having gone there in 1880, and for a few years was in the employ of the Delaware, Maryland & Virginia Railroad Company.

In 1883 he engaged in the Government service, in charge of the fog signal on the Delaware breakwater. In 1896 he was transferred to the Ready Island rear Light Station at Port Penn, Del. Owing to failing health, he was granted leave of absence by the Government, and on the 15th of May last, came to Salisbury, hoping to be benefitted by the change.

In early life he united with the Presbyterian Church of Milford, Del., and for many years was an earnestworker in the church and closely identified with the Christian Endeavor Societies. Upon his removal to Port Penn, he was ordained an elder of the Presbyterian Church of that place.

He leaves a widow an the following children by a former wife: Alfred H. Hall, Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs Ira P. Parker, South Zanesville, Ohio, and Miss Kate L. Hall, South Zanesville, Ohio. He is survived by a sister and two brothers, Mrs. R. D. Grier, of Salisbury, Md., Mr. Robert C. Hall of Saratoga, N. Y., and Capt. James A. Hall, of Philadelphia.

The body will be taken to Milford this afternoon on the train. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Milford Presbyterian Church by the pastor, Rev. Charles Bunftern. Interment will be at the Odd Fellows' Cemetery at Milford. Mr. George C Hill, undertaker on Water street prepared the body for buiral.

Granville R. Hambury.

Mr. Granville R. Hambury, aged 36 years, died at his home on North Division street Thursday night at 11 o'clock of tuberculosis, after an illness of several weeks. For sometime the deceased was employed in the mercantile business at Wetipquin, where he was born. A few years ago he removed to Salisbury and was appointed by Mr. Jesse D. Price, clerk to the County Commissioners, as a deputy. Mr. Hambury is survived by a widow, who was Miss Cora Fooks, and one child.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the home on Division street at 4 o'clock by Rev. W. S. Phillips, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church. Messrs. Daniel B. Cannon, Glen Perdue, Elmer Williams, Harry Fooks and Walter Sheppard, who were attendants at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hambury, and Mr. Arthur Kennerly will be the pallbearers. Interment will be at Parsons Cemetery.

Clement M. Wright.

Mr. Clement M. Wright, aged 87 years, the oldest man in Barren Creek district, died yesterday morning at his home near Mardela Springs of general debility. Mr. Wright, who was a farmer, was a staunch Democrat, and served as a County Commissioner from 1879 to 1881. He was also a prominent member of the Methodist Protestant Church at Mardela, being one of its pioneer builders. He is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mr. I. J. Wright, Mr. W. W. Wright and Mrs. J. E. Bacon, of near Mardela. There are also a number of grandchildren remaining.

Mrs. Sarah J. White.

Mrs. Sarah Jane White, aged 68 years, widow of Capt. Noah White, died Saturday at the home of her grandson, William W. White, in Salisbury. She is survived by three children, Mrs. Joseph Restein, of Cape Charles, Va., and Mrs. Charles White, of Plattsburg, N. Y., Mrs. Elizabeth Adams, of Salisbury, six grand-children and one great-grand child. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the home by Rev. Samuel W. Reigart, D. D., an Rev. W. S. Phillips. Interment was at Parsons cemetery.

Automobilist Praises Wicomico's Roads.

Mr. Mattison, the chauffeur who came down with Mr. W. P. Jackson's touring car a few days ago, was very enthusiastic about the shelled roads in this vicinity. He stated that they were much better adapted to automobiling than any over which he had ever traveled. He said in his estimation they were much better than the famous Ormond-Daytonia track at Ormond, Fla., where so many worlds' records were broken last February. Mr. Mattison, who is a professional automobile driver, took part in this year's Ormond races as well as many other races both in this country and Europe and his statements must carry some weight. His strong recommendation of this class of roads created considerable interest, especially in view of the great amount of discussion which has taken place recently in the public press on good roads. Mr. Mattison proved his statements by carrying seven passengers in Mr. Jackson's Darracq thirteen miles in seventeen minutes when the machine was geared to forty-five miles an hour.

WILLIAM LEE,

MORE EVIDENCE WANTED.

Congressman Smith Holds Seat For The Present—Final Decision To Be Made Next Session.

By the action of the House of Representatives Thursday it was definitely settled that Congressman Thomas A. Smth of the First Maryland district is to remain a member of that body until the next session at least.

Shortly after the House convened Representative Miller of Kansas, chairman of the sub-committee of Elections Committee No. 2, that has had the case under consideration reported a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that, after careful consideration of the record therein, it was found that the evidence already taken is not sufficient upon which to have a conclusion as to the proper determination of the contest made by Hon. William H. Jackson, and that the Committee on Elections No. 2 shall be and is authorized and empowered to take such testimony as it shall deem necessary to the determination of the question of facts in the contested case, and shall have power to send for all such persons and papers as it may find necessary for the proper determination of said controversy, and determining the time, place and manner of taking of such testimony, which may be taken before said committee or any sub-committee, or any such person selected by said committee for such purpose, and that the expenses incurred in taking said testimony shall be paid from the contingent fund of the House upon order of said Committee on Elections No. 2

While hidden influences may with reason be looked for in action on contested election cases, the difficulty in the way of a settlement in the Jackson-Smith matter appears to be a conclusion as to whether the so-called "distinguishing marks" on many of the ballots were made by officers of election or voters

If further investigation shows that they were made by the officers, it will probably result i the seating of Mr. Jackson. The resolution adopted by the House today could as well have been presented months ago, as no progress has been made in the case since the examination of ballots was abruptly terminated.

Changes In Diamond State.

Miss Carrie Oleta Adkins, who has been with the Diamond State Telephone Company for the past six years, and manager of the Salisbury exchange for about four years, has resigned her position to take effect the first of July. Miss Mamie Adkins, her sister, who has been with the company for five years as long distance operator, and Miss Eva Wimbrow, who has been with the company about two years, have also resigned, the same to take effect July 1.

Those who have resigned are among the most efficient ever employed in the Salisbury exchange and have always given the best possible service to the patrons of the company. Among the people who depend upon the telephone to any extent, much regret has been expressed that they should have felt themselves compelled to resign. The resignations, which were entirely voluntary, were sent to the company the first part of this week.

It is understood that Miss Mamie Phipps and Mrs. Wm. C. Bonneville will take the places of the two operators who have resigned, while Miss Carrie Adkins will be succeeded in the management of the local exchange by Mr. Herman H. Carty, who has for several years been the electrician in charge of the local work. Miss Minnie Nelson, until recently connected with the Eastern Shore College, will, after the first of the month, have charge of the books and accounts of the office.

NEGRO LEE ARRAIGNED.

Trial To Begin In Baltimore July 5th. Many Eastern Shoremen Plan To Attend.

William Lee, the negro now under indictment by the Grand Jury of Somerset County for criminal assault upon Mrs. Robert S. Barnes and Miss Frances Powell, was arraigned Thursday before the Criminal Court of Baltimore, Justice Harlan presiding, where he pleaded "not guilty" to the findings against him about ten days ago by the grand jury of Somerset county, in Princess Anne, and his trial has been fixed for July 5th.

For some time there seemed to be a very decided question as to whether or not Lee could be permitted to waive arraignment before the Circuit Court for Somerset County, but the Court finally came to the conclusion that the provision requiring a prisoner to be arraigned in the Court in which the indictment was found, was a provision in favor of the accused, and as such could be waived by him. Whether this be true or not, certain it is that the uniform custom in Maryland has always been to arraign prisoners in the Court where the proceedings were pending, and after the plea of "not guilty" had been entered, to receive the affidavit asking for removal. Still in view of the continued feeling in Somerset over the recent outrages, it is probably a wise thing that the Court has finally decided the matter in this way.

This is, however, only putting off the evil day, for the people of that County must be reckoned with sooner or later. Should he be convicted, as he doubtless will be, and sentenced to be hung, there seems to be no escape from the fact that the hanging must take place in Somerset, for the provision of law is very clear on the subject that a criminal must be hung in the county in which the indictment originates. There are a large number of people—especially in Somerset—who believe that unless the authorities build the scaffold on the line of the Railroad immediately over the Somerset line, and even then take unusual precautions, that he will never reach the place of execution alive. That the people of that county have a right to feel deeply on the subject and highly incensed at the perpetration in their midst of one of the most dastardly crimes ever committed in Maryland is admitted, still it is to be hoped for the sake of the county that to the offense itself will not be added the further crime of murder. The better element is already beginning to realize fully what a lynching would mean, and it is possible that before the time for execution arrives a decided change may take place in the attitude of those who are so determined to take the law in their own hands and themselves avenge the crime which has been committed.

Great interest is already being manifested in the trial which will take place in Baltimore, and it is estimated that hundreds from the neighboring counties will be in the city when Lee is brought before the bar of the Court in that City. It is believed that no effort will be made to interfere with the orderly trial of the case, and that nothing will be done until he is carried to Somerset for execution.

The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. An International Election.

"For the first time in their lives the policy holders of the New York Life and of the Mutual Life Insurance Companies will be able to cast votes which have not been chloroformed in advance. The Wall Street financiers must now look to the ballot box for a continuance of their control and manipulation of nearly $900,000,000 of insurance assets."

This was the brief statement made by the officers of the International Policyholders Committee when they gave out for publication the names of the gentlemen who have consented to serve on what is probably the most distinguished committee ever organized.

The recently enacted New York laws fix definitely the conditions governing the elections of directors in the above companies. Each policyholder will have one vote, regardless of the amount of his policy or the number of policies held by him. The voting will be by ballot directly by mail. All proxies given before October 18th are void, but no proxy is necessary. The polls open October 18th and will remain open sixty days. Ballots will be mailed to each policyholder and may be marked and returned by mail. Under the new laws the present insurance management will nominate their candidates for directors on July 18th. It is generally understood in insurance circles that theirs will be a "stand pat" policy; that the same men or their doubles will be renominated. The policyholders have until September 18th to name their tickets. Organizations of policyholders, representing nearly every district in the United States and Canada as well as the larger countries of Europe, have united in naming the International Committee; a committee which will act with the policyholders in selecting men of recognized ability and of unquestioned integrity to serve as Directors.

The following gentlemen have consented to act with the policyholders in the selection of suitable candidates for directors:

Governor N. B. Broward, of Florida.
Governor N. C. Blanchard, of Louisiana.
Dr. Russell H. Conwell, of the Baptist Church.
President E. E. Clark, of the Order of Railway Conductors of Iowa.
Cardinal Gibbons, of the Roman Catholic Church.
Judge George Gray, of Delaware.
Governor J. Frank Hanly, of Indiana.
Hon. John C. Hemphill, of South Carolina.
Harlow N. Higinbothan, of Illinois.
Governor J. A. Johnson, of Minnesota.
Hon. Z. A. Lash, K. C. of Canada.
Hon. Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio.
Hon. Frederick B. Neideringhaus, of Missouri.
Samuel Newhouse, of Utah.
Fremont Older, of California.
Bishop Charles C. McCabe of M. E. Church.
Hon. Richard Olney, of Massachusetts.
Governor S. W. Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania.
Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York.
Governor Henry Roberts, of Connecticut.
Col. A. M. Shook, of Tennessee.
Hon. Charles Emory Smith, of Pennsylvania.
General Benj. F. Tracy, of New York.
Thomas B. Wanamaker, of Pennsylvania.
Herr. Henrich Wiegand, of Germany, nominated by German Committee, and representative of English and French Committees who are in course of election and will be announced later.

SAMUEL UNTERMYER,
General Counsel,
New York.
SEYMOUR EATON,
Secretary.
G. R. SCRUGHAM,
Organization Manager.

A meeting of the Committee has been called to be held in the City of New York on July 10th at which time the Committee will perfect its organization and begin active work for the forthcoming elections for directors of both Companies.

Kipling's Story About Sebastian Cabot

There's a lot of capital English history that never got into Dickens' Child's History—from which, doubtless, most Americans drew such memories as they have of what happened in Old England. Kipling, in McClure's Magazine, is retelling some of this in story form—almost fairy-story form—under the title of "Robin Goodfellow—His Friends." He has already given a most exciting narrative of the experiences of a Roman legionary, Parnesius, defending the Great Wall which the Romans built across the North of England to keep the Picts and Danes out. In the July number, his story is put in the mouth of "Hal o' the Draft," one of the builders of the great English cathedrals, who recounts how, while rebuilding, for a penance, his home church—St. Bartholomew's—in a little Weald of Kent village, he ran across one Sebastion Cabot, whom all well instructed American boys and girls will recognize. The Weald of Kent (that part of England about Rye, Romney Marsh and the Rother River) was then the great iron founding region; forges were everywhere. Sebastion Cabot was fitting out for a voyage across the Western ocean and he held the King's order on one of the big iron-makers for a dozen of cannon—serpentines and the like. Why Sebastion had to wait so long for his cannon; how the belfry of St. Bartholomew's church became bewitched, and what the great pirate Sir Andrew Barton had to do with the event, is best left for Mr. Kipling himself, to tell the reader.

What a Letter Will Do.

The following sentences show the value of a single letter and how the omnission of it can affect the sense of a sentence:

"The conflict was dreadful and the enemy was repulsed with great laughter.

"When the President's wife entered the humble sitting-room of the miner she was politely offered a hair.

"A man was yesterday arrested on the charge of having eaten a cabman for demanding more than his fare.

"An employee in the service of the Government was accused of having stolen a small ox from the mail. The stolen property was found in his vest pocket.

"The Russian soldier Knackinoffoskewky was found dead with a long word sticking in his throat."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea-spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

"The Courier's" Change.

As announced in the editorial columns of this paper last week, with this issue the management and control of "The Courier" changes hands.

The general policy of the paper which has been adhered to since its foundation in 1899 will, in the main, be continued. Its support of Republican candidates and its advocacy of Republican principals may be expected in national, State and county affairs, following in this respect the uniform policy observed under the former management. In advocating the principles of the Republican party, "The Conrier" does so with an abiding conviction that those principles are, on the whole, better calculated to promote the general interest of the people than the declarations of any other party. In advocating them, however, it will be our constant endeavor to do so in such a way as to command the respect of our readers, even thongh we may be unable to convince them of the correctness of our position upon public questions. We can but recognize the evident proposition that all the good is not inherent in any one political party nor all the evil resident in another, and it will be our purpose in dealing with the political problems that arise to do so in a fair and frank manner, with the intention of presenting our side in such a way as will appeal to the reason and judgment of our readers. There never has been a time in the history of this country when the people were giving more serious thought to political policies than at the present time, and as a general rule, when public questions are fully understood and fairly presented by the contending forces, the public may be relied upon to make a wise and intelligent choice.

In purely local affairs, however, we believe in the largest possible amount of independence. In a municipality of the size of Salisbury few questions of a purely political nature can arise, and the thousand and one questions of practical importance with which we are constantly called upon to deal should be discussed purely with relation to local needs and requirements and without reference to political considerations.

It was not entirely without hesitation and questionings that we undertook this new line of endeavor and work—especially in view of the signal success which has crowned the efforts of our predecessor—and yet with the continued cooperation and support of the people of Salisbury and this county, which we most earnestly ask, we shall endeavor to continue the high standard of efficiency rigidly and conscientiously maintained by the former editor of this paper from the time of its beginning, more than seven years ago, down to the reluctant relinquishment of those duties by him last week.

Announcement.

We take pleasure in announcing that we have secured the services of Mr. Herman W. Murrell, formerly of this city, who will largely have charge of "The Courier" office, on Main street. Mr. Murrell was formerly connected with this paper, as also with the "Advertiser," and recently has held a position on the reportorial staff of the "Baltimore American," which position he resigned to aceept his present connection with this paper.

Mr. Marion Turner, the efficient foreman of this paper, who has been connected with it since the foundation of the paper in 1899, will continue in charge of the mechanical department.

Mr. Walton will retain his office in the "Advertiser" building and continue the practice of law.

Mr. Benjamin's Departure.

Mr. Alan F. Benjamin, until recently editor of this paper, left on Thursday morning last for Laurel, Mississippi, to engage in the lumber business, and will be associated with the H. C. Card Lumber Co. He has as yet made no definite plans so far as his family are concerned, and for the present they will remain in Salisbury. Mr. Benjamin has, for years, been a prominent figure in the social and business circles of Salisbury, and he leaves this community with the sincere regret and best wishes of his many friends here.

The Courier joins in wishing him every possible success, and earnestly hopes that good fortune and prosperity may be in store for him in his new venture.

The "News'" Comment.

We appreciate the kind words of our contemporary, "The Wicomico News," upon the change which has taken place in the management of "The Courier."

The "News" is an "all-'round" good fighter, and we know fully what we may expect when measuring swords with that journal. We have on numeroas occasions in the last few years been "up against" the editors of that paper—especially our friend, the Senator, whose fondness for politics is proverbial—and when the 'scraps' were over we shook hands, forgot the past, and waited patiently for the good old autumn days to come again. It is a pleasure to enter the journalistic arena with the good will and best wishes of a paper of the standing of the "News," and while we have fears that the "pen, paper and paste-pot" of our worthy predecessor may sometimes wonder hat has come over the spirit of their dreams and sigh for the hand that has stirred the "News" to some of its greatest heights of imagination and wildest flights of oratory during the past few years, still we shall at least try to prove ourselves worthy of the kindly comments of our friends. We deeply appreciate the friendly greeting extended to us, and while we shall of course frequently differ in our views of the ever changing questions of the day, we shall always prize the friendship of our neighbors, and trust the time may never come when ought but the kindliest and best feelings shall exist between us.

Davis—Twilley.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milby W. Davis, near New Hope, Wednesday, June 20, when Miss Maggie May Davis, their only daughter, became the bride of Mr. R. Cleveland Twilley, son of the late George C. Twilley. The house was so overflowed with guests who had congregated to witness the event that the officiating clergyman decided it would be better to perform the ceremony in the open air. Promptly at 8.30 p. m. the wedding procession marched from the parlor to the lawn. Leading the procession was Miss Clara Powell, E. of Salisbury, cousin of the bride, who was maid of honor, accompanied by Mr Emory Mitchell. Next came Miss Alda A. Twilley, sister of the groom, accompanied by Mr. C Kenada Lewis, of Willard. Then came Miss Jennie Mitchell, daughter of Mr. Joseph Mitchell, of Twilley, accompanied by Mr Horace Baker. Following them was the bride and groom. The bride was handsomely attired in white point de spray over white silk. The maid of honor was in white, as also was the bridesmaid. After their marriage, confectionery and ices were served to their numerous friends. The following day the wedding reception was tendered to the wedding company by Mrs. Sarah L. Twilley, at her beautiful home near Quockinson Hill.

When the family arose that morning and he failed to put in his appearance at the breafkast table, a search was made and kept up all day without success. About 4 o'clock Wednesday his son, Hiram Deibert, began grappling in the creek and, half an hour later, located his father's body directly in front of the boatyard. At intervals the deceased is said to have had melancholia. His business was in a prosperous condition. He was about 68 years of age, and a native of Schuylkill Haven, Pa. Waggaman, once one of the most noted real estate owners and operators of Washington and former treasurer of the Catholic University, died at a farmhouse on South river, Anne Arundel county, Wednesday morning, at the age of 61 years, after a lingering illness of several months of cancer of the nose and face. Mr. Waggaman failed for about $4,000,000 in August of 1904. Soon after this he was taken ill and removed to the house on South River, where he had remained ever since. Mr. Waggaman had been married three times and was the father of 21 children. He went to Washington in 1867 from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, where he was born and where his family had been prominent for nearly 200 years. In addition to his real estate operations in Washington, Mr. Waggaman invested considerable money at Ocean City, and it was largely through him that that place was built up. Teachers' Association Meeting.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Maryland Teachers' Association convened Tuesday in the Casino at Ocean City with an attendance of 1000 members and adjourned yesterday at noon. Governor Warfield was expected to address the association, but he was unable to be present. The meeting was the most important ever held by the teachers of Maryland. Among the group of fine looking men present that were mentioned in the Baltimore Sun was the name of Mr. H. Crawford Bounds, of Salisbury.

James O. Adams, of Wicomico, who was chairman of the committee on education in the last House of Delegates, made the address of welcome, to which Principal E. G. Conegys of Cantonsville, responded.

Steps for the erection of an auditorium for the use of Maryland teachers and home of the association were taken. The auditorium, if erected, may be used for an annual summer school for teachers. The Ocean City Development Company is willing to furnish the ground free of cost.

In his talk State Superintendent Stephens endorsed the idea of forming high school districts containing at least four accredited schools for the purpose of holding annually an interscholastic oratorical contests, and cited as an example the recent action of the Pocomoke City, Princess Anne, Snow Hill, and Salisbury high schools. Dr. Stephens also said:

"I have noticed in our high school commencements a growing tendency to infringe on what seems to me to be a prerogative of our colleges and institutions of higher learning. I refer to the practice on the part of some of our high school principals to invest the graduates with caps and gowns. I am persuaded this is an unwarranted intrusion. As many of the graduates will enter college, it is better that we leave to college authorities the investiture of the cap and gown".

An invitation was extended to the National Educational Association to hold its next annual convention in Baltimore. Should the invitation be accepted, the Fifth Regiment Armory will be used as the meeting place.

The Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, and Suspenders, Hosiery, Underwear, Neckwear, Umbrellas, Night Shirts and Pajamas that Lacy Thoroughgood sells in his two stores are genuine—no imitations. There's no sham about them, and you never get cheated when you buy them. A merchant prospers only when he sells good goods The makers of Lacy Thoroughgood's clothing rank among the largest manufacturers in the world. They claim that there is no better line of clothes made than theirs; and to substantiate this, into every garment of their make is sewn a guarantee label, which means that the purchaser may have his money refunded if he does not find any suit of their make all they claim it to be. The clothes that Lacy Thoroughgood sells are the best made and correct in style. If you have worn a suit that came from Lacy Thoroughgood's store you know this to be a fact. A slight-of-hand performance deceives the on-looker by attracting the attention to what is being done by one hand while the deception is accomplished with the other. Some clothiers use the same methods. They say to the public "LOOK OUT" for this particular cheat or that particular fake, with the expectation of having some greater failing go unnoticed. Lacy Thoroughgood has never had to resort to such methods. He has been in business 20 years, and nobody has been cheated yet. We sell no shams, we keep no imitations. Thoroughgood sells only the best goods made.

SHOES DE LUXE

NEVER were shoes more beautiful than the new "Queen Quality" Custom Grade models. The extent of their variety may be prosaically presented by stating that they are made in no less than 4,760 variations of shape and style, thus affording accuracy of fit for every type and size of foot, and ease the first day worn. But no figures can express the charm of this variety, indeed it is but faintly suggested by the illustrations here shown. To appreciate this you must see the shoes. THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON I, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JULY 1.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xviii, 1-14. Memory Verses, 2, 3—Golden Text, Matt. xviii, 14—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.]

In previous lessons we have called attention to the persistent conflict between light and darkness, between the Lord and the devil, and to the fact that while God dwelt in Christ on earth the devil also manifested a special possession of people old and young. He continues to do this, and it may be, as S. D. Gordon suggests, that he is still looking for, but has not yet found, a man whom he can possess and control as fully as God possessed and controlled Jesus of Nazareth. This man he will yet find, and he will be the man of sin, the beast, the antichrist, and then will come the consummation of the long conflict and the victory for the Lamb (Rev. xiii, 6, 7; xvii, 14).

When the disciples came down from the Mount of Transfiguration, where Peter would have liked to continue, the first miracle was the casting out of a demon whom the disciples could not cast out, Jesus assuring them that this kind could only be overcome by prayer and fasting. Then He again foretold His sufferings as the only way by which He could fully and finally conquer the devil. Our lesson today begins with the disciples' question, "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" And we remember that on that last night at the Passover in the upper room there was a strife among them as to which of them should be accounted the greatest (Luke xxii, 24). This also is from the devil, whose ambition is to be like the Most High and exalt his throne above the stars of God (Isa. xiv, 13, 14). The same spirit is seen in the sayings "Let us make us a name" and "Is not this great Babylon that I have built • • • by the might of my power?" (Gen. xi, 4; Dan. iv, 30.) But while we expect these things from the world and the devil how shameful to find this spirit in those who bear the name of Him who became poor for us and humbled Himself unto death, making Himself of no reputation and taking upon Him the form of a servant (II Cor. viii, 9; Phil. ii, 7, 8). What is the Lord's reply at this time? A little child, • • • become as little children. • • • humble as this little child (verses 2-4). A little child suggests helplessness, emptiness, dependence. No young of any animal so helpless as a little child. It can do nothing for itself and just lives in the mother's love and care, satisfied with what the mother has to give. This dependence upon and satisfaction with God in Christ as a Father who pities and a mother who comforts are what we need.

The words of Jeremiah to Baruch are always appropriate. "Seekest thou great things for thyself? Seek them not" (Jer. xlv, 5). When we have received the Lord Jesus and have thus been born again and become children of God (John i, 12, 13), no child of the most loving parents was ever provided and cared for as we are, for "He who spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things (Rom. viii, 32), and how comforting the words, "Your heavenly Father knoweth" (Matt. vi, 32); "He careth for you" (I Pet. v, 7). Then notice that all children of God as well as actual little children have special guardian angels who always have access to the presence of God (verse 10; Heb. i, 14). I fear that few believers derive anything like the comfort they might have from the ministry of angels. They are ever with us; they go and come like lightning; they strengthen our bodies; they guard us from the enemy; they delight to do His will, hearkening to His word. There are texts to prove all this. Let each one look them up for himself and believe God and be comforted.

Then think of our safety—"Shall never perish." Compare verses 14 and John iii, 16; x, 28, 29. God is not willing that any should perish (II Pet. iii, 9), but those who are in Christ, redeemed by His blood, can never perish—not only safe in the arms of Jesus, but, as one has said, "Safe as an arm of Jesus," for we are members of His body. Some one may want a sure word concerning those who die in infancy and cannot rest quietly on the teaching of this lesson or on His "Suffer the little children to come unto me." It seems to me that Deut. i, 39, contains a principle which ought to satisfy any one. Then there is such a comforting word in Zech. viii, 5, for all who have little ones in heaven, for though that refers to the earthly Jerusalem all earthly joys are but shadows of the greater and more real joys of heaven and of the kingdom.

Note that He counts all that is done to His redeemed, even to a little child, as done to Himself (verses 5, 6). Compare with this Matt. x, 40-42; xxv, 40, 46. Note also "He that toucheth you toucheth the apple of His eye" (Zech. ii, 8) and compare His "Why persecutest thou me?" to Saul. Fail not to notice the words of Him who willeth not the death of a sinner, who came to save the lost, who bare our sins in His own body on the tree, concerning everlasting fire and hell fire in verses 8 and 9 and compare xxv, 41. If it was not a fearful thing to perish and if the torments of the lost were not an awful reality, how vain and useless were the sufferings of Christ that we might be delivered from the wrath to come, when there is, according to some, no wrath of God. Let us tremble if we are ever tempted to question the word of God or its statements concerning anything therein recorded. We are ever on the witness stand and are testifying for Christ or against Him.

Once a Nest of Pirates.

Lundy, in the Bristol channel, is an island where one may see an earthquake at any time. There is nothing alarming about these "earthquakes," however. They are simply certain curious crevasses in the west of the island, which the local people call by that name. Lundy in former centuries was a notorious nest of pirates. In King Henry III.'s time William de Marisco, a traitor to the king, built a castle there and set up as an early Captain Kidd. And so it went on through the centuries until in the middle of the eighteenth Thomas Benson, a Barnstable merchant, who was then lessee of the island, was convicted of piracy and smuggling and expelled. He had a contract for carrying convicts to the American colonies and used quietly to land them on Lundy and use their labor there.

The Nine in the Calendar.

The figure 9, which came into the calendar on Jan. 1, 1880, will stay with us 111 years from that date, or until Dec. 31, 1990. No other figure has ever had such a long consecutive run, and the 9 itself has only once before been in a race which lasted over a century—that in which it continuously figured from Jan. 1, 889, until Dec. 31, 999, a period of 111 years. The figures 3 and 7 occasionally fall into odd combinations, but neither of them has ever yet served for a longer period than 100 consecutive years in our calendar since the present mode of calculating time was established. It is also clear that from their relative positions among the numerals it is an impossibility for either of them to appear in date reckonings continuously for a longer period than a century.

A Lesson In Japanese Courtesy.

I remember many years ago a dinner at the palace—a great official dinner—where among the guests were many of the old leaders of rebellions, old upholders of the shogunate. The last shogun himself, Prince Tokugawa, proud, silent, grim, sat opposite to me, and I wondered if any human emotion could show itself on that impassive face. At that moment the emperor raised his glass and bowed in kindly smiling fashion to his ancient opponent. The face changed, was suffused for one illuminating moment with a glow of responsive fire. It seemed as if the emperor was once more thanking the shogun for his splendid patriotic act when after years of struggle he voluntarily laid his power and his prerogatives at the emperor's feet "for the good of the country," and as if Prince Tokugawa, looking back—and looking forward—for Japan, said to himself once more, "It was well done."—Mary C. Fraser in World's Work.

CHARACTER STUDY OF A. J. CASSATT

Pennsylvania Railroad President, Whose Company Is Under Investigation

Resourceful General of a Great Industrial Army, Who Is Constructive to the Highest Degree—Dares to March Straight Ahead When Others Fear to Take a Single Step

Is there to be no end to corporation scandals, to the uncovering of graft, deception, selfishness and plain dishonesty? Are all the trusts tainted? Has all public spirit departed from the great concerns that handle a nation's commerce? Wherever the investigator's probe enters the business body it seems to penetrate a festering sore. First it was Standard Oil, then insurance, next the beef trust, and now it is the Pennsylvania railroad. How long is it to continue?

To one who wants to think well of his fellows, who loves his country, who is a disciple of the gospel of optimism, who believes in an innate divinity in humanity, such disclosures are disquieting and with so frequent repetitions become nauseating and sickening. Every right minded man likes to be constructive, desires to look on the good, prefers sunlight to darkness. But what is he to do when the whole public atmosphere is reeking with odors of moral filth, when his ears are bombarded by charges of evil, when the fumes shut out the sight of good and even cloud the sun itself?

There is one thing he can do—array himself on the side of truth and righteousness.

There is one other thing he can do—resolutely seek the good; hold it up to be seen of all men; find that the masses of the people are yet sound and proclaim them so; strike the positive note that faith and truth and honor yet live; behold the right, cling to it and let the wrong die of its own shame; think of health in the body politic; appeal to the better natures of men; refuse to think all tainted because some are so; get out of the negative attitude of fault finding and into the constructive attitude of faith in the natural nobility of man.

Pardon the preachment, but there are so many prophets of evil that it is well now and then to sound the other note, even if it is only for the sake of variety. The hammer of the builder makes more music than that of the knocker.

Economic Earthquake.

Some people can be cheerful in the midst of an earthquake. That is what we need now. This perhaps is the beginning of an economic earthquake, and we shall require all our self possession and sanity before it is through. We must learn to discriminate between a rogue and an honest man. Though the trusts are full of grafters, we must still have faith in the plain people, whom Jefferson trusted and whom Lincoln loved.

The inquiry into the coal carrying railroads by the interstate commerce commission has added another chapter to the book of corporate iniquity. Gross favoritism has been revealed, gifts of money and stock to railway officials have been avowed, involving bribery direct and indirect. These disclosures have most affected the great Pennsylvania system, showing a condition of corruption among its higher officials of alarmingly wide extent. So far, however, the highest official of all, President Cassatt, has not been involved or at least has been involved only by implication.

Cassatt, who has been called the best trained and most capable railroad man in America if not in the world, is worth a study for and of himself. So, leaving all his grafty subordinates, let us get into a more tonic atmosphere by examining him and his work. He is constructive to the highest degree, daring to the point of audacity, a radical expansionist believing in the future and with sufficient courage and confidence to act on his belief. He has had the insight to see the immense growth of the country's business and to know that the railroad which measures up to the occasion and keeps abreast of this advancement is the one that will reap the largest harvests from the country's rapidly increasing trade. There is nothing of the conservative about A. J. Cassatt. He is in no sense a laggard. He practically went out of the railway field for seventeen years because the Pennsylvania management was too slow for his ardent nature. When he returned it was because he could carry out his ideals.

A Daring Project.

In the last few years he has projected improvements that involved the outlay of at least $100,000,000. The biggest of these is the projected tunnels under the North river, the immense station in New York city and the extension of the line under the East river and into Brooklyn and Long Island. This daring project made the railroad men of the country gasp. Yet practically all of them have already come to see the wisdom of the move.

PRESIDENT CASSATT.

The North river tunnels introduce a new feature in engineering. They are to be practically subaqueous bridges. For the most part they are being driven through the mud under the river bottom. This mud is not sufficient to hold up the immense weight of locomotives and trains that will pass through the tunnels. For that reason great steel screws are to be sunk down to bed rock, and the tracks are to rest on these. This is equivalent to a system of steel trestle work in the mud under the river. It took a daring genius to carry through a plan as novel as that.

The man who invented this expedient is Charles M. Jacobs, who has been truly called the world's greatest subaqueous tunnel engineer. Jacobs built the first tunnel under the East river, New York, as well as under the North river. He really surveyed and projected nearly all the subways in the American metropolis. Years ago he outlined the scheme for entering New York which the Pennsylvania is now following. He invented the shield system for boring tunnels under river beds and introduced the novel and efficient plan of pushing these great cylindrical shields forward as one would drive a stake through the dirt, pushing the mud aside instead of the longer and more expensive process of removing it. Jacobs is now in charge of six tunnels under the North river and is consulting engineer on several more under the East river. Four of the North river tunnels are for the Pennsylvania, two railroad and two trolley. Four more railroad tunnels under the East river are also for the Pennsylvania. Jacobs has worked out these plans and made the gigantic undertaking possible. But behind him has stood the indomitable will of Cassatt.

Tracks Under Two Rivers.

It is almost impossible for the lay mind to conceive the magnitude of this entry of the Pennsylvania into New York. It involves a system of tracks under two rivers and two cities, leading all the way from New Jersey to Long Island. It calls for the introduction of great electric motors in place of steam locomotives. It requires the building of one of the greatest railroad depots in the world. If one cares to venture into the realm of prediction, it will revolutionize transportation in New York city.

Yet this is only one of the improvements projected by Mr. Cassatt. Another is the great Pennsylvania station which is to be erected in Washington. Still another is his gaining control of other railways, such as the Chesapeake and Ohio. It was this move, by the way, which precipitated the investigation, with all its grafty unfoldings. Yet an additional improvement being carried forward by this radical innovator is the straightening of the tracks through the mountains. The same attempt at betterment is being carried on through a thousand and one minor details. Now, if he would but go a step farther and eliminate favoritism and corruption from his railway management he would indeed prove himself a practical reformer that would deserve well of mankind.

Alexander Johnston Cassatt is in his sixty-seventh year. He is one of those young old men who do not lose their initiative, ardor and progressiveness with years; in other words, who do not ossify into conservatism. He was born in Allegheny, of which aristocratic city his father was once mayor. Young Cassatt had the best educational advantages, part of his course being taken in Heidelberg, Germany.

Did Not Balk at a Menial Place.

He returned to America, however, determined to go into engineering. That was just at the outbreak of the civil war, when civil engineers were in demand. In 1861 he helped to locate a railroad in Georgia. Returning north, he applied for a place on the Pennsylvania, and nothing was open but the position of rodman. Now, a rodman bears about the same relation to engineering that a hod carrier does to the building trade. But this highly educated son of a rich father did not balk at the menial place. He took it and proved such an efficient rodman that he was soon advanced.

Cassatt showed that he was not afraid to work and that he had individual initiative. These qualities win among real men anywhere, and they won on the Pennsylvania.

Colonel Tom Scott, the genius of the road, who had a keen appreciation of men, saw the stuff that was in the young engineer and rapidly pushed him to the front. In 1867 Cassatt was made superintendent of motive power and machinery for the entire system. It was at about this time that he advocated and had adopted one of his daring innovations. There was no means of handling rapidly and adequately the southern fruit supply. Cassatt brought forward a plan of extending the Pennsylvania to the coast and introducing a system of fast ferries, the longest ferry haul, by the way, in the world. It was expensive, but it paid.

Another Cassatt coup was in buying a line of road which the Pennsylvania needed in its business. The Baltimore and Ohio also needed that same line, and one of its officials one day gleefully announced to President Roberts of the Pennsylvania that the Baltimore and Ohio had the matter cinched. He had counted without Cassatt, however. That young man had seen what was coming and had quietly located a block of stock of which the Baltimore and Ohio official was ignorant. It was this block of stock which secured the much sought line for the Pennsylvania and which also secured Cassatt the first vice presidency.

In 1880 the progressives thought that Mr. Cassatt should be elected to the presidency of the road. The conservatives won, however, and as a result two years later he practically left railroading and went on to a fine stock farm near Philadelphia. He still remained a director of the company and initiated many of its policies, but to all intents and purposes he remained in retirement for seventeen years. He was a breeder of fast horses and became one of the leaders on the turf as he had before been with fast iron horses.

Upon the death of the former president the Pennsylvania concluded that it needed Cassatt. The story of the manner of that choice is interesting. The directors agreed that the man should be chosen who had been responsible for most improvements. As each one of these was checked off it was found that Cassatt had proposed practically all of them. Cassatt therefore was the man.

The committee to notify him of his election found him on the golf links. At first he refused to accept. Then Mrs. Cassatt, who, by the way, is a niece of President James Buchanan, was induced to use her influence. As a result A. J. Cassatt laid aside his golf sticks, sold his fast horses and took upon himself the management of the greatest railroad system on earth.

Allen.

Services at Allen Methodist Episcopal Church next Sunday as follows: Sunday School 7.30 a m.; preaching 11.30 a. m. and 8.00 p. m.

Mrs. A. S. Porter had the misfortune to stumble and fall on Friday afternoon last and break the small bone in her right wrist. Dr. Long set the broken member and at this time she is getting along all right.

Died Monday afternoon last at four o'clock after an illness of three days from a fatal stroke of paralysis, Mr. R. J. Stewart Sr., aged seventy-seven years. The death of Mr. Stewart removes from this place one of the oldest and most respected citizens. He was a staunch Republican and while he never held office, he was at all times anxious about affairs of his party. He leaves a widow, four daughters and one son. His remains were laid away in the family lot in the cemetery here Tuesday afternoon, after services conducted by the Rev. J. W. Baker. A large throng of friends and relatives were present.

Ellis—Conway.

Miss Carrie M. Conway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Conway, on East Church street, and Mr. Ira A. Ellis, of near West Point, Va., were married at 7.30 o'clock Thursday morning in the St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church by Rev. David Howard. The ceremony was a quiet one, no one but the immediate friends and relatives of both being present. The bride was gowned in a going-away suit of grey silk, with hat and gloves to match. After the wedding the two left on the morning express to spend their honeymoon in Baltimore and Washington, D. C.

The bride is a graduate of the Salisbury High School and has recently taught school in Nutters district. Hebron Md. June 27, 1906.

Editor Courier:—There appeared in the columns of the Salisbury Advertiser a statement to the effect that the people of the M. E. Church of Hebron were at a loss about holding a camp at Hebron this year. I want to say that the writer was mistaken or wrongly informed. The people of Hebron and the official board have never thought of giving up the camp since it was decided to hold one. I hope the people of the Hebron M. E. Church are not so bad as some people try to make out they are. We are a loyal people and doing the best we can for the town and community. As to the camp it will be just what the people make it. We can have as good a camp as we ever had, if the people go for that purpose, so let us go to the camp with the determination to make it a spiritual success, and we hope and pray that the people of both churches will work together for the upbuilding of christianity in our town. For this let us labor and pray and leave the results with the Lord.

Hebron, Md., June 26, 1906.

Editor of the Courier:— A party of athletically inclined young gentlemen of Hebron and there abouts recently oraganized "The Club" alias "Our Loafing Place." Well of course an athletic club was no good without a ball team and a ball team was worse than nothing without beer so the natural conclusion was, get a keg and "rush the growler" every night. The beer was sent for and in due time arrived very nicely enclosed in a box labled "Early June peas." The "peas" were taken from the station and care fully hidden away in an unoccupied building nearby but alas, some one saw the "peas" and as soon as each member of the club had taken a "can" previous to going to Delmar to play a game of ball with the team of that town, that precious case was removed to safer quarters for future service. After the ball game, which resulted 21 to 3 in favor of Delmar the "club" slowly wended their way homeward consoling themselves on what was awaiting their return. Boys the next time you play ball, play before you get "June Peas" and when you get "June Peas" take better care of them.

"Bottle Paper" Found.

One of the United States Hydrographic Office's "bottle papers" was found Tuesday one mile north of Ocean City, Md., by Mr. E. Allan Sauerwein, of Baltimore. The bottle in which the paper had been sealed was found on the beach among a lot of wreckage, consisting of oars, potatoes, barrels and other flotsam and jetsam, all cast up on the beach by the tide. The paper was thrown overboard, as the filled-in blank stated, by Second Officer J. C. Lagerwey, of the Dutch steamer Prince Wilhelm II, from New York June 6 for Port au Prince. The bottle was thrown over board June 7 in longitude 74 degrees 2 minutes west and latitude 38 degrees 24 minutes north.

The Hydrographic Office furnishes the papers to be thrown overboard to drift ashore in order to determine the set of currents.
